

GAMBLERS AND POLICE HAVE RACE

Former Were Determined to Play The Races and the Latter Said They Should Not.

FOURTEEN FINALLY CAUGHT.

Chase Was on Lake Michigan, First Passing into Jurisdiction of One State and Then Another.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Gamblers intent upon playing the races and policemen determined to prevent all race track betting on the high seas furnished today on Lake Michigan a unique and spectacular gambling raid. The police and gamblers raced around the lake, first into Michigan waters, then close to the shores of Illinois, and then into the jurisdiction of Indiana, the one seeking escape and the police determined to capture them at all hazards. The net results of the day for the police were the capture of 14 weary marine gamblers, who floated ashore at South Chicago in a launch. All of the others, after a hot chase by the police in a lumbering tug, escaped to Indiana Harbor, Indiana, and made their way ashore outside of the jurisdiction of the Chicago police.

Chief of Police Collins said today that he would no longer permit the operation of the floating pool room City of Traverse. He asserted that he would attempt to board it, claiming that they were about to commit an illegal act, which brought them within police jurisdiction. The gamblers circumvented the chief of police at the outset by causing the steamer City of Traverse to be run out into the lake into the waters of the state of Indiana, where she lay all through the morning. Later details of police were placed on the shore guarding approaches to all of the docks from which the gamblers might make their way to the lake. It was the expectation of the authorities that the betting fraternity would leave Chicago on the City of Traverse, but instead of this a small excursion steamer named The Eagle had been chartered, and the gamblers, walking past the police, embarked and started for the City of Traverse, which was rolling around in mid-lake. The police were powerless to intercept the "excursionists," as they called themselves, and with deep sighs watched them sail away to place their money on the races.

The announced program of the management of the floating pool room was that all gamblers would be landed at the foot of Ninety-second street in South Chicago, where the "carnegie river empties into Lake Michigan." Chief Collins, backed in his attempt to prevent the sailing of the gamblers on the Eagle, transferred his forces in Ninety-second street and ordered them along the shore in such a manner that it would have been practically impossible for any man from the City of Traverse or the Eagle to get on shore and escape arrest.

Later in the day the Eagle steamed into the harbor at South Chicago, loaded with 200 men who were anxious to reach the shore. As soon as the boat was well inside of the first bridge it was swung behind it. With escape to the lake cut off by the bridge and no chance of a safe landing on shore, the gamblers were in a tight place. The Eagle, for a time looked desperate. The Eagle circled around and around in the harbor, looking its whistle in frantic fashion for the bridge tender to turn the bridge and allow it to steam back into the lake. The police stood on the shore and laughed, feeling confident that it was a question of time before the passengers of the Eagle would be in their power. A small, insignificant mud now happened along at this critical moment, however, and blew its whistle as a signal for the bridge to open. The bridge tender was compelled to swing the bridge, and the Eagle, planting its bow squarely in the stern of the mud boat, steamed closely, as it passed through the bridge and made a run for the open lake and freedom.

As soon as the police discovered the approach of the mud boat and realized that the bridge must open, they made a rush for the fire tug Yosemite and by the time the bridge was open the tug was in the water. The tug was tearing after it, loaded down with policemen.

The Eagle, however, steadily drew away from the tug and after a run of 10 minutes the police gave up the chase. The Eagle landed at Indiana Harbor, its passengers returning to Chicago by train.

Before the arrival of the Eagle at South Chicago a small launch named the Panther came in, bearing a number of gamblers from the City of Traverse and several fishermen. All passengers of the Panther were lined up on the pier and compelled to stand out the fishermen were "questioned" by the police. Fifteen men who could not prove that they had been fishing were loaded into the patrol wagon and carried to the police station.

The gamblers who returned to Chicago this evening declared that, even though the police had arrested all the passengers of the Eagle, they would have found it impossible to prove a case against them, as the wireless apparatus refused to work throughout the day and not a message was received and not a bet was made.

ANGEL CHILDREN.
Is there any happier woman in this world than that mother whose each successive little one seems to her but one more darling angel to continually lift her thoughts toward the sunshine of perfect happiness? But sorrow is the lot of that poor mother to whom motherhood has ceased to be a cause of rejoicing, but has become instead a burden to be dreaded and looked forward to with melancholy and apprehension.

Any woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., a statement of her case, which will be considered in absolute confidence by this physician who stands among the foremost specialists of the century in the treatment of women's diseases. He will send her (in a plain sealed envelope) sound, sensible, valuable advice free of all charge.

SULTAN OF MOROCCO.

On Reflection He is Opposed to Proposed Conference.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Information from Fez reaching official quarters shows that the sultan of Morocco, who first proposed an international conference, now fears that the discussion among the powers will result in the dismemberment of his empire. He has therefore decided that outside interference in Moroccan affairs was not necessary. The sultan has since shown opposition to the holding of a conference.

VALUABLE BRONZE STATUE.

Purchased by New York Metropolitan Museum of Art.

New York, Aug. 4.—The Metropolitan Museum of Art has purchased in Paris, according to an announcement made yesterday, a small, but of great value, to be more than 1,600 years of age. The work is a bronze image of Caius Vibius Trebonianus Gallus, one of the emperors of Rome, and was dug up near San Giovanni Laterano about 50 years ago by Prince Demidoff, the Russian archaeologist, who was then making excavations at the site of the emperor's tomb. The statue was found in an excellent state of preservation.

OUTRAGE BY UNION MEN.

In Butte They Compel a Telegraph Operator to Quit Work.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 4.—Ralph E. Spurrier, a telegraph operator and former member of the Mill and Smeltermen's union of Butte, refused to join the striking operators on the Northern Pacific road and tonight several hundred smeltermen held a meeting and marched in a body to the depot, surrounded the structure and compelled Spurrier to work under pain of being "escorted from town," an expression which is significant in Butte circles. Other operators were looked for but none were found.

A dispatch from Clancy tonight, a division on the Great Northern about 50 miles north of Butte, says that the miners there fired the operator from the only boarding house in the town because he refused to stay with his comrades on strike. The man had to be fed by the division superintendent in the latter case.

UNITED STATES AND CHINA.

Minister Barrett Thinks Alarm Over Boycott is Exaggerated.

San Francisco, Aug. 4.—John Barrett, the newly appointed minister to Colombia, is here in connection with the commercial relations existing between the United States and China, particularly as regards the boycott inaugurated by the Chinese guilds against American products.

He insists, however, that his mission is not of an official character, but simply to acquaint himself with the feeling of the people of the coast as to the boycott and interview some of the merchants who are engaged in the oriental trade.

Minister Barrett, while conceding that the Chinese guilds are all-powerful in their country, is of the opinion that the present alarms shown by the people of this country over the action of the Chinese is unnecessarily exaggerated. He firmly believes that what ever grievances the Chinese guilds have will soon be dispelled when they are made to understand that our government is disposed to act fairly with them in the matter of immigration.

He is also of the opinion that our future policy as regards the orient will depend much upon the results of the peace conference between the representatives of Japan and Russia, and predicts that the next two years will witness a great change in the policy of the United States. Such a change will be attended with a noticeable improvement of our commercial relations in the far east.

DECLARES WITTE'S ADDRESS A DISGRACE

Does the Moscow Gazette, Which Is Loudly Blatant for the Continuation of the War.

TO PRESERVE WORLD'S PEACE.

A General European Alliance Headed By Russia, Germany and France Predicted.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3, 6:45 p. m.—The press generally continues to avoid trenching on the ground to be covered in the peace negotiations, though the Soviet, which neither hopes nor wishes for peace, predicts that the four powers will result in negotiating and idle talk.

The Moscow Gazette, an apostle of uncompromising reaction, declares that the dispatch of M. Witte to the United States is a disgrace and holds that the only concession Russian can make is to demand no indemnity from Japan and "no peace until defeat and retribution have overtaken the enemy."

The boulevard sheet, the Gazette, predicts a general European alliance, headed by Russia, Germany and France to preserve the peace of the world, to restrain Japanese preponderance in the far east and to prevent Great Britain meddling in the affairs of the continent.

The emperor's counselors today resumed at Peterhof the consideration of the national assembly project, generating deeply into the nature and extent of the representation to be granted. The problem of according a voice in the proposed assembly to all classes, and in this without giving undue weight to the representatives of the uneducated peasantry, comprising 87 per cent of the whole population, not throwing control of the assembly into the hands of demagogues and agitators, is one of the crucial points of the whole system, and is cause for the greatest perplexity both to those who drafted the original Boullan project and to the ministers by whom it is now being considered.

Thirty-eight sections were considered at Tuesday's session, but these were unimportant in comparison with the topics now under consideration.

Though no details of the discussion of Tuesday have appeared in print, several papers comment on the extreme importance of the Peterhof conference and base on them great expectations of a brighter future for Russia.

JAPAN MAY INSIST ON HOLDING MANCHURIA

New York, Aug. 3.—The Times tomorrow will say:

Japan has apparently a fixed and firm determination not to relinquish her hold upon Manchuria, no matter what contingencies may arise as a result of the pending negotiations. At least, this is the conclusion put on the hasty and secret preparations now going forward for the building of extensions of the railroad which now runs from Fusan, on the southwest coast of Korea, to Seoul, and which it is planned to take across the Yalu for 150 miles into Manchuria, joining the eastern railway probably at Liaoyang. Rush orders have been placed in the last few days with American firms and corporations for the material for the road. The material includes 350 steel bridges, with 150 locomotives and 5,000 cars.

The striking feature of the enterprise is the secrecy that has been observed in placing the orders, and for the delivery of the bridges and rolling stock at the point nearest to that where they will be used.

"An independent cavalry column on the afternoon of July 28 attacked the enemy 80-100 of Paleo and routed him, driving him southward, capturing two field guns besides a number of rifles and a quantity of ammunition."

"On July 29 the cavalry, being reinforced, vigorously pursued the enemy south of Taylan, which lies 25 miles south of Rykoff. The enemy halted at Onol, 25 miles south of Taylan and at 5 o'clock on the morning of July 30 sent a letter on the flag of truce to the Japanese commanding officer, Gen. Liapoff, the Russian governor, saying that through the lack of bandage material and medicines and the consequent inability to continue the wounded compelled him from a sense of humanity to terminate hostilities."

"The commander of the Japanese force replied, demanding the delivery of all war supplies and property of the Russian government uninjured and the delivery of all maps, records and papers relating to the Russian civil and military administration, and requiring their delivery in reply at 10 o'clock on the morning of July 31, otherwise an attacking movement would immediately be executed."

BRUDENEW EXTON.

Grandson of Lord Mayor in Peck of Trouble in New York.

New York, Aug. 4.—Brudenew Exton, who asserts that his grandfather was lord mayor of London, is a prisoner in the tenderloin police station under a charge of disorderly conduct. Exton, who also claims to be an insurance broker, is said by witnesses to have knocked down a woman in front of a Broadway hotel while conversing with an acquaintance. Exton stumbled against the woman by accident but she screamed loudly for help and half a dozen jumped upon the unfortunate broker at once. He was taken to the sidewalk and in a moment half a hundred loungers were attempting to strike him. A policeman beat his way through the crowd and rescued Exton from serious injury. He was hauled away and during the excitement the woman disappeared with her little daughter by whom she was accompanied.
