Another continuance was granted by Justice Dana T. Smith in the Spry embezzlement case this morning, until Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. If by that time Sheriff Naylor does not return from Idaho, Judge Smith says he will discharge the defendant.

In the proceedings this morning there was a lively little tilt between Attorney Gustin for the defense, and Deputy Sheriff Eldredge.

Mr, Eldredge was placed on the stand to testify that every effort had been made by the sheriff's office to locate the head of the department. Mr. Eldredge said he instructed Deputy Shariff Raleigh to telephone to the marshal at St. Anthony, and ask him to send out a messenger to find Mr.

The defense immediately entered a vigorous protest to granting the State's motion, and Attorney Daly argued the point to some length. He criticized the sheriff for leaving the State on a fishing trip when it was presumed that he knew the case was set for Tuesday and that he was a material witness. He said even if the sheriff did testify that Spry was in San Francisco, and that he arrested him there and brought him back to this city, it would not make a case of fraudulent intent, and he asked or the discharge of the defendant.

Mr. Loofbourow answered Mr. Daly by saving that when the case was set, the State expected to prove by other vitnesses than the sheriff that Spry was in San Francisco, and that he told certain persons what he did with the reduced to $250. His brothers-in-law, the Vincent brothers, went his ball for this amount after which Spry went home to his family
