LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY.

RECOVERING.—Abraham Day, the little son of Mr. David Day, who met with a severe accident last Saturday afternoon, is progressing nicely and strong hopes of his recovery are entertained.

THAT MILITIA.—At a meeting, held for the purpose, in Faust's Hall, last evening, 'Company A, of the Wasatch Cavalry' was organized. Mr. J. M. Orr, was elected Captain, D. R. Firman, First Lieutenant and I. M. Swartz Second Lieutenant. Four Sergeants were also elected.

ANOTHER COMPANY OF EMIGRANTS.—We are enabled to publish the following telegram:

NEW YORK, Sept. 19, 1871, 9 a.m.

To Brigham Young.—Hart's company will leave to-day. I go to Omaha.

W. C. STAINES.

FATHER GRAVES.—Fresh from Provo, honored us with a call to-day. He is as juvenile and jovial as ever. He reports good crops well secured in Utah county, with good prospects of an excellent fair at Provo, and they will have some very good stock on exhibition. Our friend and brother is as eloquent as ever upon grape culture. He has two tons of grapes on less than a quarter of an acre, one vine, Hyde's Eliza, covers 1,400 square feet, and he has already picked 200 lbs. off it. His California grapes he has not covered for three years, and they are in full bearing now. He has also 150 bushels of peaches.

How?—The Cheyenne Leader thinks the Governor of Wyoming is making an ass of himself. We would like to know the opinion of the editor of that journal as to whether gubernatorial assomania is becoming general. We think, however, that it would be well for him to pay a visit to Utah before coming to a conclusion in the matter. This is how the Leader eulogizes John A. Campbell, Gov. of that Territory.—“He who doth not bow down and worship our gubernatorial bow-legs, must take heed lest ruin, if not annihilation, overtake him! Having steadily courted the contempt apparently of the community where he lives, and indulged and nursed his spites to a liberal extent, he likewise sees fit to poke his nose into the private business affairs of those he deems enemies, in the hopes that he can by undermining them in this manner force them into an allegiance with himself, or that failing, to damage or ruin their business. An illustration of this attempt has been witnessed in a recent case in litigation before the courts of this district. Curtis & Arnold, of the First National Bank, Joslin & Park, Harry Rogers, and Jno. H. Martin, Esqs., all gentlemen of high commercial standing, were bondsmen in a certain case. Because some of the principals in the suit were unfriendly to Governor Campbell and his clique, therefore the sufficiency of a bond in the small sum of $24,000, was questioned, and an inquisition ordered. This proceeding makes no progress as yet, and “Johnny” cracks his whip and waxes wroth to no avail. We would like to ask in all earnestness, of the little man, aren't you making an ass of yourself?”

NEEDS CORRECTING.—We direct the attention of the proper parties to the mail irregularity indicated in the following communications. The papers alluded to are sent punctually from this office:

CEPHEA VALLEY, Sept. 15th, 1871.

Editor News.—We would like to know the reason why the DESERET NEWS and other papers do not come to hand regularly. The Fairfield papers arrive regularly. We do not think the fault is at your office, for we believe our papers are put up punctually with the Fairfield and other papers. We got no papers last week, nor this week. It is not only the DESERET NEWS but Eastern papers of different kinds. The Postmaster at Lehi says our papers don't reach there.

Accompanying this note you will find one from the Postmaster at Pleasant Grove.

Respectfully,

JAMES RODEBACK, P. M.

PLEASANT GROVE, Sept. 9th, 1871.

Mr. James Rodeback, Dear Bro.—In answer to your note, received yesterday, I have to say that it is quite a common occurrence to find mail matter directed to your place and other places north, passing in the mails. I always make it a point to return all such by first return mail.

Respectfully,

E. MAYHEW.

MORE OF THE PISCHE DISASTER.

BEAVER, Sept. 19.

Later news from Pische states that the city was consumed in half an hour; 37 were killed and wounded; seven bodies were buried on the 17th and about half a million of dollars worth of property was consumed. Six hundred and fifty kegs of powder exploded in the fire. The property in Jacobs and Sultan's fire-proof cellar was the only property saved.

The late Shooting Case in Cottonwood Canyon.

ALTA CITY, 19.

No decision was rendered yesterday in the case of Kurler vs. Maxwell, in consequence of the non appearance of the jury. A new jury has been impanelled, and the case is now before the court, for a second hearing.

ALTA CITY, Sept. 19.

The jury have rendered a verdict of guilty, and Maxwell was fined fifty dollars and costs.

Captain Kuhl stands his trial for shooting forthwith.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY.

DIED.—Last night, of lung fever, after an illness of several weeks, Thomas Martin, colored. He was kept by Dr. Anderson for some time, but was recently turned over to the city authorities.

HEAVY.—It will be seen by a telegram from Beaver, that Judge H—y's “little boy” met with an accident while hunting, by his gun “kicking” against his face, and, as our agent says, “giving him more cheek.” Our agent must be sarcastic, “giving him more cheek,” just as if such a thing were possible. We have always understood the youth had as much of that as he could carry. We suppose the public are aware that he is the junior partner in the firm of H—y and Son. Although this is a new house it is said considerable business in running Courts has already been done by it. The business, when conducted on the plan adopted by some persons, is said to be lucrative.

BRIGHAM CITY, Sept. 18th, 1871.

Editor News.—Nearly four and a half miles of grading have been completed by the citizens of this place, on the U. N. Judge Smith superintends the work at this point.

A jail is in the course of erection near the Court House, though at present little or no crime is committed in the county. A second crop of “hoppers” is hatching out in some places here, which we do not regret, but hope the process may be of a general nature, for it may prove a general benefit.

The people of this county, and the northern limits of Weber county, are freighting peaches to Cache Valley in small trains, where a ready market is found for that kind of produce.

Respectfully, A. C.

WHICH?—Four or five years ago, a gentleman, summoned as a grand jurymen, before Hon. Chief Justice Titus, in this city, requested to be excused. The Chief Justice inquired on what ground, and was answered on that of being a polygamist, whereupon his honor, in his own peculiar way struck the desk with his fist and exclaimed, “Sit down—that does not disqualify you for being a grand jurymen.” Which must be considered the proper legal authority—Titus or McKean? If Judge Titus, notwithstanding his anti-Mormon prejudices, was not as sound a lawyer, as honest a man, and as upright a judge as McKean, notwithstanding his quondam Methodist parsonial proclivities, we should very much like to know it, and we would take infinite pleasure in publishing that fact, though it would give us a world of trouble to induce the public to believe it was a fact. They would think we were only getting sarcastic.

NAVAJOES EXACTING.—We are indebted to President Young for the following, received per Deseret Telegraph Line:

St. George, Sept. 19, 1871.

To Pres. B. Young.—Bishop Stewart and Jacob Hamblin let the Navajoes have some fifty horses on their own terms, and about sixty of them started home. Jacob, with a small party of whites, started next day to meet Major Powell at the Colorado Ford, and intending to go thence to the Oriba village. The rest of the Navajoes came with Ira Hatch to Toquerville, and on Saturday another company of twenty reached Shunaburg, having come over the trail the same day. I have learned by express from Kanab to-day that twenty-five more have reached that place, on their way to our settlements, all hungry and expecting a heap of presents. Nearly seventy are now in our settlements, and report says the other sixty are waiting on the Pahre for their comrades, and themselves and horses are living on the brethren's corn, while they all profess friendship. They manifest an exacting spirit. Colonel Andrus, with a small detachment, is on the look-out at Short Creek and Winslow.

SELF RESPECT.—There is no feeling, the loss of which is so disastrous to man as self-respect. It is one of the greatest misfortunes that can befall anybody, for with that, as a general rule, goes one of the greatest redeemable features; without it we should think that man must be a poor contemptible creature. The loss of self-respect is caused by a continued persistence in a course opposed to all the higher dictates of conscience, a knowledge of a person's own personal and unmitigated meanness.

Having this view we cannot but think that the “Gubernatorial-rings” hereabouts are in a very unenviable predicament, and it is difficult to decide which feeling should be entertained towards them, pity or contempt; or which should predominate. We reiterate the advice which we have before given to those characters; to repent of their sins and endeavor to regain that self respect, which they have evidently lost; and then, perchance, they may, after due manifestations of true penitence, be looked upon with at least a degree of consideration and respect by honest, law-loving people. There are no people so objectionable to upright men and women as those who act directly in the face of their own convictions of right.

SCARCELY CREDITABLE.—We have been informed the extemporized irrepressibles, otherwise known as the Wasatch Cavalry, comprise quite a sprinkling of the Jewish element. We feel unwilling to believe that any respectable son of Judah would so far demean himself as to have any connection whatever with the “ring.” If the report be correct, the better class of Jews in this City should say to their straying brethren, “To your stores, O Israel!” although, were there any prospect of smelling powder in matter, the advice would very likely be entirely unnecessary.

INFORMATION FOR EMIGRANTS.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says—

With a view to answering the frequent inquiries emanating from citizens of the various European nations respecting the quality and extent of the unoccupied lands belonging to the United States of America and the manner of acquiring a title thereto, the Commissioner of the General Land Office has prepared and is about to issue, a pamphlet, in English, French, Swedish and German, giving, in as simple a manner as practicable, brief statements—first, of the form of government of the United States; second, of our political divisions; third, of the peculiarities of the soil and climate; fourth, of the land system and manner of acquiring titles, and fifth, of our naturalization laws or the manner of acquiring citizenship. In treating these subjects the leading feature will alone be given and each subject will be divested of all minor details and technical references where not absolutely necessary to the full understanding of the subject under consideration. This pamphlet is also intended to take the place of the annual report of the transactions heretofore used for distribution in Europe, and which contained much matter not needed in foreign countries.

The above indicated pamphlet will be an exceedingly useful work for the enterprising seions of Europe, who desire to come over to this new world and help to develop it.

Jes So.—The editor of the (London) Saturday Review says he well remembers the answer he received from an American of whom he inquired what were the war powers enjoyed by President Lincoln? It was “Jes what he damn pleases.” Whatever powers President Lincoln enjoyed, he had the good sense to exercise with a commendable degree of discretion. But there are a number of individuals invested with a little brief authority within a hundred miles of our new meat market, who believe they “enjoy powers,” in peace or in war, to do “jes what they damn please.”

Hats, Boots & Shoes.—We wish to call the attention of Wholesale and Retail Buyers to the prominent position the house of Dunford & Sons, of this city, has held for years in the confidence of the people, and we believe they are still in a better position to cater to the wants of both Wholesale and Retail Buyer than they have ever been before. Examine their goods and prices for yourselves. d&w
