

A Young Woman's Sad Fate.

A lady member of the Laight Street Methodist Episcopal Church called last evening at the Police Central Office and made inquiry about a young girl named Rachel Martin, who, she said, had gone astray. A Herald reporter subsequently obtained the following details of the case—

About six months ago a man and woman, who gave their names as George and Clara Smith respectively, were in London, England, and represented to the girl, Rachel Martin, who resided in Deane Street, in that city, that if she would accompany them to New York they would procure for her the situation of governess in the family of some friends of theirs, with a salary of £300 per year. The girl, who was attractive in appearance, and who was of respectable family, partly induced by a desire to see this country, and partly lured by the large salary offered, agreed to the proposition, contrary to the wishes of her mother and relatives. The objections were overcome, however, and she sailed with the Smiths. A short time after she arrived here she was introduced to two or three fast young men, who made improper proposals to her. She complained of these insults to her supposed benefactors, but they laughed at her, saying that she had better accede to their propositions. This she indignantly refused to do, and demanded that she be placed in the position of governess, which had been promised to her. She received only evasive answers to her appeals and shortly became a victim to a hellish plot. She was put under the influence of opiates, and while in that condition the schemers put into effect the heinous crime which they had planned. When the girl recovered her senses she was informed that henceforth it was intended that she should lead a life of shame. The poor girl was overcome, and bitterly denounced the want of humanity shown by the creatures who had professed to be her friends. She was friendless in the city and was closely watched by the Smiths. She was soon turned out of their house and became lost. She was arrested a few days ago on Greene Street, and sentenced, by Justice Bixby, to the House of the Good Shepherd, where she now is.

Her mother, not having heard from her for some time, communicated with the lady, who told the story to the reporter, with whom she was acquainted, asking for some information concerning her daughter. The lady will have sad news to send to the girl's home.—New York Herald, Nov. 26.

Boundary Lines in Arizona.

The Organic Act of Arizona defines the Eastern line of this Territory as follows:

"Running due South from a point where the Southwest corner of the Territory of Colorado joins the northern boundary line of New Mexico, to the southern line of said Territory of New Mexico."

The Legislature of Arizona originally defined the boundaries of Yavapai County as follows:

"On the East, by the line of New Mexico; on the North, by the parallel of 37 degrees North latitude; on the West, by the line of 113 degrees 20 minutes West longitude, and on the South by the middle or main channel of the Gila River."

In 1871 the County of Maricopa was created out of a portion of Yavapai, with the boundary lines as follows:

"Commencing at a point where the San Carlos River crosses the parallel of 34 degrees North latitude, and running thence to a point on the Rio Verde thirty miles above its mouth, where it empties into Salt River; thence to White Tanks, and thence due West to the Eastern boundary of Yuma County; thence South, along the said line to the Gila River; thence up said river, following the principal channel thereof, to the mouth of the San Carlos River where the same empties into the Gila; thence up the said San Carlos River to the point of beginning."

In 1875, the County of Pinal was formed out of portions of Pima, Maricopa and Yavapai, with boundaries as follows:

"Commencing at a point where the 112th Meridian of West Longitude intersects the 1st Standard parallel South; thence West, on said line, to the Eastern boundary of Maricopa County; thence South, on said line, to where it intersects the 2d Standard parallel South; thence East, on the line of the 2d parallel, South to where said line intersects the Eastern line of Range No. 18 East; thence due North on said line to a point where said line intersects the North line of Township No. 1 North; thence due West along said line to the Eastern line of Range No. 7 East; thence due South to the southern line of Township No. 2 South; thence West to where said line intersects the 112th Meridian of West Longitude; thence South on said Meridian to the place of beginning."

From the above, the reader who is posted on the geography of this country, ought to guess what this County embraces within its boundaries.—Arizona Miner, Nov. 24.

ROBBERED.—John Brickwood has returned from the Little Colorado Country and has given us an account of his robbery on the Me-gollon Mountains on his way out. He was riding alone and, having travelled quite a long distance without water, was thirsty, and seeing a wagon and several people, including a white woman, at a camp some distance from the road, he concluded to ride out to where they were and ask for a drink of water. He accordingly rode out and seeing an elderly gentleman, was in the act of asking him for water, when a Mexican, of whom there were four standing about the camp, drew a shot gun on him, a second took his horse by the bridle, a third seized his cantinas and the fourth demanded his money. He saw he was completely in their power and gave up $125, but retained a considerable sum which he had in other pockets, which they did not find. They then exchanged saddles with him, taking a new one and leaving him an old worthless one and taking out portions of his travelling outfit, amounting in all to nearly as much as the money. They then left and he ascertained that they had just finished robbing the people at the camp as he rode up, and had taken some money from the old gentleman and all the lady's jewelry and other valuable trinkets. Brickwood found that they had come from the direction of Prescott and were going towards New Mexico and that they had robbed every one they met in the mountains for a distance of two hundred miles. He kept on their track until they reached St. Johns, where there is quite a settlement of Mexicans and he lost all trace of them. They were no doubt secreted there by their countrymen until he had gone.—Arizona Miner, Nov. 24.

OBITUARY.

The many friends of Sister CAROLINE AUGUSTA JACKSON, of St. George, will be pained to learn of her death, which occurred at half-past seven o'clock this morning, Dec. 7th, in that city, of pneumonia.

Sister Jackson was born at Hampton, N.H., and was aged 60 years 4 months and 23 days. She embraced the gospel of Jesus Christ at the age of 17 years, leaving her father's house as the cost, and in February, 1864, embarked upon the ship Brooklyn, with her husband and infant daughter, arriving in California six months later, to endure the terrors of war and famine for many months. Enriched by the gold discovery, she gave liberally to the poor, and kept for twenty years open house for the traveling Elders of the Church. She collected sixty children, made orphans by cholera, and bore their entire expenses for six months, meanwhile exerting her influence successfully toward the foundation of the still existing Protestant Orphan Asylum in San Francisco, and was one of the first board of managers. Circumstances beyond her control prevented her joining the Saints in Utah until ten years ago, when she made St. George her home, bearing, in loving spirit, many privations incident to a pioneer life, and cheerfully responding to any call of the Church. Only one month and a week ago her husband, Col. Alden A. M. Jackson, passed before her to his rest and reward. Two daughters remain to love and honor her memory. Beloved most by those who knew her best, she will be remembered as having been faithful to the end, which end is sleep, and the awaking life eternal. A. J. C.

Elder Geo. W. Lincoln died at his residence in Bountiful, Davis County, Utah, December 2nd, 1876. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on the 3rd inst.

Deceased was born at Dorchester, Mass., June 6th, 1812. He was married October 3rd, 1833, to Miss Jane Maria Babcock, of Littlefield, Conn. He was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in 1843, by Elder Geo. Clark, by whom he was also ordained an Elder. Elder Lincoln suffered persecution, and much affliction with the Saints in Missouri, and in 1856 he was arrested on a charge—but falsely—of arson, and thrown into prison, where he was kept confined for eleven months, without a trial, but at the end of this time, through the indefatigable exertions of his faithful wife, he obtained a hearing, and was honorably acquitted. In 1857 he came to Utah, moved to Bountiful, where he resided chiefly until the time of his decease.

Elder Lincoln was a devoted husband, a kind father and faithful friend. He died as he had lived, in full faith of the gospel and in the hope of a resurrection to eternal life. He leaves a family and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.—[Com]

At Hyde Park, of diphtheria, the following children—ROBERT W. KIRBY. Died Dec. 1st, 1876. Born Sept. 1, 1874.

Also THOMAS W. KIRBY. Born Dec. 3, 1871. Died Dec. 3, 1876.

And AMELIA A. KIRBY. Born June 2, 1873. Died Dec. 3, 1876.

The parents of the above children are Thomas W. and Anne Stokes Kirby, formerly of Dover, Kent Co., England. The three children were interred at the same time and in the same grave, which was a very distressing sight for both parents and the large concourse of people who attended the services. The people at large sympathize with the parents in their uncommon and sudden loss.—Com.
