TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—After the morning business, the Senate took up Vest's resolution providing for a select committee to examine the question touching the meat products of the United States. After a long discussion the resolution was extended so as to make the investigation embrace the Trunk Line Association, the Central Traffic Association and other agencies of transportation and it was then adopted.

The Senate bill appropriating $500,000 for the commencement of a boat railway around the obstructions of the Columbia River at The Dalles and Celilo Falls was taken up. It was advocated by Senators Mitchell, Dolph and passed.

The Senate then took up the calendar.

The following bills were passed:

The Senate bill increasing the limit of the cost of the public building at Sacramento, Cal., to $1,000,000 and appropriating $50,000 additional.

The House bill relating to crimes against the Postoffice Department as to postal orders, second class mail matter, obscene or offensive postal cards and envelopes, etc., (with amendments).

The Senate bill for the presentation of badges to officers and men of the Greely relief expedition.

The Senate bill fixing the pensions for the loss of one eye (or sight thereof) at $16 a month, and proportionately for the loss of both eyes.

The Senate bill authorizing the leasing of school and university lands in Wyoming.

The Senate bill allowing a state of Soldiers' homes for disabled soldiers at the rate of $100 a year for each disabled soldier and sailor maintained there, and appropriating $250,000 for that purpose.

The Senate bill to confer brevet promotion on army officers particularly distinguished by heroic action in Indian warfare.

Having passed 29 bills the Senate proceeded to executive business and soon adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

Baker (New York) spoke against the bill. He wished to give an object lesson, and produced three pairs of stockings displaying the colors of the American flag, which were manufactured in Rochester. He presented the stockings to the gentleman from Texas (Mills), with the suggestion that he send the red ones to the president, the white ones to the Speaker, and keep the blue ones himself as typical of his own feelings at the end of the session when he should have defeated his measure. He predicted, on account of the Mills bill, that an increased republican majority in his district would be given for the candidate for the presidency, provided he steered clear of alliteration's active divines. [Laughter.]

Bound (Pennsylvania) regarded the Mills bill as a long stride in the direction of free trade, and the inauguration of a tariff policy which must eventually prove ruinous and disastrous, in which his people were largely interested.

Sumner (New York), said nearly half the manufacturers of the country whose interests were placed at hazard by this bill were democrats. He had letters from the most pronounced democrats in his district protesting against many features of the measure. These men had come to Washington, had had a partisan door shut in their faces, and had gone home like all the opposition men with revenge in their hearts. There were revising committees in all labor assemblies which would pass upon the merits of this bill and the laboring men would decide its fate in the ballot box.

Bayne (Pennsylvania),

CRITICISED THE PRESIDENT

for not having permitted the House to formulate a proper bill for the revision of the tariff. No other President in any emergency of the country had sent to the House a message so positive and so nearly indicating a line of policy on the economic question. The President had not only done that, but it was said that through the influence of the administration democratic nominations in the various districts had been controlled in the interest of the free trade policy. The democrats of good standing and influence, who here before had looked upon as leaders of the party, had been denied the benefits of patronage, had been denied access to the President's councils, and were being driven by every means at the command of the administration from the ranks of the democratic party. It had even been asserted that public measures involving public interests had been denied executive sanction because of the attitude of certain representatives in Congress on the question of tariff revision, and it had been shown that the administration had rewarded the recalcitrant Kenedy Hall for having espoused the cause of the Mills bill on the floor of the House. [Applause.] Presidents Cleveland had been elected on a straddling platform which meant protection in New York and free trade in the South. Was it fair play that a president elected on a straddling platform should influence the House in favor of free trade?

Laird (Nebraska) declared the surplus policy of the administration has had a disastrous effect upon the farming interests of the country. Whether the origin of that policy was in ignorance, indifference or mendacity, its culmination had its result in costing the farmers millions of dollars in addition to the late set charges on loans. He dwelt upon the dangers flowing from the surplus, and asserted his readiness to attack it at both ends by paying the just debts of the government and the reductions of customs and internal revenue. He attacked the feature of the Mills bill as being sectional and unfair, and he advocated the presentation of a fair and honest measure by the republican Representatives.

Weaver (Iowa) said the Mills bill was a measure. He declared the republican party was in flight and busily burning the bridges and felling the trees along the road over which the democratic party must advance for the relief of the people. He inveighed against trusts and combinations which had grown up under the protective tariff.

FAIR AND REASONABLE

Ryan (Kansas) said Cleveland's tariff measure was his platform for the coming campaign. He had struck at Randall, McAdoo, Goran, and all their jolly fellowship. Were the powers of an administration ever before prostituted to such base purposes? England, the Wall Street bondholders and those who degrade American labor wanted the bill, but the laborers, manufacturers and farmers did not want it.

Plath (New York) made a long speech in favor of tariff revision. He was disappointed that as yet no republican bill to reform the tariff had been presented.

Allen (Michigan) referring to the President's message, said that this was not the first time that Cleveland conjured up a lion to frighten the people. He had met the first lion in the form of Central New York when he wrote his letter of acceptance, in which he pointed out the danger to republican institutions from the President attempting to secure a second term by undertaking to use his office to re-elect himself. Now not a state convention was held in the United States to send delegates to St. Louis, where the officeholders of the United States, appointed by President Cleveland, did not come up and devour the convention like the lice of Egypt, and today in every state the officeholders were deciding who should be the delegates, regardless of the wishes of the democratic masses. Referring to the surplus resolution and the Beck amendment thereto, he declared that it was smothered in committee, because, if the President signed it, the gold bugs would be on his back, and if he vetoed it, the great people of the West would defeat him at the polls.

Bynum (Indiana) said when the gentleman made the assertion that he did not state a fact.

Allen ventured the prediction that the bill would never be brought to a vote. The bill was smothered and being smothered. Whether they would ever let in a little air upon it he did not know, but today it was in the process of dissolution.

Bynum—That statement is not true.

Allen took no notice of the remark and concluded his speech without further interruption.

Daizell (Pennsylvania) rose to correct what he said were some gross misstatements that had been made in his district. He then proceeded to criticise and review Scott's business life, and after reading the list of mining, manufacturing and railroad enterprises in which Scott had been engaged, sarcastically congratulated the laboring people of the country on securing a champion so free from the taint of monopoly, etc.

This brought about a running debate between Scott and Dalzell of a warm nature, during which the former issued the latter he cared no more for his attacks than the barking of a dog in the street. He denied vehemently ever having been the oppressor of labor. He had never hired detectives to prosecute persons, men who were working for him or had worked for him.

Brumm (Penn.), also took a hand in the matter and claimed he could prove that Scott contributed toward paying the coal and iron police in the coal regions.

This charge Scott denied emphatically, challenging Brumm to prove it, and the latter pointed he would.

The committee then rose and took a recess until 8 o'clock, when Messrs. Wickham, (Ohio), Montgomery, (Kentucky) and Shively, (Indiana), spoke on the tariff question.

Adjourned.

The Methodist Conference

NEW YORK, May 16.—A motion was made in the Methodist conference this morning providing that hereafter it shall require a two-thirds vote to constitute a election of a bishop. After considerable debate, the motion was carried by a vote of 223 to 131.

The Forger Jones Missing.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The World says the bondsmen of Latimer E. Jones, the young financier who is awaiting trial, charged with forgeries amounting to between $70,000 and $80,000, are considering the alarming fact that Jones has disappeared. They failed to do so, and his bond of $15,000 was declared forfeited, and Judge Gilvereleeve issued a bench warrant for his arrest.

CASE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Complicated with Gravel. How Help came at last. A Lucky Woman.

I have long resolved that I would apprise you of the deep sense of obligation which I feel. There is nothing which I now enjoy that I do not owe to the happy chance of having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy at a time when I was suffering all that a human being could endure. My troubles began in my Kidneys over nine years ago and from which I never expected to recover. First there was increasing pains in the small of my back and in my loins. I was feverish with no appetite and no sleep. I was compelled to use a cane when I walked, and I finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was terrible. I was burning up with a fever or constantly shivering as if cold. In a few months my physicians said I had Bright's disease, which was indeed alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of gravel. When the made its appearance my physician gave up my case and I resigned myself to die. Up to this time I had four different doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Six years ago last June, how well I remember the day, a new Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy of Rondout, N. Y., advertised in our town, I purchased a bottle, paying the price of One Dollar, and used it faithfully. After using one bottle I threw away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me, this was six years ago. I have never had a return of gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age I am now vigorous and strong as I was in my prime.—Mrs. Emeline F. Mizner, Burg Hill, Ohio.

As it is making a mistake, by remembering the name of my medicine, Favorite Remedy. Price $1.00, made at Rondout, N. Y.
