

Nine large guns will be added to the Danish artillery.

The Swedish sloyd system is now being introduced in most Danish schools.

Dr. Bech, a prominent physician of Copenhagen, died at the age of 81 years.

Small-pox cases have now also occurred in some parishes on the island of Fyen.

Their golden wedding was celebrated by Hans Olsen, of Ostre Vedsted, and his wife.

The Gyldendahl publishing house of Copenhagen, intends to publish a cheap edition of Ibsen's dramas.

The sale of government land to farm laborers has been proposed in the Folkething by Captain Bluhme.

Librarian C. F. Bricka has been elected a corresponding member of the Swedish Royal Academy of Literature, History and Antiquities.

Many families in the northern part of Jutland are to emigrate to the United States.

Tor Aulin, the celebrated Swedish violinist, has scored a great success in Copenhagen.

An exhibition of articles manufactured by Danish women, will be held in Copenhagen in 1895.

The government has been asked to grant foreigners the right to possess real estate.

Chancellor Berthelsen, a prominent citizen of Svendborg, died at the age of 76 years.

The crown prince and crown princess have donated several thousand kroner to charitable institutions in Copenhagen.

The Rigsdag has been asked to grant an appropriation for the building of a railroad between Klampenborg and Helsingor.

J. P. Rasmussen, a painter of Copenhagen, has mysteriously disappeared. As he was in financial distress the belief is, that he has committed suicide.

Princess Louise celebrated her 19th birthday. The young daughter of the Danish Crown Prince and Crown Princess is a remarkable bright and pretty girl.

Mr. Johns, one of the most prominent members of the Danish colony at Paris, and his wife, a French lady, while recently paying a visit to Denmark, donated a number of rare and valuable articles to the Copenhagen museum of arts. The most interesting of these objects, perhaps, is the writing machine invented by Prof. Durlow some 30 years ago, for "it has been demonstrated that this is the prototype of all modern writing machines. This work which is of great interest to the history of Danish industry, and which was on the point of passing into foreign hands, will now be in its proper place in the museum."

The recent visit of the czar to Denmark gave the impulse to the publication of a souvenir volume under the title "Czar Alexander III And His Surroundings." It is mainly a translation from a French work written by Nikolai Notovitsch, the translation and adoption being by Mr. Lutken, a Danish-Russian. The aim of the book seems to be to show that the present czar of Russia is almost an ideal ruler and that, in case of a European war, Denmark and France must naturally side with Russia. The author is evidently well informed, but in stating plain facts he often contradicts some of his general eulogies on Russian affairs.

Prof. Buhl was a member of the theological faculty of the university of Copenhagen until a couple of years ago when he left Denmark and accepted a theological professorship at the university of Leipzig, Germany. It was supposed at the time that he did not feel at ease in Denmark on account of his liberal religious views. This supposition has been strengthened by a "History of the Jewish People," which was published in Copenhagen some time ago. In this book he asserts that we are not acquainted with any of the authors of the historical books of the Old Testament. "All attempts," he writes, "to remove the dust covering the authors of the historical books of the Old Testament, or of the sources quoted in them by means of identifying them with this or that person known to us from the Old Testament history—are useless play without any value whatever." We hardly need to add that this does not tally with the commonly accepted theory of the origin of the books of the Old Testament. It is very probable, that this book would have landed the learned professor in a peck of trouble if he had still been a theological professor in the university of Denmark. In the home of Luther he will undoubtedly be let alone—or even praised for his work.

COMING GREATNESS.

GARDEN CITY, Rich county, Utah, March 23, 1894.—We are still in the midst of hard winter. On Wednesday night, March 21st, the thermometer went down to 10 degrees below zero, with the weather clear and bright. This is quite a contrast to what the weather is in other parts of the Territory. The snow here is still about a foot and a half deep on the level and frozen hard. The lake is as solid as ever, one mass of ice with no openings as yet.

Last Friday evening a meeting of the citizens of Garden City was held to take into consideration the best place on the lake shore for a landing place for the steamer which is now in course of construction and which will ply on the beautiful Bear lake this summer. Behold! another prediction made years ago by some of our leaders is on the verge of fulfillment. This is a step in the right direction. We are informed that landing places and pleasure resorts will be made at Fish Haven, Idaho, and Garden City and Lake Town, Utah. This will bring hundreds of pleasure seekers into our midst and we have every reason to believe that the hard times hitherto so common to us here in some portions of Bear Lake and Rich counties will vanish away and times of prosperity take the place of what may be termed poverty.

It is also understood that the railway company will build a branch line from Montpelier, Idaho, to the Hot Springs on the northeast corner of the lake in order to connect the steamboat line with the railroad. Thus it will bring pleasure seekers from the north, south, east and west. There will also be stage run from Garden City, over the mountains to Logan, which also will be a good paying business, and bring more money into the country. This should have been done years ago.

Some of the "boys" are over the lake cutting cedar posts.

The mock-trial set for Wednesday night, March 21st, was in every way a decided success. The house was filled with curious spectators to see how the boys succeeded. This mock-trial was inaugurated under the auspices of the Garden City civil government class, and it was very amusing to see with what precision and exactness each one acted his part. As we do not wish to take too much space in your esteemed paper, it will suffice to say the defendant was found guilty of "grand larceny," by the jury as charged in the indictment. The case created much merriment and laughter and was enjoyed by all present. It is gratifying to see how much interest our youth are taking in this class and a few entertainments, such as this mock trial, will have a tendency to bring out the boys.

The measles are still "raising Ned" among us but none have succumbed to the disease as yet.

In addition to this steamboat enterprise, it is expected that our town is to become a mining camp this season. There is any quantity of ore in the mountains west of us, and all we lack is a bit of capital coupled with a bit of energy, and our town would soon become the center of attraction. Who will lead out in this direction?

Some of our farmers are contemplating taking out a new canal from Swan creek, some 90 or 100 feet above the old one, which, when completed, will put much valuable land under irrigation. It only takes a little extra exertion on our part. The company have organized and work will be pushed as soon as possible.

DAIRY INTERESTS.

AN ACT TO PROTECT THE DAIRY INTERESTS OF THE TERRITORY OF UTAH.

Be it enacted by the Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah:

SECTION 1. That any person or persons in this Territory who shall manufacture for sale, or who shall sell, offer or expose for sale, by the tub, firkin, box or package, any article or substance in semblance of butter or cheese, not the legitimate product of the dairy, and not made exclusively of milk or cream, but into which any oil, fat or lard, not produced from milk or cream, enters as a compound or component part, shall distinctly stamp or mark on such tub, firkin, box or package of such article or substance the words "Oleomargarine Butter;" and if containing cheese, the words "Imitation Cheese;" and where retail sales are made of such articles, the seller shall in all cases sell, offer or expose for sale said article from a tub, firkin, box or package stamped or marked as herein stated.

Sec. 2. It shall be unlawful for any person to coat, powder or color, with any coloring whatever, any "oleomargarine," "butterine," or any compound of the same, or any product made in whole or in part from animal fat or animal or vegetable oil not pro-
