

HOMECOMING WEEK IN SAXON CAPITAL

At Winchester, England, in June Great Pageant Will be Produced.

SALT LAKERS MAY ATTEND.

Women, Now Residents of This City, Have Been Invited to Visit Native Land for Celebration.

For a week, beginning June 25 next, Winchester, the ancient Saxon capital of England, will be the scene of stirring events as at that time a national pageant will be held upon the historic grounds of Wolsey Castle. The function is to be given under the auspices of the Atlantic Union, and a number of Salt Lake women have received invitations to attend the celebration.

The Atlantic Union is a club or social organization for the purpose of enabling colonials and Americans visiting England to acquire a more intimate knowledge of English people and their customs than it is possible to gain by a residence at a hotel and casual visits to the ordinary places of interest. It is in no sense a political association, but it seeks to promote a better and kindlier spirit among the different branches of the Anglo-Saxon race by making the visits of kinsmen to British shores partake more of a home-coming than the mere visit of a tourist to a foreign land.

Among the 120 members composing the board of council of the society, appear the names of the following distinguished gentlemen:

The American ambassador, Sir William Arbuckle, (Nata); Lord Brassey, the archbishop of Canterbury, Sir John Cookburn, K.C.M.G.; Hon. W. P.
Doyle, R. Hon. the Earl of Elgin, K.G., Anthony Hope Hawkins, Esq., Henry Arthur Jones, Esq., the headmaster of Eton, the president of Queen's college, Cambridge, the master of Jesus college, Oxford, Lord Monckton, (chairman); Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan, the Marquess of Northampton, A. W. Mayo Robson, Esq., F.R.C.S.; Hon. W. P.
Doyle, (New Zealand); the Duke of Sutherland, Lord Strathcona and Count Royal, Hon. J. W. Taverne, (Victoria); the master of the temple.

HISTORICAL PAGEANT.

At the June pageant there will be depicted thrilling episodes in England's Departure of the Romans; Acclamation of Cedric Birtan, Proclamation of WINCHESTER IN HISTORY.

Winchester, as the capital of Wes-sex from the days of Egbert, as the capital of England under its Norman line of kings, as a residence of English sovereigns till the time of Charles II, has an importance disproportionate to its size in the development of English history. The spectacle of the Winchester pageant of 1908 will illustrate that development in a most forceful and realistic manner. It will take place on the actual spot—Wolsey castle—on which several of the scenes to be presented were originally enacted.

Wolsey itself is one of the most historic spots in the south of England.
Within view is the Celtic stronghold of St. Catherine's hill, still divided by its eastern rampart, within the precincts of Wolsey was the residence of some Roman officer in early days; it was at the old Saxon palace on this site that Alfred undertook the compilation of the "Anglo-Saxon Chronicle."

Henry de Blois, grandson of William the Conqueror, as much statesman and warrior as he was bishop and monk.

The scenes that have been selected will represent events of importance in English history which took place in or near the small but ancient City of Winchester.

OTHER INTERESTING SIGHTS.

It may safely be said that a visitor to Winchester may find much to interest him besides its pageant. The cathedral (the grave garden of the cathedral) is a very mausoleum of Saxon kings, beginning with Cerdic (469 to 534, A. D.), "35 of whose line made Winchester their capital, 26 of whose line are buried or entombed in the cathedral," and it is a school of architecture of every age from the Norman conquest to the reigns of Henry VIII and Mary. The great Henry de Blois, founded by Bishop Henry de Blois, and augmented by Cardinal Beaufort, the son of "time-honored Lancaster," where wayfarers have received for more than eight centuries "a horn of beer and a rancid of bread," lies at but a short distance from the city. Winchester castle, with its fine buildings in the perpendicular style, and its position, unique in some ways among English schools, lies within a few yards of the pageant ground itself. The fine County hall, a fragment of an old Norman castle, in which parliamentary state trials were held, and kings feasted, before which Raleigh was brought out for execution and then reprieved, and which fell into the hands of Oliver Cromwell during the great civil war, still stands beside High street; and there are other memorials of the past which are dear to Englishmen, and which belong in part at least to all members of the widespread Anglo-Saxon race, parted now by the events of history, but never wholly disunited.

Increase in Tax Rolls Over One Million Dollars.

Notwithstanding the closing down of the smelters and the consequent loss of much assessable property within the boundaries of Salt Lake county, the assessment rolls of Salt Lake county show an increase over those of 1907 of $1,519,452.

This in spite of the fact, too, that there is a big falling off in solvent credits in Salt Lake City, in the shape of reduced bank assessments to the amount of nearly $2,000,000. County Assessor Campbell M. Brown has completed the assessment for 1908 and yesterday gave the matter out for publication. A comparative statement for 1907 is given, showing the net increase over the assessment of last year in the sum of the figures named above.

To this must also be added the assessment made by the board of equalization on telephone, telegraph, railroads and car companies, which last year aggregated $3,182,555, and it is believed the figures this year will be considerable in excess of this amount.

According to Mr. Brown's figures, the entire assessed valuation of the entire county is $37,688,447. Following is the comparative table of assessment of

DECLARES WAR ON AUTOS

Angus M. Cannon, Jr., Goes Gunning
For the Scorching Road
Hog With a .44.

Angus M. Cannon, Jr., has declared war on the automobile scorching, especially on the motorist who is a road hog and persists on driving on the wrong side of the street because the surface happens to be smoother there.

As Mr. Cannon drives a nervous horse he generally has his hands full every time he meets a speed unwilling, but yesterday on Ninth East he succeeded in giving a chauffeur a scare which he believes will be salutary. The automobile came tearing along on the wrong side as usual and the next instant the horse attempted to set on its tail. The chauffeur slowed up slightly, and at the same time Mr.
Cannon produced a very healthy appearing Colt's .44 and motioned for the driver of the auto to get over on his side of the street. Some warm remarks from the man behind the gun and some exceedingly fancy steering were the immediate sequel.

This morning Mr. Cannon stated that he proposed to carry his gun for future reference, and the first fellow who ignored the rules of the road would get his first puncture.

As Angus M. has the reputation of being able to keep a tin can rolling while emptying his revolver at twenty paces, it is on the cards that there will be an exhibition of fancy shooting on the public highway at an early date.

Incidentally in fairness it must be stated that Mr. Cannon expects no commission from auto tire firms. He says that his sole excuse for taking heroic measures is the protection of the rights of the public.

The Ogden Examiner says: One hundred and fifty carloads of 80-pound steel rails are being transferred in the Harriman yards for shipment to the Western Pacific at Marysville, California.

This is the second shipment of the kind and is equivalent to 50 miles of The rails will be made part of the Gould line entering the Feather river country.

Several large gangs of transfer men are employing steam derricks in making the transfer here from the Rio Grande to the Southern Pacific cars.

GOSPEL'S MESSAGE PENETRATES VEIL

President Nephi L. Morris Discusses Salvation for The Dead.

WORLD SWEEPING PRINCIPLE

Without Exhortation, Peoples of All Nations Work in Harmony With Plan for This Dispensation.

Yesterday at the meeting of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers, President Nephi L. Morris of the Salt Lake stake delivered an address upon "Salvation for the Dead," beginning with the evidence of a growing feeling in the world against the old orthodox belief of eternal judgment hanging irrevocably upon the life in this world. He read extracts from noted ecclesiastical authorities, showing their thought had grasped the unreasonableness of the proposition that no chance for repentance and progress existed beyond the grave.

Their exposition of this belief raised a furore in the established churches, that is, among the classes whom they reached, though, said the speaker, it exactly that period the missionaries of the Latter-day Saint Church were promulgating the doctrine of salvation for the dead among the humbler classes, many of whom accepted it joyfully.
He said that a significant fact was that the scripture of the old dispensation ended with the prophecy concerning Elijah to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children and the children to the fathers, and that the new one opened with it—this being a part of the scriptures quoted by the angel to the Prophet Joseph relative to the restoration of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

IN THE WORLD.

With the world, said the speaker, there is confusion and doubt concerning this doctrine; with the Latter-day Saints there is certainty, and as a proof of the truth of this doctrine he told of the great interest being shown by the world in the compiling of genealogical records. Even those who have no knowledge of this doctrine, he said, are going to enormous expense, and unfiling palms to accumulate the names and records of ancestors, and these in many almost miraculous cases come to the hands of the saints without either labor or outlay. The answer to this wonder, he said, is that the world is under the inspiration of this peculiar prophecy, and though it knows it not, is working in harmony with that great law. He spoke of the clearness of the knowledge under which the Latter-day Saints worked, and said that their labor on earth was being supplemented on the other side. Here thousands are being preached to by believers in the gospel, the work there being greater in proportion to the number who have passed beyond.

He cited the saying of the Savior relative to His going "to preach to the spirits in prison," and other references showing the doctrine as understood by Jesus.

TESTIMONIES OF THE LIVING.

He cited testimonies from living saints, whose efforts to obtain records had been miraculously aided by dreams and other supernatural means, and told of those who had devoted life and property to this cause, with the result that they had never known want, and were in miraculous ways helped in their work. He closed with a commitment to the daughters upon having made these studies a part of their program.

The society's president, Mrs. Susa V.
Gates, thanked the speaker for the society, and a motion made by Mrs.
Zina V. Card prevailed that at the meeting of the genealogical section hereafter, testimonies relating to this work for the dead be given by members, as well as the regular topics.

A new member was added to the society in the person of Mrs. Ida Allen, and a presentation of the loan of a brass and iron was made by Mrs. Joanna Gregory Angell, the Irons having been brought across the plains in 1848.

A business meeting of the society will be held next Wednesday at the Lion House, at 3 o'clock and all members are urged to be present, as plans for the usual summer outing at Wandamere will be discussed.

MASONS END REUNION.

tish Rite Masons was concluded last night with a banquet in Masonic hall in honor of 21 Masons who have been advanced from the fourth to the thirty-second degrees. Judge C. W.
Morse, 23, was toastmaster, and I. C.

KEITH-O'BRIEN'S BOX SALE OF BLACK HOSIERY AND INDIVIDUAL PAIRS

Including black silk with fancy colors. Every box of hose is this spring's style and is from regular stock. No seconds, no odd lines. Stirring reductions in price.

Among New York jobbers and importers the Keith-O'Brien hosiery department stands high. This is because the store is a big buyer of quality goods, eschewing seconds and inferior grades. The hosiery being standard, any reduction from regular is an inducement.

LADIES' BLACK LISLE

Lisle hose, medium weight; high spliced heel; double toe and sole; fast color; regular 50c quality; sale price, box, $2.75 (six pair in a box); individual pair, 50c.

OXFORD SALE

$1.95—Our unusually heavy Easter business left many broken lines of oxfords. We must dispose of these at once to make room for new lines. On tables, worth $3.50 to $5.00.

$2.95—Fifteen styles of "The Princess" $3.50 oxfords, in patent, vici kid and calfskin.

$3.95—Over twenty styles of Wright & Peters and other well known makes that are regular $5.00 grades. During this sale at $3.95.

But when the saving becomes considerable, then the sale attracts widespread attention. A Box Hose sale is unusual. It is nicer to buy them in the box just as they come from the factory—and the sale price in this instance justifies the purchase.
