

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Sister Burrows, wife of W. Burrows of Huntsville, died on Monday of heart failure. She was 60 years of age. One of her sons is away from home filling a mission.

W. S. Brown of 2609 Lincoln Avenue died Monday. He was 68 years of age. He came from England forty years ago and was well known in Ogden. Death was caused by apoplexy.

A private telegram received Wednesday afternoon announced that the steamship Rhineland, with a party of Utah people on board, had arrived at Liverpool all well. The Utah party left Salt Lake April 18th, and sailed from Philadelphia a week later.

Edward F. Harmlater, ex-postmaster at Vernal, Uintah county, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of misappropriation of government funds. The case was speedily disposed of by Judge Marshall sentencing him to two years in the State prison and ordering him to pay a fine of $2,748.57. The defendant was turned over to United States Marshal Brigham, who sent him out to the place of his enforced residence for the next two years, which he may be able to reduce somewhat by good behavior.

It was reported Wednesday to the police that a demented woman was tramping through the pastures at Slaterville. Sheriff Wright went out and found her near Plata City. She was brought into town and taken to the Crittenden home and will be cared for. From what could be learned she is a small woman about 30 years of age and had been employed as a domestic at Salt Lake and Bountiful, but left her employment on account of some trouble which affected her mind. It is expected that kind treatment will bring her all right again.

Sister Ann Keeler, mother of Bishop J. B. Keeler of the Fourth ward, died Wednesday from general debility, at the age of 78 years and 3 months. The deceased was in England and emigrated to America when 12 years of age. She resided in New Jersey till 1852 when she left for Utah, having joined the Church in 1852. She resided in Salt Lake City till 1858 when she removed to Provo, where she has since lived. Her husband, D. H. Keeler, died in 1883. The deceased was the mother of James Taylor of West Jordan, by a former husband.

Several accidents have happened within a few days. A little girl of Policeman King's fell a considerable distance from the staircase to the floor below, in the Benson school building, while attempting to slide down the bannister. She sprained a wrist, knocked two teeth loose, cut a gash on her chin and received a number of bruises.

A rather remarkable accident happened to George Lloyd, a young man of Wellsville. In some mysterious way, it is supposed by stepping on a loose board, he dislocated his knee while walking along the street.

A third accident was that which happened to a boy named Roberts, whose bicycle ran against some unseen obstacle, throwing him head first against a tree. He remained in an unconscious condition for more than an hour.

At Five Points, Miss Florence Anderton, aged six years, died from blood poisoning caused by an accident. The child went with her mother last Tuesday to visit a neighbor. While there she had the misfortune to fall and break the lower bone of the forearm. The mother, unaware that the bone was broken, bandaged the arm up and brought the bone to its place but the bone had broken through the flesh. The mother in dressing the wound thought it was caused by a stick. The child became sick and Dr. Joyce was called when the lower half of the broken bone was cut out. Eight hours after the operation the child died. Nineteen years ago Mrs. Anderton's son, 7 years old, was accidentally shot and killed, and four years ago her husband was killed by being accidentally shot. The remains of little Florence were taken to Evanston for interment.

James A. Stewart, an old soldier who claims to have done duty in the civil war, was before justice Sells Wednesday at the instigation of Charles H. Crow, a harness maker, from whom Stewart had previously purchased a set of harness. It appears that the old soldier was short of money at the time of making the purchase of Crow, and he tendered as security for the goods a $200 check on Riggs & Co. of Washington. Shortly thereafter Crow learned upon inquiry that Stewart had no money in the Washington banking house, and he accordingly notified the sheriff, whose deputies intercepted the old gentleman a few days ago at Nephi and brought him to this city. When arrested he had some money on his person which he turned over to Mr. Crow in part payment of his claim, but as it was not a complete liquidation of the debt, the old soldier was committed to the county jail. Stewart claims that some years ago he deposited a sum of money with Riggs & Co., and that as he never drew it out, it should be there yet.

The closing exercises of the Logan city district schools were held in the Tabernacle on Friday last. The hundreds of happy faces turned toward the stand, where most of the exercises were rendered, made a very pleasing picture of "Utah's best crop." The songs, "Our Flag," sung to the accompaniment of a waving flag in the hand of each child, and Utah, We Love Thee, were delivered in good time and with great spirit. A number of fancy drills, to vocal and instrumental accompaniment, were executed with precision and grace, and an extensive program of songs and recitations was rendered without a flaw. The teachers deserve much praise for the creditable exhibition of the result of their labors. On Saturday evening the teachers met at the home of Mr. J. A. Hendrickson to enjoy a little social relaxation after the arduous labors of the school year, and on the eve of parting for the summer vacation. Several members of the board of education accepted the invitation offered them, and shared in the banquet and other pleasures of the evening.

An order providing for the proper observance of Decoration Day by the National Guard of Utah was yesterday issued from the office of Adjutant General Cannon and sent to the brigade commander. It is as follows:

HEADQUARTERS NATIONAL GUARD OF UTAH.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 11, 1896.

General order No. 3.

The 30th of May being a national holiday and set aside as an occasion for honoring the nation's dead, it is appropriate that the national guard participate in the ceremonies of the day.

There will therefore be a general parade on the 30th of May next of the organizations of the National Guard of Utah at their respective stations, and as far as practicable in conjunction with the ceremonies to be observed by the local authorities and civic organizations. All officers of the staff and line within their respective limits, are directed to co-operate in the effort to make the turnout of the guard as creditable, and the occasion itself as impressive, as possible. The brigadier general will issue detailed instructions to the Salt Lake troops, and such general instructions to the remainder of the guard as he may deem necessary for the proper execution of this order. By order of the commander in chief.

JOHN Q. CANNON,
Adjutant General.

FARMINGTON, May 9, 1896.

Our district schools closed yesterday with three cheers from the hundreds of school children and others standing in front of our school building, hurrahing for the new forty-five-star flag which had just been raised over the bell tower. Three hearty cheers were also given to Colonel Tatlock for presenting the flag to the school.

The commencement exercises began at 2 and ended at 4, when the flag raising ceremonies were carried out. Colonel Tatlock and party arrived on the 3:50 train.

The program consisted of a song of welcome by the school, and other songs, recitations, speeches, etc.

Our infantry company, under Captain D. A. Sanders and Lieutenants Lamb and Thomas, in uniform, with their war weapons, made an imposing and interesting feature of the program.

Colonel Tatlock in his presentation remarks paid a high compliment to "our boys in blue" and made an appropriate and patriotic speech. Jos. E. Robinson, chairman of the board of trustees delivered a fitting address of acceptance and other interesting speeches were made by J. D. Gillilan and J. H. Burgoon of Salt Lake City of the colonel's party.

Our teachers were, principal, L. E. Abbott, and assistants Clara Leonard, Aigle Walker and Hattie Knowlton.

HARRISVILLE, Utah,
May 9th, 1896.

On page 634 of the WEEKLY of May 2nd, under the heading "Hand Crt Mission," and signed George Goddard, I find it stated that Captain George Rowley left Florence June 9th, 1857, and arrived in Utah Sept. 14 h. 1857.

I copy from my journal: "Having through the blessings of God saved some money, I left Manchester, England, for Liverpool April 5th, 1859, where I purchased a passage on the
