Montgomery Queen's Circus and Menagerie.—This mammoth Combination Circus, Hippodrome and Menagerie has met with great success since it opened on the Jackson street lot one week ago, and every seat within the canvas enclosure is nightly occupied. Matinees every afternoon attract large numbers of visitors from neighboring towns, as the arrangements made by Mr. Queen with the different railroads and ferries allow of their returning on the same day on excursion tickets. The Menagerie is, without doubt, one of the most complete in the world, and containing as it does animals from all portions of the globe, purchased at a large expense and transported thousands of miles, should be visited by every one. The Equestrian Troupe, composed of three such leading stars as Charles Fish, Miss Mollie Brown and Romeo Sebastian, cannot be equalled by any establishment in this country or in Europe. Fish has won laurels in almost every country in Europe, and his fame as a graceful, accomplished and daring equestrian has become world-wide. Miss Mollie Brown, a bright, intelligent young lady, is the only one who attempts somersaults while her horse is circling around the ring. Sebastian has improved so much in the last few years that there is every indication that he will some day rise to be the acknowledged head of his profession. Nat Austin, the great Shakespearean clown, is the best ever seen within the ring, and Mr. Graham handles the whip with dexterity and grace. The acrobatic troupe is complete in every particular, and the acts performed are new and startling. A number of novelties are introduced, which are attractive and daring, and show the public that there is a desire to please, instruct and entertain.

The Menagerie contains among its many wonders a living Giraffe—the only one that has ever been brought to this State. In order to obtain possession of this animal, Mr. Queen's treasury was depleted to the extent of $15,000. The baby lions are wonderfully clever and cunning, and present a very pretty picture gamboling around in their cage, while the mother looks on watching every movement.—San Francisco Bulletin.
