SABBATH MEETINGS.—In the forenoon remarks were made by Elder H. W. Lawrence, lately returned from the East, and by Elder George Dunford, on his faith and experience. Father John Albion, one of the first to receive the Gospel in London, under the ministrations of President Kimball, bore his testimony to the truth. President Wells followed, with instructive remarks to the congregation.

In the afternoon Elder Orson Pratt addressed the congregation, and read a portion of the 14th part of a revelation given through the prophet Joseph Smith in 1830. The speaker portrayed the darkness which existed in the world in relation to God, His creations, and His dealings with mankind, previous to the introduction of this latter-day work. God revealed to Joseph Smith that the elements are eternal, while all other Christian sects declare that all things were made from nothing. By His spirit He garnished the heavens and formed the solid portions of our earth. The speaker reasoned upon light and truth, emanating from God, and upon the results of obedience to the Gospel.

THEATRICAL.—This week the theatre will be opened on the usual nights, the engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Davenport having terminated on Friday evening. On Saturday night "Elizabeth" was performed to a very good house, considering the Theatre had been open every night during the week. Her impersonation of the leading role was, in every respect, marked by evidence of the highest order of dramatic ability. She first essayed that very difficult role in this city, and considering that a very clever actor once said we had the most critical audience in the United States in our theatre, she may sustain the character anywhere, after any other actress, for her impersonation of it has all the freshness and vigor of originality and genius. Her support on Saturday night was most excellent.

To-morrow evening the fine play of "Fazio, or the Italian Wife" will be produced. Miss Ince, sustaining the part of Bianca, the forsaken wife, and Miss Adams that of Aldabella, the heartless woman who has taught Fazio to barter his martial vows for her seductive smiles. Mr. McKenzie is cast for the part of Fazio, the hero of the piece. In this powerful drama and in its leading role, Miss Ince will gain another triumph. It contains materials from which a great portraiture can be eliminated and she possesses talent to do it. The laughable scene of "Baudouin's Picnic" or "On and Off" will close the entertainment.

PRESIDENT BRIGHAM YOUNG and company returned yesterday evening from Grantsville, having had very interesting meetings on Saturday and Sunday.

The thunder storms of the past few days do not seem to be altogether over, as accumulations of black nimbus can be seen in various points of the heavens still.

POPULAR BOOKS.—Mr. O. H. Elliott & Co., who have opened a very extensive book store in the city, favored us this morning with copies of "Conflicts of the United States," by Horace Greeley, and Pollard's "Lost Cause," works which have already obtained a very wide circulation through the country. Both books are sold by subscription, and Mr. Elliott's agents will personally canvass the Territory for the sale of these and other subscription books. The works thus brought before the public are standard and popular, and we expect Mr. Elliott's agents will meet with great success in canvassing for their sale.

GOT HOME.—We had the pleasure of meeting General H. B. Clawson, D. O. Calder and Wm. C. Staines, Esqs., this morning, who arrived yesterday evening by stage from the East. Having closed the immigration business of the season in the Eastern States, with which they were intrusted, they have returned home, and can now enjoy the happiness of the home circle after their absence from our mountain valleys.

CALLED.—We received a call to-day from H. H. Bigelow, Esq., representing the Pacific Insurance Company, who is on his way back to the west after a successful business trip through the Territories. He goes by way of Idaho. The business of the company has, under his auspices, been materially advanced in this Territory, insurances having been made with them to the amount of over three-quarters of a million in this city.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Mr. Wm. Fuller, of this city, has received a letter from Annie R. Crocker, whose address is 593, M street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, Washington, D. C., who inquires with great anxiety for her father, named William Fuller, who left Leavenworth to cross the plains three years ago. If any of our readers can furnish any information concerning this person inquired after, Mr. Fuller will take pleasure in forwarding it to the lady.

D. S. ANDREWS, also, wants information concerning a lady, who came from Cardiff, Glamorganshire, South Wales, ten or twelve years ago, whose name was then Mrs. Spooner, and who was married subsequently to the late Father Mosley. Information to be left at this office.

SUCH IS LIFE.—Of Harrison, the great English tenor, whose fame as a member of the Pyne and Harrison combination is world-wide, the Sacramento Daily Union says:

"Harrison, the English tenor, formerly well known in this country, is now a hopeless invalid and a bankrupt, having lost all his fortune at the Covent Garden Opera House a year or two ago. A benefit was recently given him at that house, but after paying expenses there was literally nothing left for him."

DIED, this morning, of dropsy, at the residence of her grandfather, A. Neibaur, 13 Ward, Sarah, daughter of Morris and Alice Neibaur, Rosebaum, of Brigham City, aged 9 years. The funeral will take place from the house of A. Neibaur, on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Friends are invited to attend. (San Francisco and New York Hebrew papers please copy.)

Good News to the Bilious.—One of the most distressing and enervating complaints to which poor mortals are subject is the liver complaint, and innumerable are the nostrums advertised for this very general disease. A recent number of the San Francisco Times contains the following on this subject, which, if true, may prove of considerable benefit to many, and is almost enough to make one wish to be troubled with that disease just for the pleasure and enjoyment that would be occasioned by liberal doses of this new "antidote."

"One of our first physicians designates grapes as a certain and speedy cure for all liver complaints, and cites a certain watering place in Southern Germany, known as the 'grape cure,' to which crowds of patients resort in the grape season, and devote themselves to the eating of grapes, with which the grounds and surrounding country abound, and to the exertion of all other remedies for the above mentioned disease. The patient has a basket of ripe succulent grapes at the bedside, and awakes in the night. A servant brings in a little pyramid of them at the hour of rising. A bountiful supply stands on the hall and dining tables, and the invalid when promenading in the gardens has a supply of the tempting fruit in a basket on the arm. In a word, grape-eating seems to be the one grand aim in life, and the beneficial effects are too positive and apparent to be ignored. The time of the grape cure is all abroad in Germany, according to this witness, who now reveals in health by his sole means, taking these statements for facts, and as open to verification by every traveler, what an antidote country grapes ought to be to all sorts of ailments of all sizes, kinds and flavors, are literally a drug in a basket, and within the reach of the humblest purse."
