MUSICAL FEATURES.

The music rendered was most tender and impressive, several of the leading musicians of the city, vocalists and in-strumentalists, contributing to that part of the exercises. Prof. John J. McClellan presided at the organ, play-ing an opening voluntary and accom-panying various numbers. "When the Swallows Homeward Fig." was sung by Messrs, George D. Pyper, H. G. Whit-ney, John D. Spencer and H. S. En-sign. A string quartet, composed of The music rendered was most tender On Friday, June 14, officers and mem-bers of the Mutual Improvement associations of Granite stake will dis-port themselves in holiday attire at the beautiful Wandamere park. A program of field day sports and ath-letic events has been prepared for the occasion, participation in which is confined to the membership of the Improvement associations of the Gran. sign. A string quarter and H. S. Ele-sign. A string quarter, composed of Willard Weihe, Anton Pedersen, Fred Midgley and J. Preiss, rendered Le-mare's "To My Wife;" Edna Evans, Claudia Holt, Fred C. Graham and Hust W Dawney and Fred C. Graham and Hugh W. Dougall sang "The Isle of Somewhere:" Messrs. Graham and Dougall rendered the solos, "I Need Thee Every Hour" and "Hold Thou My Hand," respectively: Mrs. Emma Ram-sey Morris sang "Love Divine;" and Willard Weihe played "Traumerel." ELDER H. G. WHITNEY.

ELDER H. G. WHITNEY. Elder H. G. Whitney said that the specter death had come close to him in the taking away of John E. Hansen. For nearly nine years he had been in almost daily contact with the deceased, and he had always found him to be kind, generous, thoughtful and true. As a newspaper man, he was to the manor born, and his course through life was so manifestly upright and exem-plary that those with whom he associ-ated loved and respected him. The suc-cess that has come to the "News" is due in great measure to the able and indefatigable labors of Mr. Hansen. He had stood loyally by and remained with the paper during sore trials through which it had passed, despite the allur-ing inducements that were held out to him elsewhere. day. Entrees are limited to active mem-bers of the M. I. A and no person may enter more than two events on the track and field events. ELDER ORSON F. WHITNEY. The remarks of Elder Orson F. Whitney were a tender and feeling tribute to his friend and brother. "He was generous and just to me." said the speaker. "and my heart is in his casket." The deceased had once re-sided in the Eighteenth ward, and it was there that the sterling qualities of heart and mind possessed by him had been revealed to Elder Whitney. His soul was filled with faith and faith-fulness, and he never wavered in his loyalty and devotion to truth and hon-or. In the early part of Mr. Hansen's experience as a newspaper man, it had been said of him that he was the best reporter in Utah, and when he had won his way to higher positions, the honor and distinction accorded him were no less marked. But it was as a humanitarian and A beautiful medal will be given to winners of first, second and third places in the races and field sports, also to each member of a winning team. Hansen most shone, observed the speaker. He would shone, observed the speaker. He would never desert any one because misfor-tune came, but would stand by a man in all that was just and right. Death is a doorway to life eternal, and were it not for this belief and hope, those who remain could scarcely reconcile the taking away of so useful and worthy a person as was the deceased, just at the time when his influence for good was so marked. Absence is death and death is but absence, and again there will be a meeting with the departed friend. Tears seen and sorrow felt are for the living and not for the dead, for the passing of a soul is but steps forward in development, growth and expansion. In conclusion, Apostle Whitney recited the beautiful and ap-propriate poem, "Sometime." ELDER B, H.
