EDITORIAL NOTES.

A lady in Oakland, Me., died recently from the effects of eating cloves, which her physician stated had entirely destroyed the coating of her stomach. Persons who go out "to see a man" between the acts of the play should take warning.

That a vessel should be built in Germany for an Englishman is rather surprising, but nevertheless it is a fact. The shipbuilding firm of Ullrich, in Vegesack, near Bremen, is at present constructing an 800-ton steamer for an English ship owner.

At the annual meeting of Mr. Beecher's Church, held recently, that gentleman said: "I must confess that Plymouth Church has become rather a spiritual hotel than a church. People come here to be filled and go away again without any thoughts of housekeeping."

A perpetual clock was started at Brimfield a little over a year ago. An up draught is obtained in a tube of shaft by expelling it to the sun; this draught turns a fan, which winds up the weight of the clock until it reaches the top, when it activates a brake that stops the fan, but leaves it free to start again after the weight has gone down a little. At the last of June the clock was running perfectly, after having been in motion for nine consecutive months.

An enthusiastic and successful inventor who is a member of the British College of Civil Engineers, says that the experts within ten years to put boilers into a steamship to make the passage across the Atlantic in four days. His use of compressed fluid is described as vastly increasing the strength of the boiler, and his income from the device is already large. It is his purpose to establish business in the United States, and he recently visited Philadelphia on a prospecting tour.

M. DeLeers is something of a philosopher. His business wit has taught him some great truths, and his experience has tested their value. For instance, he recently said that he should be glad to meet any people face to face who had complaints to make of his management of the Rux Canal, "because," he added, "I have always found that it is by the interposition of a third party that difficulties arise, and that when people meet face to face such difficulties can be settled in peace and harmony." Wise M. DeLeers.

The American Register says, with the force of indisputable truth: "Some men, indeed too many, seek to get along in the world by perverting the truth, and by detraction and slander and defamation. This is a melancholy truth and a disgrace to human nature. Such men should be marked and shunned as a pestilence, avoided as the poisonous Uvas tree. It is a remarkable fact that the slanderer more frequently injures his dupes, who are misled and imposed on by his slander than the object of his venom and detraction. Beware of the defamer and of all who speak evil of others." We commend the foregoing to men who could be named, who, animated by bitterness, and with ulterior purposes in view, constantly slander and vilify the "Mormon" people.

"One of the commonest ways of accounting for the successful man's success is to refer to him as a man who was 'made by his circumstances.'" Unfortunately for this theory, however, it would be pretty safe to assert that the men who have been made by circumstances have been so made because they were not within the reach of circumstances that would amount to much in the way of 'making' them, according to the world's estimate of the word. And, on the other hand, there are not a few unsuccessful men, who would have been 'made' for so, if the circumstances which favored them could have been changed right around so as to be against them. In all questions of successful work, the old proverb is not yet out of date; that 'where there's a will there's a way,' and where there's a way, there's a 'won't'.

A burned village has been found by the Hon. Amado Chavez a mile from his house, near Sooroor, near Mexico. Mr. Chavez writes to the Santa Fe Review: "It is built of stone. The outer walls are three feet wide, and the city is large enough to have accommodated 3,000 souls. I have already cleared four rooms in the upper story and two on the first floor of the house. The dimensions of the first floor room just finished are 11x13 feet, while from floor to ceiling the distance is about 15 feet. The village is almost square; and this building is situated at the northwest corner. The large room has a large door leading to the outside of the wall, but no windows whatever. In this room I found the skeleton of a girl. The hair is in a perfect state of preservation; it is fine, and of a chestnut color. I also found there a string of fine coral beads, one of turquoise beads, and a ring set with a black stone, on top of which is a piece of turquoise. All the timber of the roof are burned to a char. I have arrived at the door which appears to lead to inner rooms, and I am full of curiosity to open it, but the second floor is only supported by the stones and debris about the door, and should I attempt to remove these the upper story will tumble in and all up the lower rooms, just cleaned out, with a mass of stones, charred timbers and debris."

DEATH OF GENERAL THOS. L. KANE.

The very large majority of Utah's people will be pained to learn of the death of their esteemed and valiant friend, General Thomas L. Kane, which took place this morning at his home in Philadelphia. The sad news came by telegram to Hon. Geo. Q. Cannon. Yesterday he received a dispatch stating that the General was "ill with pneumonia; very little hope, to-morrow will decide." To-day the following was received:

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,
8:29 a. m. Dec. 26, 1883.

Hon. George Q. Cannon:
Your friend died quietly at half past three, this morning.
ELIHA K. KANE.

To this the annexed reply was telegraphed at once:

I am stunned by this sad and unexpected news. President Taylor joins me in expressing the profound sympathy for your mother and the family in your bereavement. Thousands of hearts in this Territory will be filled with grief at the news of the departure of so devoted and steadfast a friend. At what time will the funeral take place?

GEORGE Q. CANNON.

There is no man outside of Utah who holds a warmer place in the hearts of the "Mormon" people than the hero who has just departed. The exact date of his birth we are not able to give at present. He was about sixty years of age, and was born in Philadelphia. His father was the celebrated Judge John Kane, and his ancestors on both sides were illustrious. The family name of Kane came from Chancelor for Kent, notable in the annals of jurisprudence, and the Van Rensselaers, to whom he was related on the mother's side, are well known to fame and out a prominent figure in American history. His brother Dr. Eliha Kane, after whom his son is named, stands prominent among the great men of the age now departed; as an explorer, a surgeon and a scientist he occupies a proud position in the estimation of the well informed in all the civilized world.

Our esteemed friend partook in an eminent degree of the qualities which shone so brightly in his illustrious relatives. His early days were spent in Philadelphia under the influence of the learned Judge, his father, and to complete his education he was sent to England and France, where he spent several years, and the latter part of that time served as Secretary of the Legation at Paris. He then returned home and acted as clerk of the court in which his father presided, took an active part in politics, but declined the official career which was often offered to him. He was a prominent worker in the charitable associations of his state, and was noted for his kindness of heart and moral and physical courage.

His sympathies were powerfully enlisted in the "Mormon" cause when the news of the expulsion from Nauvoo became a subject of public interest. How he interested himself with President Polk and the Administration in company with Colonel Jesse C. Little, when the "Mormons" were seeking aid to cross the Great American Desert to the Pacific slope; how he followed them when the Mormon Battalion was mustered into service—taking the very strength out of the "Mormon" camp that was needed on the journey across the great plains—how he championed the cause of the afflicted people in the lecture halls and assemblies of the chief cities; how he interposed in behalf of this maligned people when, through false representations, an army was sent here to destroy them, how he crossed the isthmus and came up from the south at the solicitation of Pres. Buchanan, traveling incognito and passing through great perils and privations and many dangers; how he explained the facts to the General Government and procured the Commission which came here and found that the reports on which the army were sent here were groundless; how in many ways he befriended an unpopular people and manfully stood up against immense odds for their rights, are incidents in his career which are familiar to all who are acquainted with "Mormon" history.

When the war of the rebellion broke out he enlisted on the side of the Union, and commanded the Pennsylvania "Bucksalters," performing deeds of valor which proved him as brave in the battlefield as in fighting for the right by tongue and pen. He was dangerously wounded, and for some time after his partial recovery went about on crutches, but in a subsequent visit to Utah recovered his health and threw away his wooden supports. For his prowess in the war he was brevetted Major General, a promotion which he richly deserved. He was practically without fear, and in the disputes that arose over the so-called "Mormon" war he challenged General Albert Sydney Johnson to mortal combat.

Gen. Kane was small in stature, but possessed a great and magnetic soul. He was a brilliant writer and an impressive speaker. His views of all public matters and religious and philosophical principles were broad and strongly marked, and the qualities of the statesman, the warrior, the independent thinker, the poetic writer and the generous philanthropist were thoroughly established in his character.

In his labors of love for the unfortunate he has been ably supported by his talented and benevolent wife, who still figures prominently in the great charitable institutions of the country, and whom he has left with three sons and a daughter to honor his name and revive his memory. We condole with the bereaved, and express the sentiments of the people of Utah in imploring the divine influence for the comfort of those who mourn, and in saying, blessed be the name of Thomas L. Kane through all generations, and may the flowers of peace bloom over his grave, and the rest of the righteous be his forever!

A PRIVILEGE AND A DUTY.

Attention is directed to a communication in another part of this paper concerning the Logan Temple and "the widow's mite." A circular in reference to the completion of that Temple has been addressed to the Bishops of this State by the Stake President, in which it is stated that the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars is due on the building, and a further sum of ten thousand dollars is required to finish it. Superintendent C. O. Card says he can obtain five thousand dollars by the sale of teams, wagons and other property belonging to the Temple fund; President Taylor, as Trustee in Trust, has agreed to furnish a further appropriation of ten thousand dollars; and this leaves twenty thousand dollars to be raised by voluntary donations.

It is expected that many of the Saints residing outside of the Logan Temple District proper—that is, (Anche Valley, Bear Lake and Box Elder Stakes)—will desire to avail themselves of the privileges of that Temple, both for themselves and in behalf of their dead, as soon as it is finished and dedicated. They will not want to wait for the completion of the Salt Lake or other Temple, but will be eager to obtain the blessings of the Lord's House in the North. This being the case, it is only fair that they should have the opportunity of assisting in the building work. This privilege will be afforded them. The Bishops in the surrounding Stakes are authorized to receive voluntary donations from those of the people outside the Logan Temple District who wish to assist.

We have no doubt that this privilege will be appreciated by a very large number of the Saints in the Salt Lake Stake, and that they will cordially respond. What they should be done quickly. The name and residence of the donor should accompany the amount subscribed, and when forwarded to Superintendent Card, he will take care that the donors receive due credit.

President Taylor has expressed his dissent to the dedication of the building until it is paid for. We believe this view will be endorsed by the people. No one will wish to offer to the Lord a house built to His name that is burdened and disgraced with a debt. Let it be holy unto the Lord and free from every encumbrance. Its splendid location, architectural proportions and general attractions give it a magnificent appearance, and its internal arrangements, adornings and conveniences are in keeping with its beautiful exterior, and are perfectly adapted for the purposes for which it has been erected. The Saints in the district have been munificent in their donations to build it, now let others step in and give the finishing touch.

The opponents of the Saints rail at the expenditure of so much means and labor in Temple building. But this is none of their business. We have a right as members of the Church to do as we please with our own money and muscle, so long as we do not interfere with the freedom of others. We have a work to do of which they know nothing. It is all important. It relates to our spiritual and eternal benefit, the salvation of our departed friends and the welfare of the whole human family. It makes no difference to us whether our enemies believe it or not; we do, implicitly, and we are acting on our faith, not on their belief. They can rail on, to their heart's content; it will make no difference to us. They may continue to presume to dictate the course we ought to pursue and what we should do with our means and labor, but we are not obliged to pay any attention to their impertinence.

Brethren and sisters, let us go to with our might, finish the Temples we have been commanded of the Lord to build, attend to the ordinances therein for the living and the dead, stand in holy places that we may not be moved when the Almighty shall shake terribly the earth, and prepare ourselves for the great events that are fast approaching, to culminate in the coming of our Redeemer and King. A hint should be sufficient, and the wise will understand.

WHY THEY LIKE IT.

The anti-"Mormon" crusaders like the Cullum bill, which provides for the practical disfranchisement of Utah. They are jubilant at the very idea of the likelihood of its passage. Their endorsement of the measure at their Saturday night's rally in this city was demonstrative and strong.

Why do they like it? Because it would enable them to steal political and material. The bill provides for the appointment from among qualified voters of Utah, of thirteen commissioners, to take the place of the popularly elected Legislature. The leaders in the crusade, who can readily be named, expect, in the event of the passage of the bill, to be members of the proposed constitutional law-making body.

Should such a calamity befall Utah and the country, the power that would thus be placed in the hands of bitter and unscrupulous partisans would be enormous. It would admit of the wholesale robbery of the great bulk of the people by men who have on various occasions shown their utter and need for any position of trust. We do not mean to take the ground that all who appear anxious to be chief actors in an abolition that would put despotic Russia to the blush; are actuated by selfish motives. Doubtless those who have made themselves more than ordinarily conspicuous for the intense bitterness of their partisanship, are actuated by a desire to make it hot for special objects of their spleen, a feeling not much if any better, and totally lacking in the element of magnanimity.

The political revolution that would ensue would have a disturbing tendency generally. Business would be depressed, and a most unsatisfactory condition would ensue throughout. Let no one lay the flattering unction to his soul that the "Mormons" constitute the only class of the population that would suffer injury. They are not so powerfully affected by fluctuations and depressions as others. They can live and thrive under circumstances that would break up other people. It will be the non-"Mormons" who will be placed in some respects at the greater disadvantage. If the non-"Mormon" population outside of the place hunters can stand such a revolution as the one contemplated without protest, they can gulp down a good deal without wincing, or else they fail to comprehend the true character of the sweeping change that is proposed in this Territory.

Philadelphia, Pa., 26.—There is a lively prospect of extensive trouble in the bituminous coal districts of Western Pennsylvania. At Huntington, Bedford, Centre and Clearfield Counties. The producers are exceptionally reluctant to their plans, but it is pretty generally known that a reduction of wages in all departments of labor will be exacted after Dec. 31st. The miners are said to be well organized, and it is estimated that 1,500 to 2,000 men have expressed a willingness to co-operate and assert that a general strike is laid down for the first of January. The dispute between Rochester and Pittsburgh County and their malcontent miners is not entirely adjusted, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary. An undisturbed feeling of insecurity prevails in the striking districts.

Two Deaths.—An Aurora, Sevier County correspondent informs us that two deaths have occurred in that place since the 10th inst. The first was Almira, wife of John W. Curtis, who died at 3 a. m. on the 12th inst., aged 63 years, 3 months and 4 days. She was attacked with congestive chills.

The next was Orson C. Starr, her nephew, who was there with his family on a visit, during the illness of his aunt, taking along a grief as far as Glenwood; while unloading it he hurt his back, and then took cold which settled in the affected place. He continued growing worse until finally he was confined to his bed, and unable to attend his aunt's funeral. He finally succumbed at 3 a. m. on Sunday, the 16th inst., aged 35 years and 8 months. He was First Counselor to Bishop Cloward, of Burrville, and died as he had lived a faithful Latter-day Saint. His aunt, Sister Curtis, was an example of gentleness and endurance, having passed through all the trying scenes with the Saints in their drivings and expulsions from the States, and was never heard to murmur or complain.
