BONAPARTE'S CAPTIVITY. AST NIGHT'S LECTURE IN THE THE-

A large and intelligent andience assembled at the Theatre last evening, to hear the lecture by Mr. James A. Mc-Knight on the Captivity of Bonaparte at St. Helena. The lecture was very interesting and gave good satisfaction, and for fully an hour and three-quarters the speaker had the undivided attention of his hearers. A prominent feature was the exhibition of some fine stereopticon views, illustrating the subject, thrown by an operator stationed in the first circle; upon a canvas covering a space as large as the Theatre curtain, immediately in the rear of the lecturer upon the stage. Mr. McKnight prefaced his lecture by a brief allusion to the main points, good and evil, in Napoleon's character, and took the position that whatever ANOTHER rousing Temperance meet- might be said for or against the dead did by a power superior to himself. The speaker then gave a hurried sketch of the events in Bonaparte's career immediately preceding the subject under consideration, from his exile to Elba to the Battle of Waterloo and his surconveyed to the Island of St. Helena.

The first view shown was the landing at Jamestown, the only point on the Island where it is practicable for boats to put in. Next came "The Briars," a pleasant little cottage, where the "MIRALDA, or the Justice of Tacon," | captive first stopped, while the "barn" will be played in the Fourth Ward at Longwood was being prepared for school house next Thursday and Satur- his reception, and where he desired to remain, but was prevented by the strict orders to the contrary given by the English Government. A resolution was presented which had been unanimously adopted by the High Council of the Stake, to the effect that Bishop's Courts in withdrawing fellowship from members of their Wards, should disfellowship them from the Church, and not from the Ward only. It was explained that in some cases where a person had been "disfellowshipped from the Ward," he took advantage of the limited verbal application and went to another Ward and partook of the Sacrament as a member of the Church, whereas he was virtually disfellowshipped by the decision of the Bishop's court, from the Church, unless the High Council had reversed that decision.

It was further explained that in the case of a member being disfellowshipped by a Bishop's court, who held the Melchisedee Priesthood, his case should be handed up for the action of the High Council, and eyen where he held only the Aaronic Priesthood, the right of appeal from the Bishop's court was always open to those who felt themselves wronged by it.

The question was asked it it was necessary for a Bishop, after his court had disfellowshipped a person, to present that person's name to the Ward congregation for them to sustain the Bishop's decision in the matter. Present that person's name to the Ward congregation had no power to reverse the Bishop's action, which could only be done by a body of the Priesthood of the encoachments of their commendations of the Bishop's decision in the matter. Present that person's name to the Ward congregation had no power to reverse the Bishop's action, which could only be done by a body of the Priesthood of the reconciliance of the roughle of the Priesthood of the accomplishment of the priesthood of the first was not necessary for a Bishop, after his court was always open to those who felt themselves wronged by it.
