

EVENING NEWS. Monday, Nov. 5, 1893.

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

A fine day after yesterday's extreme dampness.

November 5th, Guy Fawkes and gunpowder remembrance. Affairs are reported as dull in the mining districts of Southern Utah.

President Taylor and party will return from the north this evening.

The Exposition for the first half of November is out, full of good things to read it.

The Bishopric of the 10th Ward assisted in dispensing the Sacrament yesterday afternoon.

An Irish writer remarks that he knows no reason in the world why women should not become medical men.

The congregation at the Assembly Hall was quite large, yesterday afternoon, notwithstanding the inclement weather.

A slight shock of earthquake at Cave Creek, Millard County, several days ago, threw debris from the shelves and broke them.

Father Daniel Graves, the veteran schoolmaster, has been very ill since his last visit to the city. He writes to that effect from Provo, where he resides.

A Scotchman entered a book-binder in Glasgow, for the purpose of having some volumes rebound. "Will you have them done in Turkey or Morocco?" asked the book-binder. "And can you get them done in Turkey?" was the puzzled reply.

A family dinner party was held at the residence of Brother A. O. Smith, Jr., in Provo, yesterday, in honor of Elder Wm. C. A. Smith, Jr., who was about to leave for Europe on a mission. He and Elder John H. Bishop left this city for New York to-day.

Brother Benwell, an old resident of London, and member of the North London branch of the Church, formerly of the Metropolitan police force but now a gardener by vocation, is on his way to Utah with the company of Saints which sailed on the 27th ult.

A notice elsewhere in these columns is to the effect that unpaid city taxes for the current year are delinquent, and unless paid forthwith will be collected by distraint and sale. The law makes this incumbent upon the collector, he has no discretion to act otherwise.

This morning we received a call from John T. Haviland, of San Francisco, who is on his way home from a visit to New York. He is connected with the firm of Witherspoon & Co., represented in Utah by Mr. E. M. Brown, by whom the gentleman was accompanied to our office.

A young man employed at the Tithing office, while returning home on horseback last Friday night, was accidentally injured by the sudden turning of his animal round the Cedar Post corner in the Ninth Ward. The horse proceeded home alone, where the rider's attention was attracted by a light, but he afterwards arrived unhurt and without any anxiety.

In Provo, when an employe gets tired of his place and wants to leave, his employer draws a pistol and aims at him or over him several times, to intimidate him to retain his situation. At least it would appear so from an incident which happened at the Carbonate boarding house the other day, when a Chinese employe was improved into a target by the proprietor of the house, "just to scare him" a little, and make him come to terms.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Police Court.—Five soldiers were arrested on Saturday night for fighting, drunkenness and disorderly conduct on the streets. They were turned over to the military this morning.

Two men were arrested for sheep stealing on Saturday and will be tried before Justice Spleers this afternoon.

A number of others for drunkenness and disturbance were also taken in hand and most of them fined from $5 to $10 each, leaving the remainder to be disposed of due time.

Editorial Record.—Thomas Lutz, of Southfield, Cache County, and John Nield, of Meadow, Millard County, are the joint proprietors of a pictorial record, to which they have given the name of "The Pictorial Record of Deseret." It is a collection of photographs of the First Presidency and the Twelve Apostles, enclosed in a frame 19 by 24 inches. Each picture is surrounded by a border, on which is inscribed the name, age, stature, weight, complexion, form, date of birth and character of education of each subject. Symbolic floral groups and other figurative illustrations also find a place in the picture, a printed key to which accompanies the record to each purchaser.

District Court.—Proceedings in the Third District Court, Monday, November 5th, 1893, Chief Justice Hamner presiding.

M. M. Kalgin vs. L. B. Laverick et al.; plaintiff moves for leave to amend complaint, motion overruled. Exception. Verdict for plaintiff, $75, and stay for thirty days.

A. T. Manley vs. W. H. Yearl et al.; motion by plaintiff for continuance and to amend complaint. Rejected. Placed on law and motion calendar.

Joseph Davis et al. vs. J. F. Monk, jury trial; verdict for plaintiff. Wm. S. Clark vs. Wm. S. McCord; jury still in progress.

Kate Field To-night.—The musical monologue, in which Miss Kate Field appears before the Salt Lake footlights for the first time, will be presented at the Theatre this evening. The box office opened at 10 a. m., and seats immediately began selling at a promising rate. No doubt many will seize this opportunity of witnessing the second appearance in public of a lady who has already made such a favorable impression. The programme advertised is a very attractive one, as will be seen by referring to another column of this issue, and in addition to Miss Field's musical and other renditions, the Fort Douglas band will appear and perform the following choicest selections: Major Perkin's March, Minuet, Grand Medley, Black-a-bone, Minuet, selections from Verdi's opera of "Macbeth," arranged by Claus.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The congregation at the Assembly Hall yesterday afternoon, was addressed in turn by President A. H. Cannon, Elder Rudger Clawson and President Angus M. Cannon. The first speaker dwelt principally upon the harmony existing between the teachings of the Latter-day Saints, contained in the Book of Mormon and other records of the latter-day revelations of God, and the teachings of the Bible, which all Christians accept as a divine record of former ages. For this reason and that the saints to-day claimed the Almighty had re-opened the heavens and restored the same Gospel that was preached and practiced by the Savior and His Apostles, they were called fanatics and heretics by the Christian world and considered unworthy of a place among civilized nations. Why was this? To the Saints the reason was expressed in the saying of the Savior: "If ye were of the world, the world would love its own; but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hates you." The speaker proceeded to enumerate evidences of the truth of the Book of Mormon, viz: its harmony with the Bible, the translations of the Book of Mormon, the prophecies contained in the Book with their past and future fulfillment, the comparative paucity of proof respecting the divine origin of the Bible, and how the latter, according to the testimony of learned theologians and commentators, had passed through many translations and been mutilated, changed and tampered with by unscrupulous hands, while the Book of Mormon had only passed through one translator's hands, and he a prophet inspired of God to translate it correctly. If the Book of Mormon was of God then Joseph Smith was something more than an impostor, and if he was what he claimed to be, who rejected his testimony would be damned.

Elder Rudger Clawson referred to many forms of religion extant, and of the necessity existing for man to choose the right one, which alone could lead him back into the presence of God from whence he came. The religion of Jesus Christ, all Christians believed to be the correct one. This was the religion taught by the Bible, and the one believed by the people of the world. No other religion would bear comparison with the scriptures. It behooved all men in this momentous hour to be looking out for the truth of salvation. The Saints were bound together in unity by the power and influence of the Holy Ghost, an influence wrongly attributed by the people of the world to the "Mormon" leaders. This work was not founded, nor could it ever be upheld and carried on by the power of man. Truth was mighty and must prevail, and all that opposed its progress would be broken in pieces and overthrown.

President A. M. Cannon, referring to the fact that men chosen by the Lord through Joseph Smith to bear testimony of this work had afterwards fallen away, said that this was often used as an argument against the divinity of Joseph's mission. He would ask those who assumed this position whether the choosing of Jesus Iscariot to be an apostle proved that Jesus Christ was not the Son of God? The true testimony of a man of God always remained in force whether he fell away afterwards or not. The speaker then dwelt upon the providences of God to this people from the earliest period of their history. Joseph Smith said that riches would try the Saints more than poverty, and their subsequent history had proved it to be true. When driven at the point of death by the persecutions of the world, the Saints were humble, patient and righteous. But now a time had come when it was necessary for them to choose whether they would serve God or Mammon. This speaker alluded upon the evils of Sabbath breaking, drunkenness, and kindred abominations, and deprecated the building up of a church by those who patronized merchants who supported in our midst a licentious press devoted to the work of destroying the liberties of the people. He referred to the fact that a little handful of Saints in the midst of 60,000,000 of people, showed the rapid spread of the work of God from its incipency, and depicted the glorious destiny of America, which should be redeemed and purified from the blood of martyrs and the corruptions of the wicked.

"Elevator—Gillipod—Frien d—Brothers"—The Ogden Pilot, whose account of the shooting affair between Ed. Winn and Leroy Swigart a week ago last Friday, appeared in these columns, now announces reconciliation between the two belligerents, as follows:

Mr. Winn called on Swigart at the Casino in Provo, and had a long conversation with him. During it Swigart admitted that he had acted foolishly, rashly and recklessly, and was willing to take his life and be humbly begged the latter's pardon for it. He also said that with him the matter was ended forever. Winn freely forgave him, and Swigart said that when he drew his revolver in self-defense it was with a full intention to kill the man he was now extending a pardon to, cut aside all feeling against his murderous assailant, but counseled him, if he valued his own safety, to make no further hostile demonstrations against him, as inflexion Swigart assured him he would bear in mind. Then Winn, in proof of his good intentions toward his former enemy, handed him a check for $20, gave him the tender being thanked accepted.

Swigart, who received four wounds in the encounter, is in a fair way to recovery.

Railway Discriminations.—The Utah Journal, of Logan, is out with another vigorous article expository and denunciatory of the injustice of the Utah Valley by the corporation controlling the Utah and Northern Railway. Says that paper:

"Think of a man paying $10 per ton for hay in Omaha and paying it down at Beaver Canyon cheaper than he could if he bought it in Logan at $3. Think of coal selling in Ogden at $3.50 per ton, and in Logan at $1. What makes the latter figures appear all the more preposterous is the fact that our coal market is not supplied by an actual fact, that coal can be purchased in Ogden, shipped from there to Logan at local rates, and still be sold at considerably less than the Ogden Valley by the corporation agents of the Utah and Northern Railway, and a gentleman of our acquaintance, a prominent business man of this city, lately expressed, in the presence of the writer, his determination to obtain several car loads in this way. In fact, the Utah Journal, after lusting into the mouth of the railway corporation

tion Boas Tweed's query, "What are you going to do about it?" pretty strongly intimates that the same people who built the road now being used "as a lever for their oppression," are amply able to build another for purposes of self protection.

On the Way.—On November 1st, Apostles Brigham Young and Heber J. Grant, who left here a few days previous to this date to resume their missionary labors in New Mexico, Arizona and Southern Utah, had arrived at La Junta, Colorado. Both were in the enjoyment of good health, and in excellent spirits.
