

PREST. ROOSEVELT IS SWORN IN.

Takes Oath of Office in Library of Mr. Wilcox's House, Judge Hazel Administering It—Announces He Will Continue Absolutely and Without Variance the Policy of Pres. McKinley.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt reached Buffalo at 1:40 this afternoon, accompanied only by his private secretary, William Loeb, Jr. An immense crowd which had been awaiting his arrival for hours, was gathered about the station eager to catch a first sight of the President. The train, however, did not enter the station proper, but the President landed at the terrace. When he left the train, an escort of the Fourth signal corps formed about him and conducted him to an automobile, which his friend, Ansley Wilcox, had in waiting.

As soon as he entered the vehicle the chauffeur turned the lever, and the automobile went skimming away to the residence of Mr. Wilcox on Delaware avenue. Twenty mounted police clattering along on either side could with difficulty keep the race which the automobile set. President Roosevelt declined to make any statement whatever for publication. "I was shocked," said he, "by the terrible news brought to me last night and by the calamity which it entailed upon the country, as well as by personal sorrow, while I feel that I have had no time to think of plans for the future conduct of the office which has been so suddenly and sadly thrust upon me."

The President arrived at the Wilcox home at 1:45 o'clock, his only attendants being Mr. Wm. Loeb, Jr., his secretary, and Mr. Ansley Wilcox. The place selected was the library of Mr. Wilcox's house, a rather small room, but picturesque, the heavy oak trimmings and the massive book case giving somewhat the appearance of a legal den. Surrounding him were the few members of the cabinet, Secretaries Root, Hitchcock, Long, Wilson and Postmaster General Smith. Near by were Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Judge of the Court of Appeals Haight, John Scatcherd, Mr. and Mrs. Ansley Wilcox, Miss Wilcox, George P. Sawyer, Dr. Mann, Park and Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Milburn, Secretary to the President Wm. Loeb, Jr., assistants to the deceased President, George B. Corbely, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Carey, R. C. Scatcherd, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jeffers, of the United States Senate, and Judge of the United States district Court John R. Hazel.

Judge Hazel stood near the President in the bay window and of his old friend's almost extreme nervousness by plucking at the lapel of his long frock coat and nervously tapping the hard wood floor with his heel. He stepped over at once to Sec. Root and for about five minutes they conversed earnestly. The question at issue was whether the President should first sign an oath of office and then be sworn in, or whether he should swear in first and sign the document in the case after.

At precisely 3:32 he said in an almost inaudible voice: "I have been requested on behalf of the cabinet of the late President, at least those who are present in Buffalo, all except two, to request that for reasons of weight, affecting the affairs of government, you should proceed to take the constitutional oath of President of the United States."

Judge Hazel had stepped to the rear of the President and Mr. Roosevelt, coming close to Sec. Root said in a voice, that at first wavered, but finally came deep and strong, while as if to control his nervousness he held firmly to the lapel of his coat with his right hand:

"I shall take the oath at once, in accordance with your request, and in this hour of deep and terrible national bereavement, I wish to state that it shall be my aim to continue absolutely unbroken, the policy of President McKinley for the peace and prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

The President stepped farther into the bay window and Judge Hazel, taking up the constitutional oath of office which had been prepared on parchment, asked the President to raise his right hand and repeat it after him. There was a hush like death in the room as the judge read a few words at the time and the President in a strong voice and without a tremor and with his raised hand as steady as if carved from marble, repeated it after him. "And thus I swear," he ended it. The hand dropped from his side, the chin for an instant rested on his breast and the silence remained unbroken for a couple of minutes as though the new President of the United States was offering silent prayer. Judge Hazel broke it, saying: "Mr. President, please attach your signature." And the President turning to a small table near by wrote "Theodore Roosevelt" at the bottom of the document in a firm hand.

"I should like to see the members of the cabinet a few moments after the others retire," said the President and this was the signal for the score of people who had been favored by witnessing the ceremony, to retire. As they turned to go, the President said: "I will shake hands with you people gladly," and with something of his old smile returning he first shook hands with the members of the cabinet present, then Senator Depew and finally with a few guests and newspaper men.

A BEAUTIFUL GIRL

Suffered for Months with Indigestion---
Pe-ru-na Completely Cured Her.

MISS LEONA MATHIS,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

MISS LEONA MATHIS writes from 1015 15th ave., South, Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"I cannot say enough in praise of Pe-ru-na as a splendid tonic. I suffered for four months with indigestion and catarrh of the stomach. My food would not digest properly; I lost flesh and became very nervous. Nothing helped me until I tried Pe-ru-na. This brought health back to me."

"Since that time (nearly a year ago), I have taken a few doses off and on when I felt badly and it helped me at once. Pe-ru-na seems to relieve the system from all the ill effects generally produced by illness and seems to fill a long felt want."—Leona Mathis.

Was Never In Such Splendid Condition.

Mrs. S. Reina, Gairy, Fla., writes: "I am one of the healthiest women in the State of Florida. My appetite is great. I was never in such splendid condition in my life before. Before I began taking Pe-ru-na and Maudlin, I would eat about four times a week—now I eat about seven times a day. I was the most nervous person you ever saw—would cry and worry myself and everyone else. I couldn't sleep at all and now I sleep splendidly."

"I have a friend here that has been in bed for four years. She took your medicine and is now doing her own work."—Mrs. S. Reina.

Miss Mattie L. Cook, Takoma Park, D. C., writes:

"Pe-ru-na has done for me what other medicines failed to do. It has given me perfect health and strength. When I wrote you first I had systemic catarrh, my nose had been sore for three years in the right side, I had been bothered with a choking for a year, had pains in my side, and palpitation of the heart. My feet were nearly always cold and I had a dreadful cough."

"Whenever I feel the least ailment I shall return to my friend Pe-ru-na. There is nothing that I can say that would be too good. When I began taking Pe-ru-na I was at home in Virginia sick, but now I am well, thanks to Dr. Hartman's Pe-ru-na."—Mattie L. Cook.

The Praise of a U. S. Senator's Wife.

Mrs. F. E. Warren, wife of the late Governor and now United States Senator F. E. Warren, of Wyoming, writes the following voluntary testimonial to the value of Pe-ru-na. She says:

"I am never without Pe-ru-na either in my home or in my travels. It is truly a great triumph of scientific medicine. I am constantly troubled with coughs, colds, etc., but thanks to your good medicine, Pe-ru-na, I always find a prompt cure. I believe no medicine ever brought before the public has effected so many permanent cures as Pe-ru-na."—Mrs. F. E. Warren, 1843 Wyoming street, Washington, D. C.

The diseases most common in summer are those of the stomach, bowels and other pelvic organs. A remedy that cures all the catarrhal derangements of these organs should certainly be considered a household necessity during warm weather. Pe-ru-na is such a remedy. A book of testimonials, containing hundreds of cures, sent free to any address.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O., will treat all catarrhal weaknesses peculiar to women free during the summer months. All letters for advice given prompt and careful attention.

SORROW TURNED TO RESIGNATION.

The First Sharp Pang of Grief
Succeeded by Calmness.

TELEGRAMS OF CONDOLENCE

Salt Lake Express Themselves Officially Over the Sad Event—A Moment of Universal Admiration.

Salt Lake has settled into a calm state of resignation; for it knows now what it must face. The intense tension to which the nerves of the people have been strung for the past week has relaxed and left the latter to their silent helpless grief.

In dealing this awful blow to the nation, the anarchists could surely have done nothing so fatal to themselves. In their mad career they have cut down many great and powerful men but they were in some instances rulers whose tyranny engendered bitter hate and their taking off was sanctioned in a minor key among nearly all classes. But in the slaying of President McKinley they coveted too great and highly beloved a victim, and now they will have 75,000,000 outraged people to reckon with. Already the governor of Utah and other state executives are talking about the enactment of laws against anarchy and no doubt the next Congress will write into an inexorable law the spirit of the nation in relation to that mad deed. This land of freedom has had its soil consecrated with the blood of three of its presidents within the last half century. The first to fall was a man who was sublime in his patience, and the nation that idolized him has tried to emulate that noble attribute. But her patience, like the great patience of the mighty Lincoln has been outrageously abused, and the people without a doubt will now take stern steps to provide against being imposed upon in the future.

The feeling of sorrow over the President and the tenderest pity for his wife, whom he so truly loved, pervades every man's heart today. Every one seen on the streets is wondering how it is with Mrs. McKinley, for they can measurely realize how poignant is her grief there in the Milburn house.

"What a grand thing it is," said a man today, "for this nation to have had a ruler who recognized the hand of the Omnipotent in his fatal misfortune and said at the last 'It is God's way.' It bears sublime testimony to the people of the United States, of the character of the man that attracted them and the source from whence came his greatness."

Telegrams of Condolence.

Senator Kearns early this morning sent the following telegram:

Salt Lake, Sept. 14.
From the depths of my heart I sympathize with you in your bereavement and feel that I have part with you in your sorrow and loss.

Salt Lake, Sept. 14.
The people of Utah are overwhelmed with sorrow because of the death of President McKinley, and realize fully the country's loss in being deprived of his wise and calm guidance. The past week of dismay and anxiety, succeeded as it was by a joyous hope for the President's speedy recovery, showed how close he was to the hearts of our citizens. To our grief is added horror that the country's great loss was brought about by the bullet of an assassin and wonder that in a free land anyone could be base enough to commit so foul a crime.

Senator Joseph S. Rawlins sent the following message to Secretary of State Hay this morning: "It was the will of the majority of the people last November that Mr. McKinley should be President another four years. When that will was expressed it became the will of all the people. Because he was President he was shot and the pain of that wound was universally felt. Every citizen is saddened at the awful tragedy and its fatal consequences. Personally, no President has been more highly esteemed. Heartfelt sympathy goes to his stricken wife. But it is not a personal or a private matter—it is a universal public bereavement. Today the deepest sorrow afflicts the nation." Governor Wells sent the following telegram to Mrs. McKinley in condolence with her over the death of President McKinley: "Words are inadequate to express the depth of the sympathy which all of the people of Utah feel at the loss of your gentle, loving, manly husband, our great and good President. May the comforting spirit of the Father comfort you and give you strength to endure the terrible bereavement."

HEBER M. WELLS,
Governor of Utah.

A MEMORIAL PROGRAM.

Solemn and Affectionate Recital Given at the Tabernacle This Morning.

The gallery in the Tabernacle was well filled this morning at the recital by people of the city and many visitors, including the Texas Press association. A "memorial" program was rendered out of respect to the late President McKinley and the solemn numbers were very moving. No applause was indulged in but the appreciation of the music was very marked in other ways. Prof. McClellan rendered Handel's "Largo," which was followed by the celebrated funeral march by Chopin. The quartet composed of Miss Lucilla Parrin, Miss Arvilla Clark and Messrs. Pyper and Goddard sang, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "I Need Thee Every Hour." The Andantino was a much appreciated number and when the "Star Spangled Banner" pealed forth the audience arose.

TEXAS EDITORS IN TOWN.

Train a Little Reluctant, but They Make Up for Lost Time.

The train carrying the Texas Press association arrived in the city at 11 o'clock this morning just two hours late. Another contingent of the party, which got left in Denver, arrived about 1 o'clock this afternoon. As soon as the visitors alighted from the train they were hustled into street cars and conducted to the Tabernacle to hear the organ recital. They enjoyed the organ immensely and after the recital lingered to ask a number of questions. The party put up at the Walker House and after luncheon the Sanitarium was visited and an enthusiastic plunge was indulged in. The editors then boarded the 4:30 train for Salt Lake and are now banking in the balmy breeze of the famous old place. The party is under the able chaperage of President D. F. Felt, of the Utah Press association. The personnel of the party is as follows:

When seen today at the Kenyon Mr. Pingree expressed his horror at the assassination of the President. In speaking of it he said that he first heard the details of the tragedy this morning, when he obtained the papers. He is of the opinion that the business interests of the country will not suffer in consequence of the President's death. The brother of Mr. Pingree, the late governor of Michigan, achieved fame as the mayor of Detroit when he organized potato farms during the hard times of some years ago, and gave employment to many people who from the severity of work were out of employment. The late governor died in London last June.

NO FINANCIAL PANIC COMING.

It will be exceedingly gratifying to the people of Utah to learn that the leading bankers of Salt Lake do not apprehend any great hurry in the financial world as a result of President McKinley's death. They are almost unanimously of the opinion that within a comparatively short time financial affairs will have regained their wonted equilibrium and continue much the same as they have done throughout the administration of President McKinley. Several of the heads of local banks when seen today expressed themselves as follows:

W. S. McCormick & Co.—I think there will be nothing more than a temporary depression in the price of stocks. The effect that President McKinley's death would have in financial affairs has already been largely discounted. The severity will be nothing like what would have come had his death been sudden. Speculators, of course, will do what they can to drive prices down, but in my opinion will not succeed to any great extent. Some times this class makes a mistake and think it will make one in this case. It expects to realize much out of the country's sorrow. There was no stock call in New York today and before there is another Sunday will intervene and people will have time to think and act liberally in whatever they do. I do not look for President Roosevelt to make many changes in the policy that was laid down and followed by President McKinley. It would be foolish for him to do so. Roosevelt is a level headed man and I do not think he will make any attempt in the direction indicated.

He has been the governor of New York and has shown himself to be the President of himself. The man who can govern New York with success can come pretty nearly governing the United States with success. Roosevelt will not disappoint the American people. L. S. Hays of the Deseret National Bank—The effect upon the stock market, by reason of President McKinley's death, will only be temporary. It will draw a class of men on to the market who never go on to it except in the event of some big misfortune like this. After it is all over they will go off again and keep off until some other similar catastrophe occurs. In my opinion the financial markets of the country will remain undisturbed and normal conditions will soon prevail again. I do not think that President Roosevelt will inaugurate any new policy. He should be willing to let good enough alone, and I think he will. The members of the cabinet, as now constituted, will, of course, hand in their resignations. Some of them, I understand, would like to quit earlier and may do so, but my opinion is that the new President will reappoint at least the most of the members now serving.

Cashier George M. Cannon of the Zion's Savings Bank and Trust company, in my judgment the death of President McKinley will not produce as great a shock to financial interests as if it had occurred without warning. I think, too, that the policy of the new President will be very much in line with that of President McKinley; and that while his advisers may not be the same, no radical change will be made in the policy on industrial and commercial lines. He has no reason to fear any disturbance in financial matters in Salt Lake City.

Colonel Donellan, when asked today as to the probable effect the death of President McKinley would have on the business interests of the country, said: "I think there will be no disturbance in the business and banking circles of the country, and hardly a flurry in the stock markets. The country is universally prosperous and there is no reason to believe that the policy of the government will be changed. The great financial interests of the country have been preparing ever since the shooting of the President, to protect business interests and the New York Clearing House association board arranged for the issuance of forty millions of their certificates to protect the banks of New York on the day the President was shot. These certificates can be used between the banks as currency and as

CARNIVAL WILL BE HELD.

Elks' Fair Must Go On Despite the Death of President McKinley.

While the Members of B. P. O. E. Mourn His Untimely End They Have $25,000 in Big Fair.

The Elks' carnival, despite conflicting rumors, will be held next week, but will be closed for one day during memorial services in honor of the departed martyred President. Such is the decision that has been arrived at among those in charge of the affair that has been so widely advertised. In the face of the fact that the committee is under contracts aggregating $15,000 to hold this carnival in the stipulated time and also has spent up to date over $10,000 on arrangements for the fair, even a postponement would mean a great financial loss. Already all the people engaged to participate in the carnival have arrived on the scene, reduced rates have been instituted on the railroads and every preparation made for the big event. The news of the death of the President was received at the Elks' headquarters with universal grief and regret, for not only had the Chief Executive of the country been called away, but by his untimely death the Elks throughout the United States had lost a brother. The departed President was a member of the B. P. O. E., having joined that fraternal organization at Canton, O., two years ago. Thus it is that the Elks are mourning a double loss. They would like to close up the impending carnival, but they have gone too deeply into the affair to abandon it in its entirety at this late hour. Consequently the executive committee in charge of the fair has reluctantly decided that the carnival must be held. At the same time everything that can be done towards the observance of the national calamity by closing the fair during the hours of memorial services will be done.

HANDSOME SOUVENIR.

Elegant Publication for the Elks' Street Carnival Festivities.

The souvenir of the Elks' carnival has been received from the hands of the binder by the committee in charge of the festivities. All who have seen the attractive booklet have been loud in their praise of the artistic effort which stands uniquely alone among other publications of its class from the fact that it contains not one line of advertising matter of any description. The souvenir consists of a neat book finished in purple. The outside cover bears a handsome design drawn by F. P. Ellis from ideas furnished by Joe Enzenberger, past exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks, it being that of a fine elk standing upon a cliff overlooking the city of Salt Lake with the mountains and Salt Lake in the distance. In all the booklet contains 27 half-tone cuts, all of which, with the exception of the big elk, the Elks' new home and Queen Mabelle, are reproductions of the photos of the officers and members of Salt Lake City Lodge No. 55. The cuts, which are the work of the De Bouske Engraving company, of this city, are excellent. The souvenir also contains a brief history of the order, together with a roster of its officers and members in Utah. The publication is from the press of the Deseret News.
