The platform was then read. It declares with grateful pride that the republicans of Indiana endorse and ratify the action of the national convention. Affirming allegiance to the principles and policy of the remaining for President and Vice-President a united and successful support. The electoral vote of Indiana will be given for Harrote of Indiana will be given for Lis rison and Morton. In commending Benjamin Harrison to the people of the United States we repeat the words in which the State presented him as a candidate for nomination—a republican without equivocation, always in the fore front of every contest, de-voted to the principles of his party with which he has been identified since its organization, prominent and realous in all its campaigns, what and trusted in its councils, serving with honorable distinction in the military and civil service of the government, of great abilities, a long and distinguished public life of high character and unolemished reputation. A SEVERE ARRAIGNMENT of the democratic party in Indians, charging conspiracy, lorgery of returns, gerrymandering, frauds in the election of a United States Senator election of a United States Senator and corruption in the conduct of public institutions. It contains a labor plank demanding laws against imported servile labor, against the employment of children in factories and in mines for labor, for safeguards in hazardous accupations, for arbitration between capital and labor, etc.

On the liquor question it declares for local option, favors liberal pensions to ex-Union soldiers and saliors, declares railways and other public corporations should be put under legislative control. Elias Merris & Co.. SALT LAKE CITY

The names of ex-Governor Porter, Lieutenant Governor Robertson and Hon. Wm. Camback were placed before the convention for Covernor. Immediately after the platform had been adopted Cumback read the following resolution, which was adopted amidst vociferous cheers:

The republicana of Indiana assembled in convention, bid hearty welcome to Hon. James G. Blaine. The enthurs slastic honors now being paid him by the people of the United States are appropriately awarded to a public servant who has always and under all circumstances been conspicuously an American. Blaine's services to the republican party have been manifold and able, but his services to the United States as a representative American have been even more notable and

States as a representative American have been even more notable and praiseworthy. Whether at home or abread his voice and influence have been powerful for the advocacy and for the furtherance of those principles and that policy which have made us the most prosperous nation in the

At this juncture the committee ap-I RSCORTING GENERAL HARRISON.

The convention, as if by magic, rose and began a demonstration that was scarcely paralleled at Chicago. After the chiusiasm subsided General Harrison spoke in substance as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention:—This enthusiasm and kindly reception crowns a series of friendly acts on the part of my republican friends of Indiana. To be worthy of your confidence is the highest ambition I can have, What you shall do today will influence the prosperity and welfare of the state. Such a meeting is a notable historical event. We have today transpiring in this country two others that are attracting wide interest. At the chief scaport of our country that great American, James G. Blaine, returns to his home. We will not be disappointed I hope in hearing his powerful voice in Indiana before the campaign is old. Another before the campaign is old. Another scene attracts our solemn and tearful interest. While you are transacting your business here today, a draped train is bearing to the place of his interment at Washington the mortal part of Philip H. Sheridan. From the convention at Chicago we sent him our greetings and earnest prayers for his restoration. Today we mourn our hero dead. He was one of the earnest fighters for his country who did not, at the end of his first day's fight, contemplate rest and recuperation for his own command. He rested and refreshed his command with the wine of victory and found recuperation in the dispersing of the enemy. This gallant son of Ireland and America has written a chapter in the art of war that scene attracts our solemn and tearful ten a chapter in the art of war that will not fail to instruct and develop, when the exigencies may come again, others who shall repeat in defense of our flag his glorious achievements. A recess was then taken. On reassembling the names of Cumback, Congressman George W. Steele, Rev. Ira J. Chase and Gen. Alvin P. Hovey were put in nomination. Delegate Posey, who had nominated Governor Porter, withdrew his name. Governor Hovey was nominated on the first ballot. The other nominations were as follows: For lieutenant governor, Ira J. Chase, of Danville; for judges of the tupreme court, Silas T. Coppee, John G. Berkshire, Walter Olds; secretary of state. Charles T. A committee was named to wait upon the national republican committee with a view of the adjustment of the difficulty, and pledging the state committee to abide by its action.

New York, August 8.—Several tugs and steamers with delegations on board are lying at the docks waiting for news that the steamer with Blaine on board has been sighted off Fire Island, when they will go down the bay to meet him. They tarry many floral offerings and several orators.

At Quarantine it was learned the City of New York has not yet been sighted, and with the band the party went ashere 1,000 strong and resolved fiself into a mass meeting on the green turi.

R. P. Porter presided, and the speakers stood in a buggy. Ex-United States District Attorney Jenney, of Brooklyn, first spoke, and was followed by William Harrison Milter, of Indiana, Ceneral Harrison's law partner, Murat Halstead, of Cincinnat, and others. The expected steamer net having been reported at 8 p. m., the Stoam returned to the city and will start out in the morning again. AWAITING BLAINE.

GRORGIA DEMOCRATS. ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 8,—The state democratic convention rengminated the present state ticket by authoration. A resolution was adopted endorsing the democratic state administration, and the democratic national platform, laying special stress of the tariff reform plant and the President's message. General Gordon made a brief speech in which be dwelt on the Solid South. THE REMAINS.

There are no flowers on the casket and no floral display will be made.

From this time on no one will be allowed to see the remains except Mrs. Sheridan, members of the family and the General's staff. It is not expected that any one at Washington except a limited number will be allowed to view the remains, it being the special desire of the family to avoid all display and conduct everything quietly. The casket will be borne from the Sheridan cottage to the wharf on the shoulders of six men, and will be excerted by a detail of Grand Arms veterans and a special guard of honor from the Loyal Legion. Following the casket will come the funeral cortege.
