

"SCHLATTER" AT THE GRAND

Demonstrations Made by Dr. McLean There Last Night.

CLAIMS OF THE PATIENTS.

Some Declare That They Were Cured—Others Were Not—Some Queer Disturbances Took Place.

Yesterday afternoon and evening Dr. McLean, who claims that he is the divine healer "Schlatter," who created such a distinct sensation in Colorado several years ago, lectured at the Grand Opera House, the evening lecture being accompanied by demonstrations of the power of healing which the lecturer says come to him from God through the agency of prayer. Among the few people present in the afternoon were a number suffering from various ailments who had come under the misapprehension that healing was to be done at the afternoon lecture, and were consequently disappointed. Present also was Dr. J. C. Sides, formerly of Denver, who claims to have been intimately acquainted with Schlatter in Colorado and who, during the remarks made by Dr. McLean, relative to the wrong done him by the denials that he was the same man, exclaimed: "You are not the man who was in Denver."

Dr. McLean immediately stopped speaking and returned to go on until Dr. Sides left the house. After the doctor had disappeared, Dr. McLean continued speaking, denouncing the man who had interrupted him in general. His main theme in the afternoon was the subject of faith, and he recounted many instances of people who had been healed through his prayer. In the evening the lecturer, though he stated in closing that it was the smallest of faith that had ever greeted him. About twenty-five people afflicted with various ailments and from these Dr. McLean selected about seventeen whom he stated he felt impressed would receive help.

"I am led by the Lord in these things," Dr. McLean said, "and will take only those I inspire me to select." He refused to deal with any under fourteen, as none under that age could be expected to have developed faith—and "it is only those who have faith themselves that can be healed," he said.

Among those called to the stage were Fred Swenson, deafness; Alice Jackson, 524 Second South street, tumor; William Ford, Butte, nervous paralysis of the right side; Mary Stevenson, 531 First West street, partial blindness and catarrh of the ear; Clara Murphy, 333 F street, heart trouble and a combination of diseases; Mary Lindsey, heart, kidney and stomach trouble; Joseph Williamson, Park City, salivator; Jeanette McLean, 417 bronchial trouble and deafness; Mrs. Jacobson, Fountain Green, nervous trouble; Jennie Ross, 654 south Second East, rheumatism and locomotor ataxia; Mort G. Taylor, 624 west Second South, partial blindness and deafness; Mrs. Taylor, his wife, stomach trouble and catarrh; Maria Pierce, Montpelier, kidney and liver trouble; Charles Pierce, deafness; Mrs. White, Third South street, partial blindness; John Mitchell, lameness and asthma.

Of these the most pronounced cases were those of Jennie Ross, of 654 south Second West, who was lame from rheumatism and locomotor ataxia, and Mort G. Taylor, of 624 west Second South, from partial blindness and deafness—both of whom claim to have been remarkably helped. Mrs. Ross had to be assisted to the stage by the doctor and a theater attendant, and after the prayer was pronounced upon her, walked to the steps leading from the stage without assistance, and down the stairs with the aid simply of the railing, to which she clung.

To a "News" representative Mrs. Ross stated that she had been considerably helped, though she "still felt stiff," and Mr. Taylor claimed that he could hear and see quite well—something he had not done before in years. Mrs. M. G. Pierce, of Montpelier, Ida., who was afflicted with extreme "near sight," said that she could not see the card the doctor showed her at all before his prayer, but that afterward she saw it so plainly that she "had to ask him if it was the same card."

It was at the time of this demonstration that the second, and last, of the evening prayers took place. The Rev. Mr. Clementson of Logan, who was near the stage in the upper gallery, suggested to Dr. McLean to "show her the green card," and after the prayer the blessing had been pronounced, and the healer was showing her that card, called out: "Show her the white card."

The interruption was the occasion for a violent denunciation from Dr. McLean, who alluded to Mr. Clementson as "villain," "scoundrel," "mad dog," "jail bird," and as being only fit for jail, whence he had doubtless come, and where he would eventually return. He also said that a curse would be laid upon him, and that he would be dead in a short time. He said, too, that he hoped he would repent and turn from his evil ways before the morning.

Dr. McLean's manner of proceeding in the healing was to lay his hands upon the head of the afflicted person, pronounce a prayer, with a few words of inquiry and promise to those, and call for the next. Between the prayers, Dr. McLean cleaned his hands in a basin of water, for fear, he said, of transmitting disease from one to another. Each one was asked if he or she had been blessed, and the answer announced to the audience. Nearly all who were called to the stage claimed to have been helped.

Mr. Williamson, of Park City, who had been salivated, the result of mercury having been given him during his service in the army, stated that no change had followed the prayer; that he felt much as he had before. The evening closed with a brief exhortation by Dr. McLean, in which he prayed that all the souls there might

ANOTHER DAYLIGHT ROBBER

J. T. Ross Reports the Loss of About Twenty-Three Dollars.

Yesterday afternoon a burglar entered a suite of rooms in the house of C. V. Spencer in Social Hall Avenue, occupied by J. T. Ross and wife, and after thoroughly ransacking the rooms made his departure as silently as he entered, and he was not accompanied by a brass band. The robber secured a vacuum, but missed some valuable jewelry and diamonds, which Mrs. Ross had stowed away in the bottom of a chair.

OFFICE MAY BE VACANT.

Ray C. Naylor, While on His Honey-moon, is Called on a Mission.

It is stated upon good authority that City Recorder Raymond C. Naylor, who, with his newly wedded bride, is now in Germany, will not return to the United States for at least two or three years. While the happy couple were in Germany, it is said, they received a call—probably from President Platt D. Lyman, president of the European mission—to do missionary work in the fatherland. This will, of course, create a vacancy in the recorder's office, and to Mayor Thompson will fall the privilege of appointing Mr. Naylor's successor. Already there are quite a number of young men after the place, among whom is the present chief deputy, J. O. Nyström, who, many think, will be the one selected. Mr. Naylor was elected a year ago for two years and his successor will hold office until January 1st, 1902.

Mayor Thompson has not yet received the resignation of Recorder Naylor and for that reason is unable to say whom he would favor for the place.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Grand tonight "A Hot Old Time," which was originally rendered here by the Rays and which has duplicated its original success each time it has visited us since, will open another week. It will run for three nights and a matinee, and the indications are that it will do the usual heavy business.

Manager Pyper said this morning that he had taken no steps as yet in the matter of circulating a subscription list for the Metropolitan Opera company.

The eighth and last performance of the "Mandarin" drew a good house at the Theater on Saturday evening. The company will now take a long rest and the opera books and orchestra will be returned to the owners in New York.

REMAINS REACH HOME.

Body of Elder Bronson Arrives in Salt Lake—The Sad Story.

The body of Elder Bronson, who was drowned in the Oceanic river in Georgia a few days since, arrived in the city this morning in the care of Elder J. P. Perkins. Elder Perkins will resume his journey to Fairview, Idaho, with the remains tomorrow morning at 6:15.

In speaking of the sad event, Elder Perkins said there were four Elders together, and they desired to cross the stream. They stood on the bank and shouted for the ferryman for about two hours. Elder Bronson and Elder Butler became impatient, decided to swim across the stream and get the boat and return for their companions. On reaching the middle of the stream, Elder Bronson lost his strength and tried to return, but was unable to do so. He sank, and his body was found in the river sixty hours, before it was found.

FOLLOWED A YOUNG GIRL.

Officer Sperry Takes Into Custody Lawrence Strocher.

Saturday night as Officer C. A. Sperry was emerging from the Grand Theater a little girl rushed up to him terror-stricken and begged the officer to protect her from a man whom, she said, had been following her around the streets on different occasions. The girl pointed the fellow out to the officer and Sperry, once made for him. The man was about as quick as the officer and ran up the street. When he reached a tall man about half way up the street he darted in the doorway and tried to hide. Sperry saw him and was not long in placing him under arrest. The fellow gave his name as Lawrence Strocher and said he was a dishwasher by occupation.

The girl, whose name is Beatrice Sperry, is only 13 years of age. She resides on Second East between First and Second South. She says that a couple of evenings ago she had occasion to go down town to do some shopping and the same man followed her to and from the store and tried to seize her just before she reached her home.

She reached her home and was locked up.

TOOELE BRANCH STANDARD GAUGE

Work on Garfield Line to be Pushed.

MAY BE FURTHER EXTENDED

Hinted that Some Probability of Los Angeles Road at Back of the Move.

The Oregon Short Line officials have come to the conclusion that it is about time that all its branch lines were of standard gauge. With this end in view the Garfield branch which extends to the ridge of hills that separate Tooele valley from Tush valley is to be broad-gauged in all probability in the near future.

This innovation is the outcome of a choice between purchasing more narrow gauge equipment or putting in the third rail and running the standard gauge rolling stock over the 37.2 miles of track. The latter course is essentially the solution to the problem, and third rail will be put in with the result that from present indications Saltair will have some opposition next season in the form of Garfield beach which will be thrown open to the public again.

A few days ago a party of Short Line officials went over the road, the observation car being backed down so as to enable the engineer to thoroughly examine the conditions of the roadbed. It is understood that the inspection was in every way satisfactory, and it was found that with the large number of standard-gauge ties that had been put in that the task of putting down the third rail would be comparatively easy. On arriving at the end of the road, which runs into a cul de sac and terminates at the base of the hills, the blue prints of the projected tunnel through the hill were brought out and the feasibility of boring through the hill and developing the big mining district in the neighborhood of Stockton was discussed.

In connection with this rumored move in the direction of extending the branch in this direction, a gentleman who has been watching the railroad developments in this inter-mountain region, stated that in his opinion there was a significance to be attached to the contemplated move at this time, to the extent that it would be found that the Salt Lake and Los Angeles road was in a measure responsible for this step and that it would be found that when that road did come into Salt Lake that it would come in from the south.

The Short Line can be readily seen that provided the route to the coast is to traverse the Deep Creek mining district that the Tooele branch would afford the best of facilities for the Short Line to reach the coast. While it is hardly upon the cards that the Short Line has placed the Tooele branch white elephant upon the market, at the same time it seems to be generally understood that there is some understanding that when this road is built that the trains will come in from California over the tracks of the Short Line.

In the meantime the world has gone forth that requires upon the narrow-gauge engines at present in use be cut down to the safety limit pending developments.

IN WITH SHORT LINE.

J. Ross Clark Talks on the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Road.

[SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS"]
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 15, 1900.—J. Ross Clark, brother to Senator W. A. Clark, has returned home from the East. He knows his brother's plans about as well as any man in the country. Mr. Clark says that articles of incorporation of the proposed railroad will be filed and that $20,000,000 is the amount at which the enterprise is to be capitalized. Senator Clark will be general president, T. E. Gibson Esq. will be general counsel, and the headquarters of the road will be in Los Angeles.

Mr. Clark thinks the Oregon Short Line extension now being operated to Milford or beyond may be absorbed, but it has already been explained that if this line it will be by outright purchase, so as to make it independent of the Oregon Short Line and of the Union Pacific.

CONFERENCE AT MADRID.

Spanish-American Nations Invited to Participate Therein.

Convocation is Literary and Commercial, Not Political—Some Suspicion on This Point.

New York, Oct. 14.—Important political and international results may follow the meeting of the Hispano-American congress which has been called to meet in Madrid on November 11th, and to which all the Spanish-American countries of Central and South America have been invited to send representatives, says the Washington correspondent of the Herald.

Avowedly the purpose of the congress is to bring the Spanish-speaking peoples of the world into closer commercial and literary relations. It has been hinted, however, that the real purpose is much more important and looks to closer political relations as well, and the mutual support of all Spanish-speaking peoples in international difficulties in which other races are involved. It is even said that the proposed drawing together of the Spanish-speaking peoples is aimed particularly at the two great English-speaking nations of the world—the United States and Great Britain—and that the immediate object to be sought is to prevent Anglo-Saxon control or political aggression in Central or South America.

The United States, though now having Spanish-speaking peoples under its sovereignty, has not been invited to send representatives to the congress. Probably because the United States is not to be a party to the congress in any way, the governments of Central and South America have not seen fit to notify their representatives here of the action on the invitations addressed to them.
