TREATY WITH JAPAN.

The President to-day issued a proclamation promulgating the extradition treaty with Japan, which was ratified after being amended by the Senate last June.

The following is the proclamation:

This treaty is made public to the end that the same and every clause thereof as amended may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the [SEAL.] seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this third day of November, in the year of our Lord 1886, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and seventh.

(Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND.

By the President:
T. F. BAYARD,
Secretary of State.

The following is a synopsis of the treaty: The high contracting parties engage to deliver up to each other under the circumstances and conditions of the present treaty all persons who being accused or convicted of one of the following crimes or offenses committed within the jurisdiction of the one party shall be found within the jurisdiction of the other: (1) Murder and assault with intent to commit murder. (2) Counterfeiting or altering money, or uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money. (3) Counterfeiting certificates or coupons of public indebtedness, bank notes or other instruments of public credit of either of the parties, and the uttering or circulation of the same; the forgery of, altering and the uttering of what is forged or altered. (4) Embezzlement or criminal malversation of public funds, committed within the jurisdiction of either party by public officers or depositors. (5) Robbery. (6) Burglary. (7) The act of entering or breaking, or entering into the office of Government or public authorities, or offices of banks, trust companies, insurance or other companies, with intent to commit felony therein. (8) Perjury or subornation of perjury. (9) Rape. (10) Arson. (11) Piracy by the law of nations. (12) Murder, or assault to kill, and manslaughter on the high seas on board a ship bearing the flag of a demanding country. (13) The malicious destruction or attempt to destroy railways, vessels, bridges, dwellings, public edifices and other buildings when it might injure human life.

If any person demanded be held for trial in the country on which the demand is made it shall be optional with the latter to grant the extradition or to proceed with the trial, provided, that unless the trial be for crimes for which the fugitive is demanded, the delay shall not prevent the ultimate extradition. If it be made to appear that the extradition is sought with a view to trial or punishment for a political offense the surrender shall not take place, nor shall any person surrendered be tried or punished for political offenses committed prior to this extradition, or for any offense other than in respect of which the extradition is granted. Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention, but they shall have the power to deliver them if the demand is proper.

GREELEY.

The Secretary of War has approved the request made by the Chief Signal Officer that Lieut. Greeley be retained on duty in the Signal Office as assistant to General Hazen who is in ill health.

HAZEN,

Chief Signal Officer, has submitted to the Secretary of War, with a request for his approval and recommendation, the bill providing for the reorganization of the Signal Service, and its incorporation as a regular bureau of the War Department, having charge of weather predictions, army signalling, and the maintenance and repair of the army telegraph lines. The bill provides that the bureau shall consist of one chief signal officer, with the rank of Brigadier-General, such commissioned officers of lower grades as have been or may be provided for by law, 150 sergeants, 30 corporals, 20 privates, and the necessary civilian clerks, copyists, messengers, etc. The bill contemplates the transfer of sixteen second lieutenants now in the corps, as the vacancies occur, and provides that the President shall be authorized to detail twenty-two officers from the army as acting signal officers, who, when so detailed and instructed, shall not be relieved from signal duty, except for unfitness or other sufficient cause. The enlisted men are to be enlisted for four years and classified as 25 first-class sergeants at $1,600, 50 second-class sergeants at $1,400, 55 third-class sergeants at $1,300, 30 corporals at $1,200, 120 privates at $1,100, and 170 privates at $1,000.

THE COLD.

It is learned at the Signal Office that the cold wave which is now passing over the country extends from the Upper Lakes to the Gulf and from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. Its point of origin in the United States was in the Northwest, and it has maintained a southeasterly course. The cold wave signals of the Weather Bureau are displayed throughout the Atlantic, Middle and Gulf States.

At 7 a.m. to-day the thermometer in Washington indicated 17 deg., and it has varied little since that time. In Northern Minnesota it was 30 deg. below zero, and further north there was a still lower range. The zero isothermal extends throughout the Upper Lake regions, then bends southward to Milwaukee and Chicago, passes through the country lying to the south of Springfield and westward past Fort Buford, Dakota. The temperature indicates no change in the weather, and the officers of the service are of the opinion that it will be maintained for at least two days.

The Moen Matter Considerably Mixed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 2.—"Doc" Levi Wilson was seen at the office of his counsel, George J. West, this morning. He appeared pale and haggard as though he had passed a sleepless night. The excitement of the past few hours seemed to have affected him greatly, and he was nervous and apparently worn out. He said that now the secret was out, he felt better than he had since he was 17 years of age. "If" said he, "the Wilsons (meaning the people with whom he had lived during his boyhood days) stand by me now, I shall win my case and triumph over Moen." He said his alleged mother lived in East Thompson, Conn., and his two sisters Mrs. Downs and Mrs. Young, in Birmingham and Ansonia, Conn. Wilson stated that the story as published is true and that Moen's statement is false in nearly every particular. "Moen" Wilson said, "he knows that I am his son. He is an admitted perjurer." He said he would continue his case in the courts to a conclusion, which he felt confident would be in his favor. Wilson was advised by his physician to go to his home, take some quieting potion and devote the rest of the day to sleep.

WORCESTER, Mass., 2.—The secret of the case remains as much of a mystery as ever. The dates and all the evidence collected to-day contradicts the sensational story telegraphed from Providence last night that "Doc" Wilson is the son of Moen. Wilson by his own statement and the statement of his friends cannot be more than 31 or 32 years of age. Moen was first married in 1849 forty years ago and his first wife died before Wilson was born. Those dates alone contradict his story completely. Lifelong residents of Worcester say it is impossible that Moen could bear any such relation to Wilson. The first Mrs. Moen was a lady of a very lovely character. She was a firm and upright woman and neither she nor her family would have countenanced any such proceedings as are alleged. Moen's father was a New York iron merchant residing in Brooklyn when Moen came to Worcester.

An old chum of Wilson's in this city says there is no truth in the story: that Wilson is no more Moen's son than he is.

Miss Azenath Sampson, an aged nurse, says she went to live in Ichabod Washburn's family when Eliza Washburn, Moen's first wife was only 12 years old. She has nursed and been intimate with both families from that time to this. Wilson has cut his own fingers in telling this story for such an event as he alleges could not have taken place without her knowledge. She has nursed both of Moen's wives at the birth of all his children, and has known him intimately since he was 21 years old. He was always a kind, just and upright man, and a most faithful and loving husband and father.

Moen and his counsel W. W. Rice, both deny wholly and in detail, and in the most positive and complete manner, Wilson's story.

Worcester, Mass., 2.—The records of the town of Oxford, Massachusetts, show that Levi Wilson was born there on December 1, 1853, eleven months after Mrs. Moen died.

Providence, R. I., 2.—A reporter of the Journal this evening interviewed Mrs. George M. Rice, of Bridge, who has always been considered a sister of "Doc" Wilson. To an inquiry if Wilson's story was true, she returned an evasive answer. Would not deny that Wilson told an untruth when he said she was not his sister, nor would she contradict him in the slightest particular, but gave the most unsatisfactory and evasive replies. Nothing could pin her down to the simple yes or no on any point excepting one, and that was that Wilson had given her a great deal of money first and last, and from what he said she deemed he thought it best she should not talk about his affairs. She remembered her father's illness, but could not tell the year in which he died. All efforts to extract more from her were unavailing. All she would admit was that her father was at one time a church member, and that after he was taken ill he often spoke to them on the subject of doing right, and that Levi Wilson supplied her with money.

The Journal reporter saw Mrs. Young, another sister of Levi Wilson, at Putnam, Connecticut, this afternoon. She stated that Levi was the son of Jonas wilson, and that her aunt was present at the time of his birth. He was named after her first husband whose name was Levi Fessenden, and her father and mother knew nothing about Moen for years after that.

WHAT THE ATTORNEY SAYS.

Providence, R. I., 2.—George S. Hobbs, of Bridge, at one time counsel for Levi Wilson, has been placed in a rather unpleasant position by the latter's statement. Wilson asserted that Hobbs had papers in his safe which would send Moen behind the bars, a convict, and that he was the custodian of the communications from Moen to Wilson, in which the former addressed the latter as "dear son." Mr. Hobbs was asked, to-night, what dependence could be placed on Wilson's story concerning the letters and papers in his safe. He said, "I emphatically deny the whole thing from beginning to end. It is false and on a par with the other palpable lies told by Levi Wilson. The only documents I have held or now hold with his name upon them consists of deeds of property and in which transactions I acted as attorney. Wilson is an inveterate liar."

"What credence do you place in Wilson's latest disclosures?"

"It is like all the rest of his stories. Why do you know that only a year and a half ago I said to him: "Wilson, what do you suppose they are saying about you? They say you are Moen's son.' Wilson became very angry, raised his fist and said: "By —, I'll have you know there is better blood in my veins than that of Phil Moen.' And now he claims that Moen is his father! Levi Wilson told me that the scar on his face was caused by his falling into a fire while suffering from a fit when quite a young man." Mr. Hobbs here gave the alleged secret of Wilson's successful blackmailing scheme. Nothing that Moen had said or done of a criminal nature was known to Wilson. Mr. Hobbs was led to believe that Wilson claimed to have detected Moen's son in the commission of a flagrant offense, the details of which cannot be published, but the son, when he learned of Wilson's assertion, had denied that he was guilty, and Moen's own declarations made under oath would indicate that he had ascertained that Wilson had lied.

Boston, 2.—Commissioner Hallet of the United States Court has refused to issue a warrant against Philip Moen for perjury on complaint of Levi Wilson.

Further Details of the Disaster to the "Westernland."

JERSEY CITY, N. J., 2.—The frightful disaster, involving the death of six men and the inflicting of serious injuries to thirteen others, was reported this evening upon the arrival of the steamship Westernland. On Saturday afternoon, Nov. 27th, a huge cross sea was suddenly encountered, and it fell with a terrific force upon the forward deck. The steamship Westernland was then seven days out from Antwerp. The deck was crushed in and buried the unfortunates beneath the mass of wood and iron debris. The next instant the water swept along the gangways of the main deck, carrying several persons with it. The crash was terrific, but before the appalling nature of the accident was realized by the passengers, the officers of the ship had all the men available engaged in the work of rescue. The injured were carried to the intermediate cabin, which was transformed into a hospital. Four seamen were found to have been killed outright.

PASSENGERS INJURED.

Joseph Levadori had both arms broken. He is a brother of the young passenger who died from his injuries. Max Kagl had a leg broken. Julius Wiel suffered severe contusions on the back and abdomen. Francis Tassani had three ribs broken and his legs punctured. Willie Haltromb, of New York, had his leg broken and his arm dislocated. Eugene Sohmer, severe scalp wounds. Gustave Breim, severe contusions on the back and thigh, and face badly cut. Joseph Christman, arm broken. Martin Nieser, ankle sprained and back bruised. The dead were buried at sea.

Many affecting scenes were witnessed at the improvised hospital when the passengers inquired about their injured friends. Everything possible was done for the relief of the injured. The cabin passengers showed their sympathy with the unfortunates by their many kindly acts, and raised a purse of 2,000 francs to be distributed among the families of the dead and injured. When the Westernland reached port, the injured passengers were transferred to the hospital, and an inspection of the vessel afforded some idea of the terrible blows she had received. The crushed deck is known as the forward whaleback. It was constructed of four-inch pine plank, resting upon massive iron beams. These in turn were held up by three-inch iron rod stanchions. The vast volume of water struck the whaleback about 15 feet from the stern, and crushed in a section 29 feet in length and extending the full width of the steamship.

Second Officer E. Hoff, made the following statement:

"We left Antwerp on Saturday, November 20th, with 69 cabin and 574 steerage passengers and a full cargo. At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, November 27th, we were in latitude 47 degrees 59 minutes, longitude 43 degrees 57 minutes. I was on the main bridge when I noticed an enormous wave on the starboard bow. The next instant another towering wave joined it from the port side. They seemed to leap into the air as they mingled. They must have been 40 feet high as I saw their united mass above the lower yards of the foremast. Then came a crash of the water upon the deck. It sounded louder than a dozen cannons fired at once. The water swept from one end to the other of the main deck and carried everything before it. The disaster was not met within the storm, merely a good strong breeze was blowing from the southwest with a chopping sea. The vessel was speeding 16 knots an hour. The day was clear, and most of the cabin passengers were below. A group of sailors were on the spar deck, under what is technically known as the 'turtle back.' Moving around among them were several steerage passengers, who were idly watching the sailors weaving 'sennett,' a material for matting used for sails. The first officer was below. It was starboard watch, and the captain and second men were on deck, the latter being on the bridge."

Mutual Admiration Society, (Limited.)

PITTSBURG, 2.—In his recent letter to the Boston Herald ex-Secretary Chandler said:

"After the Presidential election the Chairman of the National Committee was indiscreet enough, in a published interview, to impute to President Arthur and the members of his Cabinet the want of fidelity and zeal in the canvass. This charge was baseless, and was so declared by me at the time. All possible and appropriate assistance was rendered. It should not have been expected that we should supersede the chairman or do his work although it would have been better if some one had done so."

A reporter of the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette called upon B. F. Jones, Chairman of the National Committee, and asked him what he had to say in reply to this paragraph. Jones said:

"The statements made by me in the interview with Chandler I then considered necessary and proper to make, and I now, as then, know them to be true. The purport of these statements was that if Arthur and his Cabinet, with a few exceptions, had been as loyal to Blaine as Blaine would have been to Arthur had the latter been nominated, Blaine would have been President. So far as Chandler's reference to me personally is concerned, I do not feel called upon to defend myself. I have no taste for, nor do I see any present reason for the discussion of political methods with one whose plans and proposals during the brief intercourse I had with him in the campaign of 1884, were not such as to commend him to those having the success of the Republican party at heart. His criticisms at that time, of the men then most prominent in the party, do not seem to be quite consistent with his present expressions of regret in regard to the bad feeling between public men. I would not like to feel called upon to make public the facts upon which my opinion of Chandler is based."

Mysterious Murder.

NEW ORLEANS, 2.—The Picayune's Lake Providence special says: H. D. Briggs, justice of the peace, who held an inquest upon the charred remains of Major John McKay and Maria Rutsey, who were murdered on Monday evening, arrived here to-day. He says the only witnhss who knew anything about the terrible affair was a colored boy about 19 years old, the son of the murdered woman. He stated that at about 10 o'clock Sunday night, some one knocked at McKay's door. The Major opened it and invited the person to a seat. The man would not sit down. He said he only wanted a drink of water. McKay sent the witness to the well to get some fresh water. Before he got ten steps away he heard gunshots. He also heard his mother scream, "They have killed Mr. McKay." Witness heard more shots and saw other men, but it was too dark to recognize them. He described the man who called for water. The boy was badly frightened. Wilkowsky and Wilburn are still here, afraid to return home.

Drowned and Frozen to Death.

OSWEGO, N. Y., 2.—The vessel reported ashore in Mexico Bay, proves to be the Adriadne, Captain McKay, with a crew of five men, bound from Toronto for this port with a cargo of barley. When off this harbor last night, she lost her mainmast and drifted down the lake until 4 a. m. to-day, when she went ashore. The captain was soon after washed overboard and drowned and during the day two of the crew were frozen to death. The remaining ones took to the rigging and were nearly perished when taken off. Their recovery is considered doubtful. The vessel has gone to pieces. She was an old craft and was valued at $3,500. She had a cargo of 10,000 bushels of barley.

More Trouble for Charleston.

NEW YORK, 2.—Charleston, S. C., is filled with smoke from the forest fires in the surrounding country. The telegraph wires are down on the line of the Northeastern road, and the full extent of the damage is not known. The village of Pinapolis, in Berkley county narrowly escaped destruction. A number of barns and farmhouses were burned.

This Generation Seeketh After a Sign.

A Hartford, Connecticut dispatch says: Eight proprietors of second-rate hotels and restaurants in this city were arrested yesterday for using oleomargarine on their tables without displaying the placard "oleomargarine butter" as required by law under a penalty of $50 fine. The cases were continued one week under $200 bonds each. These will be regarded as test cases.

Killed by a Cowboy.

DENVER, 2.—A Springer, N. M., special to the Republican says: A dispute arose between J. W. Wartenlee and Wm. Alley, two cowboys at the ranch of the Red River Cattle Company, near Cimarron, to-day, as to which one had charge of the ranch during the absence of the foreman, when the former attempted to discharge the latter. This brought on bitter words. Both men drew revolvers and fired. Alley was killed instantly. Wartenlee was shot through the right breast, but will recover. The dead man came from Porter Springs, Texas.

Terrible Explosion at Bellaire, Ohio.

PITTSBURG, 2.—The Commercial Gazette's Bellaire, Ohio, special says: There was a terrible explosion of powder in the store of Robert Hall, six miles west of here this afternoon, fatally injuring three and seriously bruising and burning four others. The explosion was caused by some one stepping on a parlor match that was lying on the flour, when the spark ignited the powder in the keg and blew the whole end out of the store. Five men and two boys who were in the store were prostrated. Those fatally hurt were Robert Hall, Jacob Weiss and George Williams.

Great Excitement at New Laredo.

GALVESTON, 2.—Great excitement was created in New Laredo, Mexico to-night, over the arrest and imprisonment of Pedro Morales, Chief of Police, the President of the Municipal Court, and the Chief Alcalde of the town under orders from the City of Mexico, whither the prisoners are directed to be forwarded. The grounds for these arrests grew out of the capture and delivery to the Texas authorities several weeks ago of Juan Coy, charged with the murder of Sheriff Elder of Karnes County, Texas.

Mrs. L. J. Little, Livingston, Ala., successfully used St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism.

FOREIGN.

THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION IN BULGARIA ABANDONED.

The Government and the Irish Anti-Renters.

The Situation as Viewed by the Attorney-General of Ireland.

The Russian Refugees Disbanded.

BUCHAREST, 2.—The new plot formulated here on November 29th by the Russian refugees from Bulgaria, headed by Zankoff, and having for its avowed object the overthrow of the Bulgarian Regency, and the fomenting of revolution, has proved abortive. Russia refused to furnish any money for the enterprise.

The Attorney-General on the Irish League.

DUBLIN, 2.—United Ireland publishes a legal opinion given by Right Hon. Hugh Holmes, Attorney-General for Ireland, to the government as to its right to suppress the new movement of the Irish National League, which is aimed to beat the landlords, by having the tenants deposit with trustees such sums below the demanded rents as the tenants believe fair and are willing to pay. The line of action which the landlords proposed to have the Government adopt to crush out this form of resistance was to arrest every person who should act as a trustee, rendering the League's plan of paying rent futile, the landlord's agent being of course debarred from accepting tenders below the landlord's figures. The Attorney-General says the men have a legal right to act as trustees as proposed by the league, and the Government has no right to arrest them for so acting. Mr. Holmes advises the landlords to seek some method of getting their money, which will not involve the Government's assistance. To frustrate endeavors to seize the rents by means of garnishee orders served on the tenants' trustee, instructions have been issued on the plan of the rent campaign, advising the trustees to convey the money to persons of assured integrity but possessed of no property which the garnishee order will affect. This precaution has already been taken in regard to twenty-seven properties.

Mr. Sexton's views.

LONDON, 2.—A dispatch from Dublin gives an account of an interview had there with Mr. Sexton. Upon being asked what, in his opinion, had caused the present action of the Government, Mr. Sexton replied that he had no doubt that the success of the Nationalist campaign compelled the Irish landlords to appeal to the Government, and it no doubt yielded to their entreaties. When asked whether he thought the League would be suppressed, Mr. Sexton answered, "No; if the Government attempts to suppress the League through Viceroy, it will find itself in a ruinously untenable position. Moreover, if the League be suppressed and its meetings be proclaimed, the Government will find the situation more difficult than ever, as public indignation will make the success of the tenants all the more rapid."

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The Campbell trial will last four days more.

Advices from Hanoi, the capital of Tonquin, state that the pirates at Han-Kai massacred two interpreters and twelve soldiers.

A Paris dispatch says: A sensation has been caused by the escape of Altmayer, a wealthy Jew from the Mazas prison, where he was undergoing a sentence for embezzlement.

A San Francisco dispatch says: The custom officers to-day seized $20,000 worth of opium on the steamer Rio Janeiro, recently arrived from China. The drug was found in coal bunkers.

In accordance with the frequest of Emperor William, the artists of Berlin have modified their programme for the proposed fetes on the occasion of the ninetieth anniversary of the Emperor's birth. There will be no public demonstration, as it is understood that the Emperor is desirous that the day be passed quietly.
