THE OGDEN TRIP.

ON Saturday morning President Young and party left this city, by special train, per the Utah Central, to hold meetings for two days in Ogden City. The company left at about a quarter to eight o'clock, reaching their destination in an hour and a half. Among those present were the First Presidency, Presidents Young, Smith and Wells; Elders John Taylor, Geo. Q. Cannon, B. Young Jr., Joseph F. Smith, and Albert Carrington of the quorum of the Twelve; also Bishops Edward Hunter, A. H. Raleigh, E. D. and S. A Woolley; Elders Elias Morris, John Squires, J. R. Winder and several others, with quite a large number of ladies. On the way Bishop Layton, of Kaysville, joined the party.

On arriving at the Terminus the company proceeded direct to the Meeting House, where the people were already gathering. A number of the leading men from the North had come to Ogden to attend the Conference, among whom were President Lorenzo Snow and Bishop Nichols, of Brigham City, and President Peter Maughan and Bishop Preston, of Logan, Cache county. The service was opened, by Elder F. D. Richards, at about a quarter past ten o'clock, the speakers, at the morning's meeting, being Presidents Smith and Wells. In the afternoon Elders Albert Carrington and Geo. Q. Cannon and President Geo. A. Smith, occupied the time. At the close of the afternoon meeting as many of the excursionists as chose to do so returned to Salt Lake city, by special train, the train running morning and evening each day.

A meeting was held on Saturday evening, at half past six o'clock, at which there was a large attendance, the speaker of the evening being Elder Joseph F. Smith.

Yesterday morning a large number of citizens of Salt Lake city went up, to nullify no small amount of the advantages they have gained in the war; and it gives room to doubt the patriotism of the present provisional government, and some reason to believe the charges of fondness for and determination not to resign, power, preferred against its members by the malcontents

A Constituent Assembly elected and in session, and systematic measures, for the vigorous continuance of the war, or peace resolutions, would soon have been adopted and have been acquiesced in by and acceptable to the people generally. Authority at the head of affairs, which the people will recognize as legitimate, was never more needed than at the present time in France; that authority does not exist, and hence the danger of internal division through the machinations of malcontents, ever the curse of any country and especially of France in times of trouble and excitement. Should those turbulent spirits, the "Reds," who are ripe for mischief, gain the ascendancy at the present criti cal juncture, there is every reason to believe that, with their rabid and bloodthirsty tendencies, the horrors of the present deplorable situation would be intensified.

The Prussians were willing to accede to French proposals for an armistice, in order to hold elections for members to the Constituent Assembly; but nothing further. This would have been a great point gained for France, for it would once again have placed her in sessing and wielding power, as the representatives of the entire people, which thalers bail. it might have been reasonably hoped would soon have given a different hue to the complexion of affairs throughout the country. Such an event would have been of more importance than the revictualing of Paris, whereas now, neither one nor the other can be expected.

Viewed under all circumstances it is to be regretted that a rejection of an armistice has been concluded upon; for the election of a Constituent Assembly now, would do more to restore order throughout the nation than any effort of a merely provisional government. however wise, industrious, disinterested and patriotic its members may be.

And if there be any such elders present this after-noon, I counsel them not to partake of dred thousand dollars' worth. He paid the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and not to cease their efforts until such money is repaid, and neglect to do this shall subject them to the risk of being disfellowshipped by the Saints."
