FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

No afternoon telegrams—Wires down.
 Regular meeting of the City Council to-night.
 Roland Reed will appear in "Cheek" at the Salt Lake Theatre, on Friday and Saturday.

There was a sharp frost last night. Standing water was covered with a thin coating of ice this morning.

Diphtheria has made its appearance in Beaver. One child has died and others are down with it.

Mr. Savage informs us that his barometer still indicates unsettled weather, so it is likely that more rain or snow is in store for us.

Martin Florida, a former deputy sheriff of this county, is in town. He is located at Junction City, on the Denver & Rio Grande R. R., and has come here to purchase supplies.

It is reported in Southern Utah that Orson Nay, the Montello train robber who was so badly wounded, had died at the Nevada State prison, at Carson. The rumor needs confirmation.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society has offered over three thousand dollars in prizes for the coming season, as follows: $1,500 for plants and flowers; $850 for fruits; $500 for vegetables; $100 for gardens and green-houses; and $125 for essays on shrubs, plants, green-houses, live hedges, and fertilizers.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

New Motor.—Mr. Samuel L. Adams, who is an excellent mechanic, has invented a new water motor, which was tried on one of the hydrants on South Temple Street to-day. It has advantages over any other that we know anything about in two special particulars, but as the gentleman purposes obtaining a patent on his production, we refrain from giving a detailed explanation at this time.

Serious Effect of Beans.—It has been frequently asserted that beans are not hurtful, but on the contrary highly beneficial. Mr. A. Schausenbach, of Ogden, is doubtless prepared to assert a contrary opinion. A sack of beans weighing 75 pounds fell from the holster of an elevator on Wednesday and struck that gentleman on the head, doing him a serious injury. The hurtfulness or benefit of beans depends greatly upon the manner in which they are taken. The Ogden Herald states that Mr. Schausenbach is recovering.

"Cheek."—"Cheek" is a dramatic gem from the pen of Fred Maraden, one of the most successful playwrights of the day, and will be produced at the Theatre on Friday evening, by a company which is pronounced by the press, in every city where it has been presented, to be of unusual merit. Roland Reed, who takes the principal character, is one of the most pleasing comedians on the stage, and has the rare faculty of winning the friendship of an audience as soon as he appears upon the stage. He is noted for his fine vocal ability, his natural humor, and his great control of his features. The piece was written for him, and consequently he has ample opportunity for the display of those peculiarities in which he excels. The piece will also be presented on Saturday night, besides a matinee the same afternoon.

More Prohibition.—The stalwart position taken by the capital of Cache, upon the liquor question, is beginning to bear good fruit in other places. We learn from a citizen of Parowan that a petition is in circulation among the citizens there asking for the passage, by the City Council, of a prohibitory ordinance. The document was at last accounts receiving a large number of names—those of the overwhelming bulk of the people, and doubtless the city fathers will listen to the appeal of their municipal children. They are morally bound to do so, for the leading sentiment of the people of the corporation should be respected by their servants, placed in office by their suffrages. The charter of Parowan City gives full authority for the passage of the prohibition ordinance, enabling the corporation, in relation to the liquor traffic, to "license, tax, regulate or prohibit." We heartily wish the good people of Parowan success in this laudable movement. There is but one saloon there, and that is just too many. We hope to hear of other cities of Utah following in the exemplary wake of Logan.

Fidelity and Valor Recognized.—The following communication, received yesterday, together with the substantial tokens of recognition named in it, at Ogden, by Mr. Ross, explains itself, and is creditable to the company employing the intrepid messenger, who was deeply moved by their generosity:

Wells, Fargo & Company,
 Express and Banking,
 San Francisco, April 2, 1883.
 Mr. A. Y. Ross, Messenger,
 Ogden, U. T.

Dear Sir: Supplementing my letter of February 24th relating to your intrepid conduct at Montello, January 23d, in successfully resisting the attack of five highway robbers on your car and, in fact, in having practically protected the lives and property of the passengers on the train, I herewith enclose you a check for $1,000, as a substantial tribute from this company; and also, as a mark of special recognition and possibly more enduring recognition, a gold watch, chain and seal, engraved as follows: "From Wells, Fargo and Co. to Messenger A. Y. Ross, in token of his courageous and successful defense of the express car against highway robbers at Montello (Nev.) January 23, 1883." I never doubted, from my previous knowledge of your bravery, that in such an emergency which occurred at Montello, your heroism would be manifested; but the sturdy exhibition could not and cannot be otherwise than inspiring to all fellow employees and persons holding places of trust, stimulating them to emulate such an example of fidelity and valor. With all good wishes for you and yours, I am very truly,
 JOHN J. VALANDER,
 General Superintendent.

HEAVY ROBBERY.

MR. NELSON BUKOFSKY VICTIMIZED TO THE EXTENT OF FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Yesterday Mr. Nelson Bukofsky, of this city, was made the victim of misplaced confidence to the extent of five thousand dollars. For the purpose of going into business in this city, in company with his brother, he mortgaged his house and lot for the amount named, that he might have the necessary capital. He drew the money at one of the banks yesterday, and went to his office, accompanied by Charles W. Davis, a man whom he had employed for several months past, and in whom he had placed considerable confidence. Davis also subsequently accompanied Mr. Bukofsky to the latter's house, and knew where the money was placed.

When Mr. Bukofsky retired for the night, towards ten o'clock, the money, which consisted of a large roll of greenbacks, was safe in the place where he deposited it, but to his consternation, he discovered this morning that it was gone.

Diligent search was made for Davis, who lived in the house, but there was no doubt that he is the party that committed the robbery. It transpires that he is a somewhat notoriously loose and dishonest character, a fact of which Mr. Bukofsky was not aware until to-day, when he was made acquainted with it by the police, to whom Davis is well known.

Mr. Bukofsky, who is placed in a very distressing position by the incident, is very desirous for the capture of the thief, and authorizes us to state that he will pay a reward of $500 for his arrest.

Charles W. Davis is described as about 5 feet 9 inches in height, hair and complexion only moderately dark, and has a small mustache. He weighs something over 160 pounds, and walks with a swinging gait. One of his eyes droops at the outer corner and he has a bullet mark in the left groin, the ball being still lodged near the hip. He had on dark clothes, shoes and a soft hat, all new, having been lately bought by Mr. Bukofsky.

Unity Club Entertainment.—The entertainment given at the Theatre last night by the Unity Club was attended by a very large audience, and it is rarely that we have seen a more delighted company of spectators. There was no mistaking the verdict in relation to the performance. It was unqualifiedly to the effect that they were unexceptionably excellent, and would, we are satisfied, have been so considered in any city in the Union.

It would take too much space to describe the various tableaux in detail, and we must therefore speak of them as a whole, and pronounce them of a character to inspire every spectator of taste with pleasure, the exhibiting of stately especially exhibiting the poetry of form and posture. In speaking of the exquisite realistic pictures presented we cannot refrain from making mention of some of the scenery of Mr. Tryon's introduction, especially the "Old Street" representation displayed in the tableaux of the "Benedict." And while the ladies and gentlemen who represented the various characters are entitled to commendation for the faithful portraiture they gave, those who manipulated the representations exhibited an advancement of taste and idealism that are quite remarkable, and probably but few persons in the audience were conscious of the great labor and skill required to produce such difficult exhibitions, which were given with striking smoothness and lack of intervening delay between the pieces. While the most of the tableaux were of a dramatic, domestic or poetic character, the programme was spiced by the introduction of a few burlesque pieces, by way of variety. "Lord Ullin's Daughter," which was of this nature, was most supremely ludicrous, and created unlimited laughter. The exaggerated pantomime of the characters, the placid picture of the lake, the wash tub in place of a boat, all departures from adaptability to the words, which were well rendered behind the scenes by Mr. J. S. Lindsay, constituted a picture that reached the sublimity of absurdity and took the house by storm.

Miss Julia Thomas, the talented elocutionist, never showed to so conspicuous advantage in any of her performances as she did last night. Her rendition of "Old Huldah," fairly thrilled the audience with the power of its pathos, many being melted to tears. The lady also exhibited unusual versatility by a rapid transition from the grave and passionate to the humorous, by ably reciting "The Dog and the Lobster," in which she displayed very marked imitative power, shown in the facility with which she expressed in broken English delivered with the German accent. The same ability was manifested in her rendition of "The Engineer's Story," and, being encored each time, of "The Baby." Miss Thomas possesses all the chief elements of an elocutionist of the highest order.

Miss Ada Dwyer was announced to read a scene from Henry VIII, but by consent of the management substituted for it, a domestic piece, entitled "Jamie," written expressly for her, and which is admirably adapted to her style. The story is one in which there is much depth of feeling, and it was most effectively recited, the lady being deservedly encored. Miss Agnes Olsen's superb voice was used to most excellent advantage; she sang with much beauty of expression and great richness. Miss Dwyer was also delightful in her performance, and Mrs. Sarah Langford, nee Olsen, an old favorite, and Miss Maggie Hall sang beautifully. Miss Edith Clawson surprised everybody by the sweetness of her voice and neatness of execution. It is unnecessary to state that Messrs. Careless, Krouse, Beasley, McAllister, Carrington and Olive gave most gratifying, and in some respects masterly performances, their abilities being well known, while Mr. Thomas' orchestra played with their usual skill a number of pieces between the representations. A very acceptable feature of the affair was the fine piano performance of Master Joseph McIntyre, son of Brother Thomas McIntyre. He does credit to Prof. Krouse, his preceptor and gives promise of becoming a prominent musician, judging from his precocity in that direction now. The entertainment was highly creditable to the good taste and judgment of the ladies of the Unity Club, who have received most valuable assistance from Bishop Clawson, who in turn called to his aid Mr. H. McEwan, an old hand in the manipulation of theatrical business. One of the most gratifying incidents connected with the entertainment consists of the fact that the Deseret Hospital will net a substantial sum from it.

From the South.—To-day we received a visit from Elder A. H. Snow, of Brigham City, who has just returned from a mission to the Southern States, for which part of the country he left home on April 12th, 1881. He labored the first six months in Tennessee, in the neighborhood of Nashville. When he and other brethren went there, there were but four members of the Church, but before he left that field forty more were added. During the remainder of the time of his mission, Elder Snow assisted President Morgan in looking after the correspondence of the Southern Mission, and in that capacity visited a number of conferences. He informs us, as other Elders have done, that the change for the better in the sentiment throughout the South regarding the Saints, is very striking. The affairs of the mission are in a satisfactory condition, about 350 people having been added to the Church during last year. Elder Snow spent about three weeks in Ohio, among family relatives, on the way home.

A Fruit House.—The Prairie Farmer thus describes a fruit house, the method of which appears to be very sensible, and as if such a convenience would be useful for a variety of purposes:

An Illinois horticulturist has constructed a fruit house, which is to be a protection alike from summer's heat and winter's cold. Two rows of posts are set in the ground two and a half feet apart, boarded inside and out, and the intervening space filled up with straw, packed in as closely as possible. Two sets of rafters are then put, the upper set three feet above the lower, which are boarded on upper sides, and the space closely packed with straw, after which a cheap board roof is put on. On the 11th of last August, with the temperature 88 degrees in the shade, it was as cold as an ice-house, and contained a quantity of apples as sound as when taken from the trees two months before.

Educational Convention.—On Saturday evening, at 5 o'clock, the Territorial Educational Convention convened in this city, Superintendent L. John Nuttall presiding. The object of the association being the selection of text books, the convention considered that the business for which it was called had been accomplished, and the body consequently adjourned sine die.

A Day Between.—At Draper on the 6th of April, to the wife of Geo. Whetman, a son was born, and the day following, the 7th, another. At last account: mother and boys were getting along nicely.
