LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

EASTERN.

NEW YORK.—At a joint meeting of the owners of trotting horses and of the Trainers' and Drivers' Association held last night, the president of the association stated that certain arbitrary rules of the national association had induced the trainers and drivers to form an organization to prevent encroachment upon their rights, and he thought the rules adopted already, approved by upwards of sixty trainers and drivers, and twenty-five owners of trotting horses, would not conflict with the rules of the national association.

James C. King, indicted for killing O'Neil in Pine street, some time ago, is very ill in the Tombs, and the prison authorities contemplate sending him to the hospital on Blackwell's Island.

Before Judge Chas. P. Dailey and a sheriff's jury, the sanity of Geo. Francis Train is to be tried on Thursday.

The employes of the gas companies made arrangements last evening for a strike, should the companies not concede to the demand for eight hours, and the following rates: stokers $3 50 and helpers $3 per day.

CHICAGO.—A Washington special contains the following report regarding the policy of the new Secretary of the Treasury: "The new Secretary of the Treasury, Judge Richardson, gave the first intimation of what his policy in regard to the sale of gold and the purchase of bonds is to be when he issued his programme for the month of April. His predecessor, Senator Boutwell, was in the habit of making his purchase of bonds about the same as the sales of gold. It is understood, however, that a necessity exists for this policy, unknown under Boutwell's administration, or at least it had no existence until last fall. At that time the $440,000,000 of currency reserve was put in circulation. It has never been entirely replaced. The action of Congress at its last session, though not mandatory on this question, was sufficiently explicit to indicate that further drafts upon the reserve would provoke positive legislation. According to the last public debt statement there was about $2,570,000 of this reserve still out. It is understood that the purpose of Secretary Richardson is to replace this sum at the earliest time possible. To do so he will, of course, be compelled to sell as much gold as he can spare to help to meet the current expenses of the government and to purchase a less amount of bonds. That appears to be the policy, for the present at least, of the administration. Some persons will perhaps be surprised to learn that during the last year contraction has been carried on by the Treasury Department to the extent of $3,000,000, which has been done mainly by the redemption of 3 per cent. certificates, and through the operation of the law redistributing the National Bank currency. It is the popular impression that the action of the Secretary of the Treasury has a marked effect upon the monetary interest of the country. Secretary Richardson is of the opinion that it is not his orders to buy bonds or sell gold that convulse Wall street, but the condition of the money market in Europe and the amount of imports. The amount of money which will be withheld from the Pacific railroad companies, in accordance with the recent act of Congress, will reach from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 annually. This is on the old transportation account. It is the purpose of the companies interested to immediately submit the question of the right of the government to withhold this money to the courts, and they will push it with as little delay as possible. They hope to have a decision from the Supreme Court of the United States in less than a year. The officers of the company have been confident that the action of Congress would not be sustained by the Supreme Court. The Secretary of the Treasury is of a different opinion; at all events, till there is a decision by the Supreme Court the transportation account will be suspended.

Memphis dispatches report a most destructive tornado at Carton, Mississippi. About thirty buildings were destroyed and many damaged. Hundreds of people were rendered houseless and many persons more or less injured. It was the greatest storm ever known in that section of country. The loss is estimated at over $100,000.

General Ducrat recently stated to a correspondent in Paris that the Republic was a failure, and that the only safety of France was in the restoration of the monarchy or the empire, and that she must fight again. Thiers, in his opinion, would attempt to prolong his term till his death.

WASHINGTON, 1.—The public debt has decreased $1,644,053 in the past month. The outstanding legal tenders amount to $358,506,047.

NEW YORK, 1.—The inquest over the body of Charles Goodrich was resumed. Mrs. Myers testified that she had known Goodrich about two months. She became acquainted with him in New York. Saw him first in Brooklyn. Saw him four or five times a week. Saw him last Thursday night previous to his death. She saw him at the corner of Allen and Rivington streets, about 7 o'clock in the evening. She met him by agreement about 9 o'clock, at No. 46 Rivington street. He was in the habit of calling on her at her residence, No. 13 Stanton street. He there made the acquaintance of John L. Beach, the same man whom the Times called Henry Beach and Roscoe. She never saw them in company together. Heard him speak of Roscoe and say that he was a dangerous man. There had been a disturbance between them. It was one evening in her apartments on Stanton street. Goodrich, Roscoe and Beach were present; thought Roscoe was talking about Goodrich; they talked very loud. She took Goodrich by the arm and led him into another room. Roscoe asked afterwards if she intended to keep company with Goodrich, and said he would be even with her. He often spoke of it, but she could not remember what was said. There was sufficient to indicate that he had unfriendly feelings, but she stated that she never heard him make my threats towards him. Heard him say, "God help the person who comes between you and me!" This was after the quarrel, about two weeks before his death. Never heard Roscoe say he knew where Goodrich lived. Never remember telling him Roscoe carried a pistol; asked him if he was married, and he said "no." Witness saw Roscoe Saturday night after Goodrich's death; he told her he was going to Philadelphia. He sometimes went to Baltimore and New Orleans. When she met him in the Bowery, Goodrich's name was not mentioned. She did not think he intended to leave the city. Roscoe wanted to call at the house, but she told him she did not want him to. Had known Roscoe 5 or 6 months. Had heard him say he had been in Brooklyn. He never told her what his business was, she thought he was a counterfeiter. He wanted to assist her by giving her counterfeit money to pass. He said it was the best business out. She first learned of Goodrich's death, at No. 22 Orchard street. It might have been Friday a.m. She saw Roscoe on Saturday a. m., at No 16 Rivington street. She saw him on the sidewalk. He said he was going to Baltimore. She made him no reply. She had been to Goodrich's house in Degraw St., but she never remained at his house at night. She did not know whether Roscoe had ever been arrested or not. She first saw Goodrich near the Brooklyn ferry. He stepped on her dress, and begged her pardon and then followed her on the boat and continued talking to her. She made no reply. He followed her home and asked if she wanted a boarder, saying that he could give the best reference. They become acquainted. She was not intimately acquainted with Roscoe, and there was no reason for his becoming jealous of Goodrich. After the quarrel in her room Goodrich met Roscoe coming down stairs, and passed without speaking. Another time he came in while Goodrich was with her and declared his love. She led him to believe she thought more of Goodrich. He answered that his money tempted her. The pistol she saw in Roscoe's pocket was larger than the one found in Goodrich's house. She went with Goodrich frequently to the theatre. She went with him on the Tuesday before his murder to Broadway and Central Park, and rode back. She met Goodrich some time ago at 302 Broadway. A gentleman came in and said, "Here is Charlie again, I will make it all right." Goodrich never proposed marriage. To the question why she did not give the authorities information immediately on hearing of the case, she stated that she had no reason to do so. When witness found the boarding house did not pay, Goodrich advised her to give it up, and offered to pay her rent provided he could live in private apartments.

PHILADELPHIA, 1.—A man supposed to be Roscoe, the murderer of Goodrich, was arrested here to-day. He thoroughly answers the description given of the supposed guilty party. He came here soon after the murder. During his stay he has been engaged in the illegitimate sale of watches. He speaks French, Italian and Spanish. He expresses entire willingness to undergo the fullest examination, being confident of establishing his innocence.

NEW YORK.—The Post says G. W. Curtis resigned his position on the civil service board because he regards several important appointments recently made as a virtual abandonment of civil service reform.
