

NEW COMMERCE BILL IN CONGRESS

The Elkins Pooling Measure Not Warmly Indorsed.

WON'T PASS THIS SESSION.

President Annoyed by Territorial Officeholders—Tillman and Foraker Clash.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The Elkins interstate commerce bill is fairly launched and is receiving criticism and occasionally a few commendations. Senator Elkins did not expect that it would be indorsed very fully because as a compromise measure it was neither satisfactory to the railroad men nor the shippers and the interstate commerce commission. The railroads, or some of them, like the provision for pooling, but do not like granting authority to the commission to prevent discrimination and power to fix rates. The commission like terances of Senator Tillman in any other place than the United States senate would be reasonable. The debate ran along for nearly an hour and Tillman broke in and this column was ended.

Tillman—The senator said a few minutes ago that if I were not here in my official capacity I would have laid myself open to the charge of treason.

Foraker—You have not been thinking about that all this while, have you?

Tillman—I have been thinking about that, and the senator throws so much additional light upon my pitiable condition that if I should happen to go into this new possession of mine I would be really alarmed. [Laughter.]

Foraker—Then I made more of an impression upon the senator than I supposed I had. [Laughter.]

PATTERSON AS A LAWYER.

I heard about a feature of Senator Patterson's successful law practice the other day. It was told by a Colorado man who knows him well. He said that Patterson worked with judges, attorneys and witnesses like a steam engine, and in about three or four weeks he had everybody tired out. Then he was just in prime condition and able to make the greatest exertion in the case. Fresh, vigorous and intellectual, he appeared in court sweeping everything before him. Another feature he described was Patterson's way with a jury. In every jury case he made it a point to find out something about each individual juror, something personal, something about his past, something that he could appeal to in his argument. Then when addressing the jury he would bring in something bearing on the case which would appeal to each juror or would in some way make the individual juror feel that the lawyer was stating the case as it affected him personally. My informant said this was one of the reasons why Patterson put so much human nature in his addresses to the jury.

When a pig has once learned to crawl under or through a fence he is generaly ever afterward on the lookout for chances to do so. Let a boy or young man once begin to lounge about "the corner grocery" or saloons and it will soon become a fixed habit, and then he will be on the well traveled highway to destruction, morally, physically, financially and intellectually. The young sons of most farmers, when they first have occasion to stop at a hotel for dinner or to remain over night, make a mistake. In most country towns of considerable size there are two classes of hotels, generally called "B" and "C" houses, and "B" a day house. Now, as these young men usually have little money, they almost invariably choose the cheaper one, and this to save money. Thus do they come in contact with men whom it is not most desirable for them to know, and they will not make acquaintances who would prove useful.

An incident under my own observation 20 years ago may be related. A few miles from town lived a well to do, easy going farmer whose wife was originally an observing city woman. They had two sons, 18 and 16 years old. The elder son went to town one afternoon, and stress of weather detained him over night. Next day his mother asked him: "At what hotel did you stop?" He named one of the cheap ones and said he did it to save money. She replied: "That is not the way to save money, but the best way to lose it in the end, and more with it." His eyes, ears and mouth were wide open for an explanation; then she proceeded to tell him about as I have written above, adding: "Now, hereafter when you are to go to town take money enough with you to pay your entertainment at the best hotel for a day in case of an emergency; and if you haven't it come to me and I will supply you." The young man did as told and became quite a favorite with the landlord and many of the regular guests and boarders. At the age of about 22 an officer of the interior department, Washington, who was

THE GRIP AGAIN.

THIS DANGEROUS EPIDEMIC HAS MADE ANOTHER APPEARANCE.

Hundreds of New Victims Added to Its List—A Suggestion as to How to Guard Against it and Its After-Effects.

Every year upon the approach of spring the grip makes its appearance. Once every few years it spreads and assumes alarming proportions. From all appearances this is one of the years in which it will seize upon a great number of victims, for every day new cases are reported.

As in scarlet and typhoid fever, the after-effects of grip are often worse than the disease itself. The sufferer is left with a debilitated system, short of breath upon the slightest exertion, affected by every change of the weather and in a physical condition to invite the attack of the many diseases induced by the inclement weather of early spring.

A timely suggestion as to how to escape the grip and its after-effects is given by Mrs. Mary E. Chase, an operator in a shoe factory, living at No. 275 Washington street, Roxbury, Mass., Boston, Mass.

"I had an attack of the grip in 1898 which left me in such a weak condition that I became afflicted with a complication of other troubles. I suffered from nervous dyspepsia and a disease peculiar to my sex. There was a bad feeling in my head, yet it was not headache. I took cold easily and had periodical spells of nausea. I would faint frequently, and was completely run down in every way. I tried several doctors, and took various remedies, but without favorable results.

"Finally a friend, who had taken them herself, advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I did so, and was feeling better when I had taken one box of the pills. I continued in the use of the pills until I had taken six boxes and they made me well and strong.

"I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to quite a number of people as a cure for constipation and to help them get good blood. I know, by personal experience, that they will give wonderful results."

It is of the utmost importance to your health if you have suffered from the grip, that you should cleanse the system of the lingering germs and put it in condition to resist and ward off disease.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are valuable in cases like the above because of the double action—on the nerves and on the blood, a feature in which they are unlike any other medicine. For this reason they cannot be successfully imitated, so do not let any dealer palm off an inferior article on you. The genuine pills are never sold in loose bulk, but always in packages and the well known trade mark on the wrapper is your guarantee that the contents are genuine.

There are few diseases due to impoverished blood or weakened nerves that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not benefit. Some of the cures effected are almost miraculous. If you are suffering from ordinary treatment fails to relieve you, send your name and address, together with a brief description of your case, to the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. If the remedy has not cured cases like yours it will not be recommended to you. The pills will be sent by mail, if desired, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for two dollars and a half.

The year round. Here is a partial list of the items he gave me:

Besides the main crops of grain, hay, straw, potatoes, etc., he sold butter, poultry, eggs, a large quantity of vegetables, berries, hothouse produce, peaches, hickory nuts, butternuts, butts of hickory trees for ax handles and shillings, logs for lumber, sauerkraut, a little wild game, game pigeons, medicinal herbs, maple syrup and sugar, fat hogs and young pigs, an occasional beef, veal, mutton and many other things. He accumulated that "drop by drop" until he had stored the hoard, and then he sold it, so that he secured dollar by dollar every day "twill," keep amounting from the day away. By pursuing such course he lifted the average from the farm and in course of time bought an equally good farm for his eldest son and sold for it and later purchased and paid for a similar farm for his younger son; and there we will leave it, then and there families enjoying "the fat of the land" gained by the foresight, industry and economy of the father, ably assisted by the sons. All three began right, continued right and now have their reward for it. Any young farmer boy possessing common sense can imitate this father's business career successfully if he will; but if other habits are already formed it is too late to begin.—Dr. Glenn Wilson in New York Tribune Farmer.

ASTONISHED THE EDITOR.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Benetisville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or appetite, and she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for the liver." Now Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at Z. C. M. the latter feature, but do not like the pooling provision. "As my friend Senator Allison once remarked," said Senator Elkins, "I am doing a little for both sides. I did not expect either to be pleased, but I have tried to frame a bill which will be satisfactory to all. It is a mistake to think that all the railroads want a pooling law. Some of the biggest roads in the country oppose it. In my opinion, a pooling arrangement with the contract open and known to the public will be beneficial to the small roads." It is expected that the various interests will be heard by the interstate commerce committee while the bill is being considered, and the virtues and evils of the Elkins bill will be discussed at length. No one could predict that it will receive favorable consideration in this congress.

Important Duty of Parents to Guide Early Footsteps of Their Children.

It seems to be a rule common to both brute animals and human beings that what habits they acquire earliest adhere to them longest and intensify as age increases, and are at their possible best or worst in senility, or, as it has been stated, "The ruling passion is strongest in death." The charitable inclined are the most charitable at the last, and the selfish the most selfish. Let the father be a natural killer, for instance, and the cow will have to be hampered before she can be milked at all. Let the colt once run away when in harness to a vehicle, and he will be likely to avail himself of any subsequent opportunities to do the same.

GRAVEL CURED.

Mrs. Benjamin Hulse's Story, of MILL CREEK, UTAH.

Mrs. Hiram Yeager, of Ardenia, Salt Lake City, in writing of the great benefit her little boy had derived from the use of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY tells of a similar result obtained by the son of Mrs. Benjamin Hulse of Mill Creek, Utah, by the same means: "Mrs. Hulse's little boy of six years was very sick, lingering along under the doctor's care with no apparent improvement. He was suffering from gravel in the bladder."

"Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was then given him and before he had taken a whole bottle he was up and about the house, the disease had been conquered and cured by Favorite Remedy; today he is as healthy a child as you would wish to see."

The best proof of the value of an article is the good it has done. If you suffer from kidney, liver or bladder trouble in any form, diabetes, Bright's disease, rheumatism, dyspepsia, eczema or any form of blood disease, or if a woman from the sickness peculiar to her sex, and are not already convinced that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the medicine you need, you may have a trial bottle, absolutely free, with a valuable medical pamphlet, sending your name, with postoffice address to Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., mentioning this paper.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is for sale at all drug stores at $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5. Less than 1 cent a dose.
