EVENING NEWS.

Thursday, - - June 30, 1887.

A BIT OF EXPERIENCE.

I have met with a good many people
In jogging o'er life's varied way;
I've encountered the clever, the simple,
The crabbed, the grave and the gay;
I have traveled with beauty, with virtue,
I have been with the ugly, the bad,
I have laughed with the ones who were merry;
And wept with the ones who were sad.

One thing I have learned in my journey—
Ne'er to judge one by what he appears.
The eyes that seem sparkling with laughter
Oft battle to keep back the tears,
And long, sanctimonious faces
Hide often the souls that are vile,
While the heart that is merry and cheerful
Is often the freest from guile.

And I've learned not to look for perfection
In one of our frail human kind,
In hearts the most gentle and loving
Some blemish or fault we can find;
But yet I've ne'er found the creature
So low, so depraved or so mean,
But had some good impulse—some virtue
That 'mong his bad traits might be seen.

And, too, I have learned that most friendships
We make are as brittle as glass.
Just let a reverse overtake us—
Our "friends" on the "other side" pass.
But, ah! I have found some few loyal—
Some hearts ever loving and true!
And the joy and the peace they have brought me
Have cheered me my whole journey through.

BRIGHAM CITY.

Beauties and Industries of the "Queen City."

BRIGHAM CITY, UTAH,
June 29th, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

Brigham City is one of the oldest cities in Utah. It dates back to most of the earliest settlements in the northern part of the Territory. A more charming locality for a peaceful home cannot, I think be found through all our mountain regions.

THE "QUEEN CITY,"

which appellation this town truly merits, is built on a piece of high table land a little over a mile west of the mountains, and about two miles east of the Great Salt Lake. Its distance from the "Junction City" north is 22 miles. It was here, in the old Bowery, that the late President Young preached his last public discourse, in the summer of 1877. Some 33 years ago the city plat was first surveyed, and many humble dwellings were erected, gardens were opened, orchards were planted, farms were fenced, and guards were appointed to protect the settlers against Indian depredations. By the indomitable energy and perseverance of the citizens the land began to yield returns in grain and other produce.

Since 1855, under the guiding genius and wise instructions of Apostle Lorenzo Snow, the city has steadily increased in growth, in population and material progress.

At the present time the people, nearly if not quite all of them, own their own houses, plant their own gardens and cultivate their own farms, from which they gather abundance of the good things of life, with which to feed themselves and the strangers who pass within their gates. The city is beautifully laid out, the streets crossing each other at right angles, down many of which ripple streams of liquid wealth to bless the citizens.

"FOREST STREET"

is a splendid boulevard over half a mile in length and extends east from the railroad depot to the Court House. On either side of the spacious road is a double rows of shade trees which render the sidewalks delightful promenades, and the broad roadway is an excellent drive for equestrians. All the streets are ornamented with the tall poplar, the expanding box elder, the broad topped locusts, the Balm of Gilead, or the mulberry, and in many places there are double rows of trees on both sides of the streets.

The suburbs present many enchanting views of rural beauty, where in some of the shady groves the swains may, it would seem, enjoy complete felicity. A little east of Main Street is located the County Court House, from the top of which one may feast his eyes and delight his senses with magnificent views of mountains, lake and river; of farms, fields and meadows; the cattle on the numerous hills; the city beneath us, reposing in undisturbed tranquillity, and many other attractions, all going to make a picture of almost ravishing beauty at this delightful season of the year.

Brigham City at the present time contains a population of about 2,500. Among the industries of this city is the cultivation on a large scale of the mulberry tree, and the production of silk.

In the northeastern part of the city is located a woolen factory with excellent machinery, and a capacity for executing first class work and producing both light and heavy fabrics. But unfortunately at present the works are inoperative. The institution which might under more favorable circumstances give employment to many of the citizens, stands

IDLE AND USELESS.

The cause in part I understand is, that if not dear bought, yet far-fetched articles for raiment are good for ladies, and not at all unacceptable to gentlemen; an expensive and impoverishing policy—the exact antipodes of what our late friend, President Young advised the people to adopt. Home industries, exportation and competition with outside manufacturers, build up, solidify and make wealthy communities; but exporting all the raw materials and then importing them back again in manufactured goods, and paying two or three prices for them, is paying dear for one's whistle.

There is a good tannery here which formerly produced a good supply of leather of an excellent quality. It is now inoperative, the vats are empty, and the hides are shipped to distant points to be manufactured into leather, boots and shoes, and our own have to import the materials for their domestic trade. There are in this city quite a number of boot and shoe manufacturers, all of whom appear to be fully employed at their craft. I believe there are more shoes required here by the people of Brigham for the protection of their soles than in any other city of similar size in Utah. This is owing largely to the sharp gravel that cuts the leather and soon uses up a "pair of understandings."

ST. CRISPINS AT HOME

A manufacturer here supplies nearly all the tin ware that is needed for the people. There are a few other industries in the place. The Co-op and several other stores, together with the wagon and machinery establishment furnish the citizens with mers chandise and rolling stock.

Both city and county have furnished considerable data for volume two of Tullidge's Histories of Utah, which will be issued in the fall of the present year.

I must not forget to record the fact that Brigham City now numbers among its official dignitaries, a

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER.

There was a pretty strong fight for the position between a pair of "Liberals"—Mr. Chase, the present postmaster, and Dr. J. B. Carrington. The latter was the victor, and being as delighted with his erminical honors as a boy is with a new whistle, he is willing to bury the hatchet, be friends with his late rival, and wield his "sword of justice" to fight another "foe."

The educational interests secure due attention and support. During the winter season nine well-conducted schools are in session. At the present time, however, being the heated term, they are enjoying a vacation. John D. Peters, Esq., county superintendent of district schools, takes great interest in promoting the education of the youth, and he is ably assisted in his laudable efforts by parents, guardians and the leading citizens.

The ecclesiastical affairs of Box Elder Stake are presided over by President Oliver G. Snow, whose counselors are E. A. Box and John D. Burt. In this city meetings which are well attended, are held regularly on Sabbath days in the splendid Tabernacle and in the ward meeting houses. Except when the deputies make a raid on some of the citizens, because they will not violate their religious convictions, the calm repose of Brigham City is seldom disturbed. The citizens are peaceable, orderly and law-abiding, and are willing for all others to enjoy the tranquility and all other constitutional privileges they claim for themselves.

I was afflicted for several years with disordered liver, which resulted in a severe attack of jaundice. I had as good medical attendance as our section affords, who failed utterly to restore me to the enjoyment of my former good health. I then tried the favorite prescription of one of the most renowned physicians of Louisville, Ky., but to no purpose; whereupon I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator. I found immediate benefit from its use, and it ultimately restored me to the full enjoyment of health.

TESTIMONIALS:

SALT LAKE CITY, March 26, 1886.

Rocky Mountain Churn Company,

GENTLEMEN:—We have carefully examined your Patent Churn, and take pleasure in stating that we believe it is one of the best inventions in that line ever brought before the public, and we have no doubt but that this churn will commend itself to every practical farmer and dairyman as being a great invention and labor-saving machine. In fact we cannot speak too highly of it.
