In Women's World.

Massage is the most important feature of a shampoo, just as it is the main working principle of all hair "tonics," writes Florence Augustine in the February Smith's.

"A tonic which is not 'rubbed in,' according to directions, is not a guaranteed cure—you note on the bottle! Massage of the scalp is absolutely necessary to keeping it in good condition. It should be done with the tips of the fingers, regularly, thoroughly, vigorously."

It is possible to work successfully "for the child that needs a home and the home that needs a child." In other words, can a great number of unfortunate boys and girls be saved from public institutions by the system of finding havens for them in places that are "homes" on the best acceptance of the world? A year of practical experience has proved that remarkable results can be accomplished by a child-rescue campaign conducted in the principle that universal mother-love can be awakened to a sense of responsibility for the neglected children of the world.

Not only have many childless women adopted boys and girls, but many careless and temporarily helpless mothers have been aroused to a sense of their highest duty. The secondary influence of this work—this stirring-up of latent maternal solicitude—may be productive of the most widespread reforms.

Friday evening the Misses Louise and Claudia Holt gave a box party to Uncle Diander, Mrs. Snowcroft, Miss Mae Snowcroft, Miss Ben Nibley and Mrs. Telitha Browning at the Broadway to see Sallie Fisher in "A Stubbish Cinderella." It was "big rush" night and "dewy." It was "big rush" night with some of the Columbia students and old walls ring with their cheers.

Thursday afternoon a special performance of the first act of "A Stubbish Cinderella" was given for Ethel Barrington. It being her desire to see the first act of the piece, as she had been unable to attend a full performance, and her brother Jack being leading man his sister naturally felt a deep interest in seeing him a star at Broadway. Miss Barrington was the audience and she sat at the conclusion of the act that it was the greatest compliment she ever received. The company volunteered to give it as which will reduce institutional work to the minimum. A letter from California published in the February Delinquent, tells its own story. The writer says:

"It is through your Child-Rescue articles that I have my three children out of the Home in which I had been forced to place them for a year. Your first article touched me to the depths, and each succeeding one. They told me what I knew to be the truth—it's far, far better for the little ones to be in a private home. I could not see my way to leave them and also work for them, but your precious articles strengthened me and finally led me to take my two children out and home and worked for them, sewing, etc., and last July my youngest one also came back to me. I am now in charge of a day nursery that has just been started, so you see I am working for my little ones and at the same time with them."

"It is you, dear friend, that has really done that for me, and also, maybe, for many others. Your influence is, indeed, widespread and is a power for good."

This letter opens a vista of possibilities to the philanthropic mind. It is a knowledge of what motherhood is, and as the highest privilege of life, there will be little need of institutions and child-rescue campaigns, but until the better understanding comes there is much to be done. Let all who can help in bringing together the home and the child.

LEFT ON HER DOORSTEP FOR THIS MOTHER

Mrs. A. Q. Tison, of Livermore, Cal., writes: "I picked up from my doorstep one day a little book in which I soon became very much interested. My little girl of five years of age had been troubled for a long time with loss of appetite, extreme nervousness and undue fatigue. She was all run-down and in a very delicate condition."

"This little book was very comprehensively written, and told of the new method of extracting the medicinal elements of the cod's liver from the oil, eliminating the obnoxious oil which is so hard for children to take."

"Just the thing," said I, "for my little daughter," and I immediately went for a bottle of Vinol. It helped her wonderfully. She has gained rapidly in flesh and strength, and she does not take cold half so easily."

"I am extremely grateful for the good it has done her, and I hope other mothers who have weak, delicate or ailing children will be benefited by my experience and just give Vinol a trial."

ly, and every portion of the scalp should be moved from the skull, the fingers traveling in little circles over the surface. In this way, the sluggish circulation is aroused, the pores are opened, the glands are excited to attend to their duty of oiling and lubricating the roots.

Massage should always follow a shampoo, but this is not often enough for the unhealthy scalp. A daily dry scalp or a too-often one—bad circulation and weak muscles are to blame for both conditions—should have massage every night. In the case of the dry scalp, a little bland oil, olive oil or oil of benne rubbed in is beneficial. These oils take the place of the natural output of the sebaceous glands which are not doing their duty. For the oily scalp, bay-rum or alcohol rubbed in after the shampoo is stimulating and drying.

A PRETTY FROCK OF EMBROIDERY.

It is no easy to contrive a very drowsy frock from the embroideries sold now in matching patterns that no woman could be without at least one lingerie dress for summertime. Eyelet flouncing in this case is combined with double-edge insertion of the same design, the upper part of the skirt being made of sheer Persian lawn. The arrangement of the insertion makes a paneled effect, which continues up the bodice at back and front, and the sleeves of the flouncing fall over undersleeves of lace and lawn. A border of this lace and lawn lengthens the skirt at the foot and forms a pretty finish to the embroidery flounce.

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(Sunday evening at 11 west One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, mission headquarters, a large well social was given Elder Cottom and a few evenings later Mr. and Mrs. Easton entertained the young people of the Colony in honor of Mr. Cottom. At both houses a general good time was the order, and many expressions of good will followed for their friends who leaves in a few days for Washington. For some time Mr. Cottom has been holding meetings in a large church at Fort Lee, N. J. The church is a new one and without a pastor at present. As a price is always agreed upon for the minister Elder Cottom offered to speak for nothing if the people would grant him the privilege. The offer was accepted, so that for the past six Sundays each Sunday has found him addressing the congregation. Several of those who have listened to him have come over to Hawthorne hall, N. Y., to regular afternoon services and the people here, and a mutual good feeling has been established between residents of Fort Lee and the New York branch. Elder Cottom is entitled to praise for his work while here, his labors have been indefatigable and his popularity among all classes of people.

Friday a telegram was received from Ogden, calling Joseph Snowcroft of that place home. Business of importance demanded his presence and he left last night. Mrs. Snowcroft will remain two weeks longer and return with her brother-in-law, Alvin Snowcroft who arrives this week. W. C. Patrick of the same firm will be a week longer. Mrs. Snowcroft has left the Imperial and taken a house at 11 west One Hundred Twenty-sixth street with her daughter, Miss Mae Snowcroft who is a student here this winter. Miss Telitha Browning of Harvard college and a boarder at Brooke's had moved from that dormitory to 11 west One Hundred Twenty-sixth street also to be near her friend, Miss Snowcroft the rest of the season.

Friday evening the Misses Louise and Claudia Holt gave a box party to Uncle Diander, Mrs. Snowcroft, Miss Mae Snowcroft, Miss Ben Nibley and Mrs. Telitha Browning at the Broadway to see Sallie Fisher in "A Stubbish Cinderella." ## THE PREVALENCE OF IMITATION JEWELRY.

The craze for semi-precious ornaments has, oddly enough, set "fake" jewelry in high favor, and many women who possess thousands of dollars' worth of gems have been lately looking about this year, while they wear the fashionable hydropoxes, Egyptian turquoise and other fashionable stones. This is the case with the dainty and charmingly in style, and the delicate mounting of the stones on slender bands of silver is very pleasing. The ornament at the front of the necklace is made of tiny gold pearls set in sterling silver, large, beautiful pearls forming the pendant. The most striking, which match this necklace, are quite as correct this winter as though they represented a value of several thousand dollars.

Foley's Honey and Tar clears the air passages, stops the irritation in the throat, soothes the inflamed membranes, and the most intimate congestions. Sore and inflamed lungs are healed and strengthened, and the cold is expelled from the system. Rub it on, but for bronchitis in the severe stage—F. J. Hill Drug Co. (The Never Substitutes).

INWARD AND OUTWARD.

The inward effects of humors are worse than the outward. They weaken all the organs, inflame the mucous membrane, cause catarrhal troubles, and endanger the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla eradicates all humors and cures all their effects. It's the great alternative and tonic. It cures where merit has been everywhere established.
