NOT TO BE BROKEN UP.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—"Morality"—No, Mormonism is not on the decline. The death of Brigham Young created no confusion, and the saints have smoothly sailed ahead. Instead of the "institution" showing signs of weakness, 5,000 foreign recruits have reached Salt Lake within six months, and a new batch of 500 landed in New York the other day. If you have been told that the next Congress will break up the business you are ahead of the rest of us on information.

The above is clipped from "Answers to Correspondents" in the Detroit Free Press, of the 5th inst. The editor's head seems to be level on this question, which generally agitates writers for the press so as to deprive them of their usual judgment. According to rumor and newspaper prophecies, Congress, or some other great power, has been going to break up "Mormonism" every year for a generation. But somehow it still survives and finds devoted adherents and converts among many nations. After a while perhaps editors and common folk will learn that legislation cannot destroy faith, that legal enactments have no power over consciences, and that in the United States, laws and laws, and fines and penalties, are an utter failure as destroyers of religious institutions, whether true or false. And the day will come when all the world will discover that there is something in "Mormonism" which will never "decline," and cannot be broken up by any earthly power, and that those who have sought to affect its overthrow have actually been fighting against God.

A VITAL SUBJECT.

DURING The October Conference, which was one of the most interesting ever held in the Tabernacle, a great deal of very profitable instruction was imparted. We think none was more so than the remarks and suggestions concerning co-operative effort and home industries. We direct special attention to a point made by Elder Lorenzo Snow in regard to Utah manufactures. He showed that unless the body of the people sought for and desired home products in preference to imported articles, our mercantile institutions would continue largely to bring in goods from abroad. This is simple, plain and indisputable. It is the demand that stimulates the supply. If there was no demand for a certain class of goods it would soon disappear from the market. Merchants will not purchase articles which the public do not call for. It is true that wide awake business men frequently create a demand, by pandering to the general love of novelty, and introducing something calculated to catch the popular eye. But it is that demand when once incited that prompts continued supplies, and is the sign of the success of the venture. Now, if the Latter-day Saints would make up their minds that they will use home products whenever they can, in preference to imported goods, and will ask for them, when they make purchases, the demand will become so great that dealers will perceive the necessity of patronizing the producers, and every branch of home industry will be encouraged. Our Utah products and manufactures will then become popular. It does not take much of an example to set the multitude on the run after it. See how soon the style of a lady's dress will change when it becomes known that such and such is the latest fashion. The greatest extremes follow each other in quick succession. Why cannot "home-made" become "the rage," just as well as something from Paris, London or New York? To assist in this, our Utah goods must be made attractive as well as useful. Those who are engaged in manufactures should aim to finish them as neatly and beautifully as is possible anywhere. Appearance has a great deal to do with these things, and the multitude will be attracted by it, in spite of argument and preaching. Because an article is home-made it need not be rough and ugly. Beauty is divine, and it is as necessary as strength and utility in entering for the public taste.

Utah cloth can be finished as finely as eastern goods. If not, why not? It can be made up just as well as foreign material. Our tailors have proven this. A homespun suit or lady's dress in past years was the very emblem of uncouthness and clumsiness. Not so now. Goods are manufactured and made up in Utah that are suitable for any society, and many of them are as deserving of tasteful and elegant manipulation as imported material that has not half their durability. If the Latter-day Saints will make it a rule to use for home-made goods when they are not offered, the merchants will soon get in the way of "pushing" that class of wares, and if a number of our prominent brethren and sisters will adopt the fashion of wearing and using home-made goods as far as possible, the public will soon fall into line, and none will consider themselves well dressed or doing "the correct thing," unless clad in Utah apparel and using Utah products and manufactures. This will extend our industrial institutions so that the thousands of our boys who are growing up in idleness will find profitable employment. As they advance to maturity they will be able to marry and commence life independently. And thus the girls will find husbands, happy homes will be multiplied, the likelihoods and inducements for crime will be diminished, and our Territory will advance in all the elements of material prosperity. Utah's future depends more upon the establishment and success of home industries than any other temporal matter, and her people can never attain to the greatness, wealth and power which have been promised to them until they fulfill the latter-day commandment, "Let all thy garments be plain, and their beauty be the beauty of the workmanship of thine own hands."

PAROWAN STAKE CONFERENCE.

The Parowan Stake Conference convened on Saturday and Sunday, the 28th and 29th days of September, in the Parowan Meeting-house, at Parowan, Utah. All the wards in the stake were represented by their respective bishops and people.

Saturday morning and afternoon were taken up by bishops and Elders from the various wards, and in the afternoon, upon the text announced by President Lund, namely, the combination of our temporal and spiritual interests. The Priesthood met in the evening, with a goodly number, also, of the sisters. Reports from the Relief Societies, Young Men and Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Associations, High Priests, Seventies and Elders of the several wards were made by their respective presidents. Sunday morning the bishops' statistical reports were read, after which they also made their verbal reports of the standing, condition and faith of the members of their several wards. The general church authorities as sustained by the general conference in Salt Lake City in April last were presented by President Hays. After which the stake and ward authorities in their various capacities, with the home missionaries, called at the conference. The afternoon was used in giving instruction relative to the present situation as a people depending upon Babylon for her wares, and urging a combination of trades, labor, and various industries, patterning after Brigham City as a guide. The Parowan, Cedar City and Johnson Springs churches were in attendance during the conference, and delighted the saints with their very excellent selection of songs and anthems. The spirit and instructions of the conference were excellent, and we feel that God for his goodness in bestowing his spirit upon all present.

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH LINE.

EASTERN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—The United States consul at St. Croix, Thomas telegraphs concerning the insurance at St. Croix, that the rioters apparently controlled. About 250 have been killed. The planters are searching the country for the rioters. Four-fifths of the mills, dwellings, cane, rum and sugar on the plantations have been destroyed, and all the business houses in Frederickstad. Many families are destitute. All business is temporarily suspended.

After consultation between the President, Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney-General, it has been decided that the internal revenue officials in Arkansas in breaking up illicit distilleries, as required by Collector Wheeler, at Little Rock, and the following telegram has been sent to that officer: "It is decided not to invoke the aid of the military to enforce the laws, until you have exhausted all other means. You are authorized to employ as large a force as you think necessary to enable you to seize the same and secure the arrears of the offenders referred to in your letter of the 21st. If you cannot arm the force, inform me what you need, and it will be ordered from here. Call upon the marshal to assist you with all the means at his command. Organize a force strong enough to overcome resistance, without bloodshed if possible; act promptly and vigorously, and enforce the laws at all hazards. Inform this office by telegraph of your action."

Acting Commissioner.

Courtesy Interviewed.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The Times correspondent interviewed Courtney, recently defeated by Hannon. Courtney said, when asked if he would run again this fall, "No, certainly not this fall, and perhaps never. I have given my heart to Bob Larmon, and now there is nothing left for me to do but go to work in the shop and wait until the people forget me, and let alone." He denounced the stories of having sold the race, and declared that he had not received a cent, and had not a cent in his possession.

Cardinal and the Ohio Election.
The Tribune's Washington special says: Garfield expressed himself as being well pleased with the result of the election in Ohio. He considered it a decided victory. It would have been a victory even if the republicans had only secured the returns of seven congressional districts, because "every man" in the State, the democrats intended to have left only six republican districts.

Kearney Remains East.
The Tribune says: Kearney evidently intends to remain in the east. His household furniture has been shipped from San Francisco to Boston, and marked "slow freight."

Mrs. Smith Indicted.
The grand jury of Hudson County, New Jersey, has indicted Jenny K. Smith for the murder of her husband, police officer Smith, a short time ago.

President Hayes Elected.
The World's Washington special says: The President is represented by highly skilled men, the result in Ohio, and as expediting it as an endorsement of his administration.

Kearney and the Butlerites.
The World's Boston special says: The western elections are a great damper on Butler, who is losing ground continually. It is claimed by the democrats, who have opposed his candidature, that many of those who at one time declared in his favor, have returned to the democratic fold, because of "corrupt" management of the party, Abbot. The Butler leaders have been working hard with Kearney of late, in order, if possible, to restrain his democratic propensities, and his denunciation of the Butlerites, especially the Worcester nominee for Lieutenant Governor, Arnold, of North Adams, who, it is claimed, has opposed the workingmen and the ten-hour law. Kearney was found a difficult subject to control. He is particularly bitter over the defeat of his faction in the California convention, and said to a reporter, to-day, that he believed the convention would end in bloodshed, and he hoped it would. He is a frequent visitor at Butler's headquarters, in Pemberton Square, and consults with the leaders in that movement. He has announced that he will speak in Harvard Square some night next week and talk to the students, whom he describes as "college consumptives."

Memphis, 11.—The weather is sunny and warm. It showed this morning, and still remains threatening. Relief trains, under the direction of the Howard Association, were sent out this morning on the Louisville and Memphis and Louisville Railroad. The relief trains left Memphis at 10 o'clock, and arrived in Louisville at 10 o'clock. The relief trains were composed of the following: A train of 100 cars, loaded with food and clothing, and a train of 100 cars, loaded with food and clothing. One thousand weavers of Glasgow have struck against seven and a half per cent. reduction of their wages.

GERMANY.
The Anti-Socialist Bill—Violent Speech.
BERLIN, 11.—In the Reichstag, yesterday, during the debate on the anti-socialist bill, Hatzfeldt, a well-known socialist agitator, made a violent speech, beginning and ending with threats of violence and bloodshed as the result of repressive legislation. He said that the people were responsible for bloodshed who helped to frame and carry the bill. Concluding, he declared that if the pacific endeavors of socialism were repressed, the day would come when the socialists would take up arms and fight against their tyrants.

The president of the Reichstag called Hatzfeldt to order, and said his speech was an incitement to rebellion.

Hatzfeldt repeated his words, and was again called to order. Amid loud and indignant protests, he went on to say, "I am not personally in favor of revolution. I prefer pacific means, but if we are forced to fight, we shall know how to fight, and I shall be proud to lay down my life for the cause of the people."

Herrn, Love and Bennington, liberal leaders, declared the motives and purposes of socialism, and defend the legislature for its repression.

Bennington said he had no fear that Hatzfeldt would allow the anti-socialist law to be employed to impair the liberties of the people.

A dispatch from Lahore says: The Chief of the Indian states that General Sir Frederick Paul Haines, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, will assume command at Ferozepore, where 35,000 troops are already concentrated. Reinforcements of the British army continue to arrive. War is considered inevitable. The Afghans are practicing with heavy guns in the Khyber Pass, and it is believed that Moulvi has been strengthening and armed with heavy siege guns.

(Written for Farmer's Democrat.)
EVANGELIZING MORMONISM.
BY HENRY CHURCH, HARTFORD, CONN.

In a recent issue of Farmer's Democrat a distinguished doctor of divinity, who has taken upon himself the laudable vocation of addressing the throng of sectarian politicians at Salt Lake City, for a living, laments over "the failure of the Christian churches to make any impression upon adult Mormonism, and that they have failed to evangelize Mormonism."

I have waited patiently for some potent pen to indicate the reasons of this failure, but as none have yet met my observation I respectfully ask your indulgence for a few reflections with the view to induce others more thoroughly informed to give the needed explanations. As a non-sectarian observer, during a few years residence here, I have become convinced that all the usual attempts to evangelize Mormonism may as well be abandoned as hopeless. The Mormons, as well as all other enlightened people, know that all true adherents, of the genuine "Christian church," both church and manifest an active regard for the physical, moral and spiritual welfare of each and every member of the human family. But what can be thought of that preacher's regard for frail, sinful mortals—the errors of benighted "Mormons," when his Pharisaical sanctity revolts at eating at the same table with adult "Mormons," for fear their religious sincerity of faith should contaminate his ecclesiastical sanctimoniousness.

Is it any wonder that such a preacher, with such Pharisaical notions of self-righteousness should also in his private life, be a most casual observer of unprejudiced mind cannot but see that greed, lust of gain, actual covetousness, is the chief motive which prompts the "Christian" attempt to evangelize "Mormonism." What care these evangelizing missionaries for the salvation of a Mormon soul further than to extirpate him to Mexico or into the penitentiary, so that they can possess themselves and their fellow "Liberal" religious-political freeholders of the farms and dwellings, the orchards and cattle, the grain and the costly public buildings which have been produced by Mormon industry, economy, and often by the most pinching frugality? They care about as much as certain military officers" from Fort Cameron, cared for the rights of a poor man with a large helpless family at Hot Springs about 1860, who was to be left unpaid, of six dollars worth of grain and provisions for themselves and "U. S." military horses, and shot and killed his chickens under the roof of his private dwelling house, because the chickens' cackling "bothered" their whiskey-buffed brains. And when the military commander of the Fort was apprized of the fact, he virtually sanctioned the robbery on the plea that some other military thief had stolen a gun, which theft, in military equity constituted an equitable claim. This scrupulous custodian of Uncle Sam's guns, when an honest man, would be left unpaid, was excessively conscientious, especially when its non-payment could be employed as a proxy punishment of the theft of an ex-soldier's rifle. But when a certain New Mexico emigrant asked him for and received from him a government gun with the special admonition that he must not return it, then, his scrupulous solicitude became significantly apparent.

As a casual non-sectarian student of the "Mormon" faith, as taught by their religious teachers, and religious books of instruction, I have become impressed with the assurance that intelligent and conscientious "Mormons" have other very consistent and, to them, all sufficient reasons for rejecting the attempts of a popular declaimer of modern culture, to induce them to desert their religious faith. The sincere and honest adherents of "Mormonism" affirm that they positively know that their religion is true, and that the religious evangelist, as defined by Mark, invariably attend all genuine disciples. These attendants and signs, the "Mormons," positive proof of the divine origin of their religious faith. Hence it is unreasonable to suppose that intelligent and unprejudiced "Mormons" should abandon their own real, to them, tangible religious faith, and blindly grasp at something exclusively imaginary, ethereal and vague. Consider, for example, the popular churchman's virtual definition of the God they profess to worship—"a being without body, parts, or limbs, seated on the top of a topless throne, located somewhere beyond the bounds of time and space"—an immaterial nonentity, and an inconceivable absurdity. Like their popular abode for their devil, bottomless pit. These are a few of the reasons, as I understand them, why "Christian churches fail to evangelize Mormonism."
