

OGDEN IS AFTER HEADQUARTERS.

Wants to Secure the Oregon Short Line General Agencies.

THEY WILL NOT BE MOVED.

Mayor Browning and Angus T. Wright Send Dispatches to E. H. Harriman and Vice President Bancroft.

Ogden has put in a bid for the general offices of the Oregon Short Line, and with the end in view of securing the removal to the Junction City a number of prominent citizens met in the Weber club rooms last evening and went over the situation.

As the outcome of the meeting Mayor Browning was authorized to place himself in communication with E. H. Harriman and Vice President Bancroft, and in the name of the citizens of Ogden place any of the large buildings of the city at the disposal of the Oregon Short Line for occupancy by the employees of the general offices. Accordingly dispatches were sent signed by Mayor Browning and Angus T. Wright, and outlined, contrary to reports that have circulated the quarters were not offered free of rent for a term of five years. That question was not considered beyond a short discussion among those present at the meeting, the trend of which was that when it had been made known just how many men would be sent to Ogden it would then be time to consider the rent question.

The Ogden Standard, in discussing the proposed meeting, said:

"Ogden is the natural place for the general offices, and as Salt Lake is to lose the offices, Ogden should secure them. The Salt Lake papers should join in the effort to locate the offices at Ogden."

To Consolidate Street Railroads.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 12.—The board of directors of the New Orleans City Railway company which controls two-thirds of the mileage of the street railways here, has voted to recommend to the stockholders that they accept the offer of H. H. Pearson, Jr., acting for Brown & Co., of Philadelphia and New York representing Philadelphia capitalists, for the lease or purchase of these lines, thirteen in number. Pearson has made similar offers to the New Orleans, Carrollton and St. George Street Railway company, with the purpose of consolidating all the lines in the city with a total mileage of 138 miles. The capitalists whom Mr. Pearson represents have already taken all the bonds of the Archduke Levee district $500,000 of the new drainage and sewer bonds of the city of New Orleans and purchased control of the New Orleans Gas company at a cost of $3,500,000 and has made offers for the purchase of the New Orleans water works.

SPICE AND RAIL.

The Burlington extension expects to reach Cedar, Wyo., next month.

The Burlington has decided to make use of acetylene gas in some of the locomotive headlights on the Iowa line.

Claud Williams of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has returned to town.

Blue prints of the profile and alignment of the proposed Oregon Short Line California extension are fortunately in the hands of each of the field engineers.

D. R. Gray, general agent of the Oregon Short Line, returned from San Francisco this morning.

The Oregon Short Line has taken off its japs crews which were working on the grading operations in Lincoln county, Nevada.

During the Lagoon season there were over 75,000 tickets sold by the passenger department of the Salt Lake & Ogden road, or an increase of about 12,000 over and above the sales of last year.

REFORM, NOT KILL.

Personal Opinions on a Popular Subject.

Killing a man neither saves nor reforms him. It stops his human career for the time being, but according to the eternal law of progress and perpetuity of existence, he must begin again somewhere, some time, just where he refused the law and left off here; and no doubt under influences and conditions much the same as prevailed at the juncture of cutting the earth cord of that life.

Men denying obedience and refusing order and love; complaining daily against government, harmony and the happiness of others, and obviously their own inner duplicity, and complain against themselves, hard though they seek to conceal it from the outside world. For, according to the natural order of things we find that men who are in the world and our neighbors, unless we have been awfully marred, unkind and untrue to ourselves and to God from infancy, are not only safe and dangerous to society, but absolutely antagonistic to the order and peace of home, setting himself red-handed on the frey serpent of destruction, defying all that is best, faithful and good in the world. His life is worthless to him, what cares he for that of others? From his viewpoint, he has many things to gain, and nothing to lose, in taking the assassin's role. Were he not a born coward, he would rather cover the quick cutting of the life cord than to delay it.

In the pitying sense of heaven, I look upon all such as unfortunate of the worst type. They need not so much to be killed or lynched as they need to be quickly and effectively handled and eventually cured. When animals get too wild, and madmen appear, they are caught up and handled, lashed with, and if possible and in patience, cured. Just why a man is a born or developed anarchist, nihilist, fanatic, drunkard or crank, is more than we now can tell; for as yet we are unacquainted with the cause of these and a thousand more equally complex human phenomena. They seem to have origin in other spheres and at another existence. To destroy them, we would not, and dare not, lest by doing so, we commit a worse offense. To meet them upon rational lines, reforming if we can, preventing if we must, (that killing never), I believe to be our whole duty toward them. They, like the Indian on a reservation (with reform school attachment) might be better fed than taught. Anarchy is the blue flame struck from the same flint of the inferno or

The inquisition, like its foster-mother, when no other heads are found to sever, will turn, look inward and demand its own. Give anarchists a field with labor and school, overseers and trainers, who shall set them proper example and, if necessary, a high wall of prevention, fixed pains and penalties for strictures and innovations; promises and rewards for obedience and stewardship and the crowd for reformation eventually has begun.

DRAMATIC SCENE IN COURT

Arthur Miller Makes Bold Play and is Somewhat Surprised.

Convicted of Burglary He Appears Before Judge Rolapp for Sentence—Gets Two Years.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Sept. 12.—A rather dramatic scene occurred in Judge Rolapp's court this morning, when Arthur Miller, a young man who has been convicted of burglary, appeared before the court with his lawyer, for a new trial.

The motion for the new trial incorporated a motion to have the charge changed to house-breaking.

Judge Rolapp overruled the motion and asked the prisoner if he had anything to say before being sentenced. Whereupon Miller rose to his feet and in a vehement tone denied that he was guilty of either burglary or house-breaking, and in his enthusiasm exclaimed, "If I am guilty of burglary I should be given the full extent of the law. In a twinkling Judge Rolapp cried, 'All right, you shall have two years,' and then Miller fell into a chair. The scene was waxing quite sensational and everybody in the court room was standing on tip-toe. Presently, Miller rose again and expressed surprise at being dealt with so summarily and pleaded with the judge to be more lenient. But the judge was in no mood to be lenient, and he made no other reply than to say that he would think it over.

SENSATIONAL SCENE IN HUBBARD CASE.

Mrs. Lawler accompanied the deputy out of court, and the scene was over. The examination of Mrs. Lawler was continued this afternoon. Senator Brown was in court, but whether or not he was present as counsel for Mrs. Lawler was a state secret. The senator would not admit to the "News" reporter that he was.

Mrs. Lawler continued his cross-examination of Mrs. Lawler. His method of cross-questioning was considerably milder in the afternoon than it was during the morning.

Mrs. Lawler positively denied that she had said: "I want to convict him (Hubbard). He has plenty of money and I want to make him pay."

Mrs. Lawler was still on the stand when the "News" went to press.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Grand theater opened its doors for the fall season last night, although the engagement was announced as being merely preliminary to the regular season, which will be opened by a traveling company later. The attraction last night was the Wilbur-Kirwin Opera company, transferred bodily with their vaudeville and minstrelsy bills from the Salt Palace. Their new surroundings which were much larger and more convenient, especially the added stage room, seemed to impart new vim and zest to the work of the players, and Mr. Kohlme in his minstrelsy features, was especially exhilarating to observe. The other features gave pleasure to the audience and Miss Kirwin's well known act, accompanied by the beautiful effects of the lights, "The Girl with the Auburn Locks," was as well sung as ever. The attendance, while not large, was more than fair and will doubtless keep up during the week.

At the Theater, a strong demand continues for seats for "Lady Huntworth's Experiment" which opens tomorrow evening.

Salt Lake 3 3 1000

Ogden 3 3 GOOSE EGGS.

Yesterday's game was easily the most sensational, if not the best of the season. It caused mirth and sorrow, applause and hisses, cheers and groans. It was a game of consistent, determined efforts, and at the same time foolish, careless, dumb work. The pitching at times was brilliant, at other times wild and unsatisfactory. It was a day of supreme happiness for many loyal fans, who witnessed the downfall of a man disliked. Time after time they have parted with hard earned coin only to see this man do just about as they pleased with the team they admired. They predicted a day of "revenge," it came yesterday and they rejoiced.

In the early part of the game the expression, "It's the same old story," could be heard on all sides. But gradually those of faint heart saw a ray of hope shining to it with the tendency of a bull pup cutting his teeth on a rubber boot. In the first inning these ardent fans were plunged into black depths of despair. In the last inning they were lifted into the warm, brilliant sun shine of victory—and they whooped!

Ogden came to bat first and Glimin was given a walk. He took second on Hausen's out. Casey hit, Nagle went down on fielder's choice, Borchers was hit in the side, Webster's error and two hits by Plake and McGregor after Clark struck out netted four runs for the visitors. Right men were at bat in this inning, McGregor making the third out in attempting to steal second.

Salt Lakes batting order was somewhat changed. McGrath came up first and was retired on a pop-up to Casey. Weaver was caught out by McGregor, and Bradley was given first on balls. McCausland made the first hit which, being followed by a single to McGrath, McGregor on Taylor's hit, scored a run. Ogden drew a blank in the second. Bluth struck out, and Glimin was lashed by Newmeyer and Weaver. Hausen drew a single, and Casey swung so viciously that some thoughtful person closed the gates for fear the second baseman would drive all the air out of the park.

The White Wings scored another run in their part of the second on McGrath's beautiful drive to left for three bases and Weaver's single.

McNichols' error, Clark and Plake's singles and a wild pitch by Newmeyer scored Borchers in the third. Salt Lake also scored a tally on Bradley's three base hit to center and McCausland's fly to right. Neither team made a run in the fourth. Hausen and Newmeyer each singled. In the fifth the visitors scored two on Clark's single, Plake's three cushioner and McGregor's fly to Bradley. By Borchers' error, McGrath, Newmeyer, hit by pitcher Borchers, hit McGrath's fly to Glimin followed by Father Glimin's muff of Taylor's fly. Score—Ogden, 7; Salt Lake, 4.

Ogden got a free transportation to first. Webster made a sensational left handed slide running catch of Hausen's swift hit, and Casey and Borchers went out from the bases on his fly to McGrath. Salt Lake brought its total up to six in their part of the inning on Weaver's being hit, "Hot Morn" error of McCausland's grounder, and singles by McGrath, Webster and Newmeyer. From that time on, Ogden got nothing but a single by Nagle in the ninth. The lobsters went out in jig time order.

The immaculate tied the score in the seventh on Williams' hit and steal to second and Medicine Man Webster's opportune two bagger. Bradley made two hits in the eighth, but Borchers held the enemy down.

In the ninth the fire works started. Williams took a good look at the first ball and hit it out for two bases.

Now comes the story of how the crowd fooled George, of the House of Borchers, the twirler of the spheroid from the land of the setting sun. Borchers and Glimin had their kicking-buffing antics during the game and the former was tired. He was causing laughter and also hisses and "bawled" out. He tried his old trick, waiting and endeavoring to hypnotize the batter. The crowd was onto his scheme and began to count: "One, two, three, hey-a-a-a!" until the "Prince" had what rattled his confident smile faded from his countenance, and was replaced by an expression of unutterable woe. He gave McNichols a walk, he gave Webster a hit, and each basic point was accepted.

"One, two, three, hey-a-a-a!" yelled the crowd as he threw wild ones to Newmeyer. As he threw the fourth ball, Empire Hoffer sang out: "Bowel too low," and the game was over. It was Ogden's third consecutive defeat at the hands of Salt Lake.

The local crowd and congratulated for their superb playing, for their hard fight and uphill work to victory. Some of them were handsomely rewarded for their fine deeds, by persons who had placed their "wads" on the result.

Hoffer gave satisfaction as umpire and was as fast as a man could be. It was well he did, and the fair sex was well represented.

COUNTERFEIT COIN FIND AT OGDEN

Surprising Discovery of Gold and Silver in Residence Cellar—$1,700 in Cash Recovered—Kept Secret by the Police for Three Weeks.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Sept. 12.—A startling story of a big counterfeit coin find was made public here today when Chief of Police Conlisk gave out the information that a well known citizen came to him with a ten pound salt sack full of spurious money three weeks ago.

Chief Conlisk explained this afternoon that he had withheld the matter from the public during that time in the expectation and hope he would be able to arrest the coin makers and bring them to justice. Up to the present, however, he has been unable to accomplish his desire in this respect though it is not improbable, from what he says, that he will succeed within the next few days. To the "News" man he said a citizen of Ogden, whose name he refuses to give, brought to him a ten pound salt sack containing $1,700 in unfinished counterfeit money—that is, the burish half of the coin. The lot consisted of $5 gold pieces with the 1886 imprint on it and $10 gold pieces with the 1888 imprint, silver dollars with the 1890-91 imprints and silver half dol-ars with the 1876-92 imprints; also the mint marks S. F. (San Francisco) C. C. (Carson City).

This man said he had found the money in a cellar while moving an old house. Chief Conlisk immediately repaired to the place and made a thorough search but discovered no further evidence. He then called for the money itself. The people who had previously lived in the house were of the highest respectability, and, according to the chief, entirely innocent of any association with the counterfeiting. Chief Conlisk believes from information he has obtained that the counterfeiters, or some of them, have been operating in Butte, Montana. He put himself in prompt communication with Joseph A. Walker, head of the government secret service at Denver and the latter will probably come to Ogden to make inquiry into the sensational find. Mr. Walker, who has visited Salt Lake and Ogden many times, suggested that possibly W. A. Hibbard, alias Hill, who served a term in the Utah penitentiary in the early nineties for counterfeiting, might be the guilty person. But the closest investigation on the part of Chief Conlisk has in no wise associated Hibbard with the crime.

er, Glimin, Bluth, Nagle, total, 3; off Borchers, Bradley, McNichols, Webster, Newmeyer, total, 4. Two-base hits: Plake, McNichols, Bradley, Wild pitch: Newmeyer. Hit by pitcher: Borchers, Weaver. Struck out: By Newmeyer, Clark, 3; Bluth, Casey, 2; Glimin, total, 8; by Borchers, Webster, Bradley, Newmeyer, 10; by pitcher, Borchers, 1; McNichols, total, 5. Stolen bases: McCausland, Plake, McGregor, Weaver, Williams. Left on bases, Ogden, 7; Salt Lake, 9. First on errors: Ogden, 1; Salt Lake, 5. Umpire, Hoffer. Time, 2:07. Attendance, 600.

"Man's inhumanity to man" is seldom more in evidence than on the baseball field. The almost ferocious way in which the whole crowd yells and yells in yelling at and jeering Borchers, furnished an instance. Yet it must be said that the provocation, given by the Ogden pitcher was the strongest kind. He deliberately stepped in front of McCausland when he tried to capture a foul fly, and that there was no fault of his. He was seen by the crowd, and the storm of yells and hisses that arose would have daunted any one but Borchers.

PLACE TO PRACTICE.

High School Footballists Hope to Use University Campus.

The High school football team will have a place to practice this year. The boys will use the campus of the old University. It will be put in first class condition, bleachers are to be erected and also a ten-foot fence around the campus.

In the event the school remains there this season, it is quite likely that all games in which the "Champs" participate, will be played on the campus.

KING DISSATISFIED.

Offers to Buy $100 that He Can Beat Turville.

W. F. King, the gritty lad who carried off first honors in the twenty-four hour race, but who was sadly handicapped in the fifty-mile contest of Tuesday night, is anything but satisfied with the outcome of that race, and is anxious to try another. He will bet $100 even money, he can defeat Turville in a fifty-mile race.

There are men who believe King is capable of following faster pace than Turville can, and if he can secure the race would beat Turville. King will ride against either the winner or Lawson.
