

Correspondence.

The following communication relative to the death of George R. Galloway, after he had assisted in saving John Lee, of Heber City, contains fuller particulars of that melancholy affair than we have before received:

KAMAS PRAIRIE, Jan. 12, 1868.

Editor News:—If you will print the following in the DESERET NEWS you will confer a favor on the parents of the deceased; also, on his friends throughout the Territory. No doubt you have heard of the sad case, at least in part; but for fear that you have not I will send a full account as far as it was possible to ascertain. The case relates to George R. Galloway, son of Charles and Ann Galloway, residents of Round Valley in Parley's Park.

It seems that on the 6th of January, George R. Galloway, William Gibson and Joseph Warr, started from Round Valley to Kamas Prairie.

They had with them two yoke of oxen and a sled, also a loose ox that was lame. They came the first day about six miles from where they started, and the ox would not go a step farther, consequently, they left him and went on to a small grove of timber and camped, thinking the ox might be able to travel in the morning. Morning came, and they took the cattle and went back, but the ox could not or would not leave the place where he stopped the night before, so they all returned to camp, intending to come on home and get help, and go back and haul the ox on a sled. When they got to their camp, the owner of the ox, Wm. Gibson, thought he would take the ox an armful of hay to help to sustain life, until they could come after him the next day. But George R. Galloway said he would sooner take the hay to the ox than to drive the team home, about five miles from where they camped. So he started with the hay for the ox, and only having about half a mile to return with the hay, he intended to overtake the team before they arrived home in Kamas Prairie.

Night coming on he did not come, and being about half way from home to Kamas Prairie, it was thought by the people that he had returned home to Round Valley. He being a tough, hardy young man, they never thought he would freeze, having only six miles either way to travel on a good hard crusted snow. But on the morning of the 8th, Gibson started back to get the ox, with a team and help, and on arriving at the mouth of the Cañon that leads out of Kamas, about two miles from the fort, they found the body of George R. Galloway, frozen to death. They returned with him to the fort in Kamas; the Justice called a jury, who held an inquest on the body, and found for verdict, that George R. Galloway came to his death by freezing on the night of January 7th, 1868, in Kamas Prairie. His parents were notified of the death, and his remains taken to Bishop Gardner's Ward, on Jordan, to be buried.

Respectfully,
GEO. B. LEONARD,
Postmaster, Kamas.

The concluding part of the letter relates to Br. Galloway's finding Br. Lee getting out of the snow, the facts of which we published at length on Monday.

A CARD.

To the Inhabitants and purchasing Community of this Territory:—

Owing to the great decline in the prices of goods in the Eastern Markets (being determined to keep IN RATIO with them,) I have made a further reduction in the prices of goods, which upon examination will speak for themselves. I have also on hand a great many articles that have laid over for one and two years—which I will sell, REGARDLESS OF COST, even lower than the present rates in the Eastern Markets will permit of; viz: Table and Pocket Cutlery, Spades, Shovels, Scythes and Snaths, Bake Skillets, Locks and Latches, Tea and Table Spoons, Carriage Bolts, Cast, Blister and Plough Steel, Soap, Lye, Tobacco, and an immense variety of other goods, which are necessities for every day use. Farmers and Country Merchants would do well to call and examine the stock and prices, and as Greenbacks are scarce in the country, I will take for pay, Cattle, Wheat, Flour, Barley, Oats, Pork, &c., for which I will give a price that will guarantee satisfaction.
