

MARKET HUNTERS VS. GENTLEMAN SPORT

One of Former Class Hands His Compliments to Latter In Verse.

FEUD ALONG THE JORDAN.

Perry Burnham Tells More About Gun Club Men in Giving His Side of the Case.

What constitutes a gentleman in the hunting game? In England, where there are fenced preserves the gentleman "hunter" is well defined. In America, the recent fencing off of hunting grounds for ducks, has led to duck club membership privileges with a certain code. For the month of the Jordan this code requires that to be a gentleman one must not sell his ducks. The name of "market-hunter" has a certain odium attached to it, and below is given the philosophy of a socially chilled market-hunter against the "sport"—the good boy and the club men for whom he holds the game law is blind, although overvigilant for the other kind of hunter.

The communication is a document in the feud among the Jordan hunters who work with gun and No. 6 shot for mallard, goose or more humble kill. It deals with the circumstances of the arrest of four Salt Lake men by a brand new deputy on his first day's duty. Among those he arrested was another deputy, Stephen Ure, who had charge for the club of protecting the law from violations. Two of the men were dismissed, while City Councilman Murdoch, a Scotchman with a well known reputation for adhering technically to the truth, and Deputy Ure, appealed their cases after being fined. The new deputy testified he had seen them both shoot after sunset. At the time Ure was helping Murdoch up the channel, having brought him a new boat, since his had been shot through and was sinking. Murdoch gave the lie direct to the testimony, stating that his gun was under water in the boat and Ure had no gun at all. This is the view nearly all of the hunters present take of the case, four men testifying that they knew Ure had no gun.

The inventive of Perry Burnham, part of which is in prose and part in verse, states the case of the man whose business is hunting, against him whose recreation it is. This is how he sums up in poetry the case in the Davis county courts:

THE DIFFERENCE

Ure looks for market shooters
Brunson led the sports
Anyone can tell it
By the Davis county courts.
Found them in the tulles
And near the upper lake
With fourteen spoons
And a cripple widgeon drake.
Ure got the jack-pot
Brunson gets the blame,
Also raking over
But he caught them just the same.
—Burnham.

AS TO SPORTS.

Here is the rejoinder of Mr. Burnham, in prose, to the "sports." "It is true as stated in the 'News' by President H. S. Margetts of the New State club, that the market hunters have been watched very closely, so much so that they did not get a shot after being fined. The so-called sports, who to my knowledge have persistently violated the game laws since 1901, including some of the officers of the New State Gun club, by bringing in more than the lawful number of birds, also by shooting after sunset. As for Stephen Ure being on the New State preserve for the protection of the game, it is quite absurd except to catch market hunters, when asked by State Game Commissioner Cromar why he did not round up some of the members for night shooting. Ure said that it is quite a purpose. Cromar then said, 'I'll see that it is stopped.' Which was done by Deputy Brunson. Deputy Brunson was not so lucky as Deputy Ure, as the club only paid a reward for market shooters. No reward for good men or sports. Immediately after the conviction of some so-called market shooters and members of the New State club, appeared two really sports at the club house with more than the limit. What happened? Nothing but a few comments.

"Said one of the members who had been prosecuted to another who don't sell his ducks, 'Why are not all the members treated alike?' The reply was, 'Oh, these men are good fellows, a sport doesn't sell his ducks.'"

URE'S PROUD RECORD.

"I wish to state that I did not procure the appointment of Deputy Brunson. Ure must have had four fingers of Margetts' ready when he performed the so-called feat of putting a Burnham off the grounds with the toe of his lousy boot, as he made several threats to do wonders in his estimation. Burnham dared Ure to carry out any of his threats which he was too cowardly to do. Ure ought to be proud of his vigilance in bringing hunters to heel, which amounts to three who he did to get as many as they wanted, and it would be all right. But when they exceeded the limit, he Ure, with an overdose of red-eye, arrested the boys, adding another feather to his cap in the estimation of sports. 'Now about my having a grudge against the club. This is false. On the other hand the club has had a grudge against me ever since I tied on water rights against them, and won the case. Another cause of the grudge is, I openly sell my ducks and instead of sneaking into the back of some cafe or butcher shop to sell them, or give them to some customer, who gets soaked four prices on his next business deal, and then tells his friends, 'I give them away,' but whispers to himself, 'I'll soak 'em.'"

URE'S REJOINER.

So much for the declaration of the rights of the market-hunter. Ure tells of Burnham that two years ago he first fell under serious suspicion by appearing at the club house with 50 ducks, instead of the limit of 25, bringing in the extra string with a plous story to the effect that he had found them all tied up in the rushes, and couldn't figure for the life of him where they were. So Ure took possession, turned them over to President Margetts, and then they were given to the poor along the road to Salt Lake. Next day Burnham came back, alleging he had found that the ducks belonged to his brother, and that the club had a point of beginning. After that once Burnham fell under suspicion for shooting all one day, but he made good by bringing in only 25. However, Ure suspects he was re-awakened next day by his reappearance, and the dropping of 25 birds in about 19 minutes work, which those present thought was about long enough to go out and pick up a string of caught ducks.

BILLS OF LEGISLATURE.

It is clear from the situation, that new seasons hunting is to be characterized by much vigilance on the part of each side of the feud to capture in illegal acts, members of the other side, and that the Salt Lake hunt-hunters have been introduced in every recent legislature, but have been killed by the influence of the restaurant men.

ROOMINGHOUSE RUMPU.

Ice Pick Figures in An Assault and Battery Case.

In Judge Diehl's court this morning the case of Peter F. Goss, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was called for preliminary hearing. By arrangement between court and counsel, the charge was dismissed and a charge of assault and battery substituted.

The charge grew out of trouble between Goss, who is proprietor of the Angelus roominghouse on east First street, and another tenant, a man named Horace Prader. During the hearing of the case it developed that the complainant, or his employer, had been in the habit of complaining with an ice pick against the dining room of Goss, and that the odor from the fith was sickening. Goss said he complained several times, but the guests would not listen to him or no attention was paid to his protests. Finally he decided to board up the doorway. This was done on Nov. 10, the day of the assault. Prader, with an ice pick, proceeded to tear down the door and was struck on the head with a board. He declared that Goss struck him. The latter and the blow was sworn to, as striking at the ice pick when the door gave way and Prader caught the blow on the head. Judge Diehl continued the case until Saturday morning and, in the meantime, will view the premises to get the location fixed in his mind. The accused is represented by Atty. Soren X. Christensen, and Asst. County Atty. Meyers is prosecuting.

FEINBERG BOUND EAST.

Alleged Diamond Thief Believed to Have Been in Springfield Yesterday.

The police have reason to believe that young J. Feinberg, the clerk who stole about $2,000 worth of watches and diamonds from S. Samuelson, proprietor of the New York pawnshop on east Second South street, on Tuesday morning, will be captured within 24 hours. Last night Chief of Police Pitt received a telegram from Springfield, Mo.

the effect that young Feinberg had been in that city and had offered for sale gold watches at absurdly low prices. Chief Pitt lost no time in notifying officers along the line to keep a sharp lookout for the fugitive. Feinberg purchased a ticket from Springfield to Denver and the chief wired the conductor of the train boarded by the young man, to try and locate Feinberg and turn him over to an officer.

CALLING IN GOLD PIECES.

Latest Coinage of Double Eagles Commands High Price as Souvenirs.

The recently issued $20 gold piece, or double eagles, have been called in, and are now commanding a high premium as souvenirs. The Cook bank at Goldfield is reported as ready to pay $55 each for them, and it is claimed that $40 will be readily paid by many other parties. After a lot of the new issue were coined, it was found that they were inconvenient. The edges were so rough that they could not be filed the casing which held 20 of the old style double eagles. Then the figures on both sides were in such bold relief that they began to wear out right away, and the date was in Roman letters, where figures had been intended. So the issue has been called in, and new coins are to be turned out with the defects mentioned remedied. The new design, anyway, is not received with much favor, as people say it makes the coins look like medals.

SKULL WAS FRACTURED.

Injuries Sustained at Garfield Result in Fred R. Wagner's Death.

Fred R. Wagner, a smelter employee, died yesterday from injuries received on Monday at the Utah Copper company's plant at Garfield. He was working an electrical saw, when a piece of timber which had been secured by force, fractured the skull. He was taken to St. Mark's hospital, and it was there that death occurred.

The deceased is survived by a widow and one child, and had been married but little over a year, and resided at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Thompson, Poplar Grove. Wagner has two brothers, one of whom, Edward Wagner, started for South America a few days ago. He will be recalled to attend the funeral. The other brother lives in Virginia. The deceased was a member of the Knights of Pythias, and was about 29 years old.

MURDEROUS AUSTRIANS.

One Held on Charge of Stabbing and Highway Robbery.

Elie La Mike, an Austrian, was this morning ordered by Judge Diehl to be held to answer to the district court on the charge of robbery, committed upon an Austrian named Mike Musga, Dec. 12. Musga was attacked by three murderous Austrians, stabbed several times and robbed of $16. La Mike was arrested by the police at Murray, where he was in hiding. When he was brought to this city he was positively identified by Musga as one of the robbers. Musga testified this morning that La Mike lured him from a saloon on the night of the assault and robbery and took him to a place where the other two were waiting. The men stabbed Musga several times, took his money and left him for dead. La Mike will now have to stand trial in the Third district court.

MINING COMPANY ARTICLES.

The Columbia Gold Mines company filed articles of incorporation with Secretary of State C. S. Tingey today. The capital stock of the concern is $125,000 in shares of 25 cents each. Its principal place of business will be in Ogden and its properties are located in Ogden county, Nev. The officers are: Adam Patterson, president; J. A. Foley, vice president; George F. Busch, secretary; M. S. Browning, treasurer, and these with T. C. Foley form the board of directors.

THE CORPORATION TAX.

Opinion of Attorney General Regarding Institution of Suit.

That the clause in the new state law imposing a fine of $100 on corporations which do not pay the annual license fee, is not self-operative, but requires a suit in court to be instituted, is the opinion of Attorney General M. A. Breeden, as submitted in a letter to the secretary of state today. The secretary's office, however, may receive payment and issue licenses to corporations after Jan. 14, the limit for payment set by law.

Attorney General Breeden is also of the opinion that his department is anxious to file suits against the corporations which do not obey the law, and therefore, he is willing, anxious and ready to begin action. He asks the secretary to file the list of delinquent corporations, to collect from each of them the fine of $100, to collect from those that pay without demanding the penalty of $100 and to give him a list of those still refusing to pay so that he may commence suits in the matter.

SIMMS IS THE MAN WANTED

Confesses to Killing Man in Alabama, But is Silent as to Details.

There is no longer any doubt as to the identity of the young man arrested last Saturday night by Detective Ed Janney, on suspicion of being the man wanted at Eliza, Ala., for murder. The young prisoner, whose name is Walter Simms, alias Laake, at first denied the charge and said it was a case of mistaken identity. This morning Detective Janney had a talk with the prisoner and Simms finally admitted that he was the man wanted. He acknowledged his name is Simms and admitted he killed Richard Smith at Eliza, Ala., about a year ago. Detective Janney asked the young man how the killing occurred and he said that he had been in the country for some time and had been in the habit of working on a farm. He said that he had been in the habit of working on a farm and had been in the habit of working on a farm.

Since the killing of Smith the Alabama authorities have searched the country for Simms. The latter, it seems, came almost at once to this city. He was in hiding here for more than eight months. The police here got a description of him and Janney started to work on the case. For two days the detective and Officer Betz watched for their man, and finally succeeded in locating him. An officer is now on the way from Alabama with requisition papers for the youthful prisoner.

NEW COMMISSION MEETS

Business May Not Be Transacted, However, Until Bonds Are Filed.

appointed by Mayor Bransford last Monday met this morning in the office of the mayor for the purpose of organizing, but on the advice of Atty. Dinny postponed actual work until the council may provide for an official bond to be furnished by the members. Apparently by an oversight this has not been done, but the council at its special session tonight, will provide for the bond by resolution.

The board, before the announcement by Mr. Dinny had been made, selected A. Fred Wey as chairman. City Recorder Moreton is secretary of the board, as he is of all others in accordance with a statutory provision. The selection of Mr. Wey as chairman will be made again after the board is officially organized.

NEW FACES APPEAR.

Chicago Man Comes to Oregon Short Line—Callison Goes Up.

A new face appears among those of the attaches of the Oregon Short Line's general passenger office. It is a smiling countenance and belongs to John V. Tedford, who succeeds Frank Davey, who has gone to California to join his wife, whose poor health necessitated the change being made. Mr. Tedford has been city passenger agent for the Illinois Central line at Chicago and says he likes the new position. Another change in the shape of a meritorious promotion, has fallen to V. G. "Gag" Callison, who has been given a position in the passenger office of the Harriman Lines. Mr. Callison has been in the auditor's office. He is a Salt Lake boy and a "comer."

LETTER TO HANAIANI.

There's nothing like attention to details and care in sending a letter. And talking about addresses, there's a misive on the Salt Lake Route's mail-rack bearing this inscription: Hanaiani. Jans Langa's Wife Gang. P. O. Lynn, Utah. It is a safe wager that Hanaiani will get the misive all right.

MRS. REED SMOOT GIVES FIRST FORMAL RECEPTION

(Special to the "News.")

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Reed Smoot, wife of the senior senator from Utah, gives her first formal reception at her new home on Connecticut avenue this afternoon. It is probable that the Utah colony in Washington will be largely represented, and it would probably surprise people in Salt Lake to know that there are somewhere about 50 Utah families residing in Washington. This winter, including the congressional delegation and secretaries to senators and Representative Howell, Mrs. Smoot will continue to be "at home" each Thursday afternoon until the beginning of March, when the Washington society season comes to an end. Senator and Mrs. Smoot were among the guests at Vice President Fairbank's reception last evening.

INTERESTING LECTURE.

Jos. F. Smith, Jr., Addresses Daughters of the Utah Pioneers.

Yesterday at the meeting of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers, Joseph F. Smith, Jr., gave a lecture on the subject of "Salvation for the Dead," to an audience which filled the room to overflowing and spread far into the hall outside. The speaker gave first the scripture references to this subject, showing that the doctrine of future opportunity for the dead to repent, accept the gospel and obtain spiritual salvation by this and vicarious work was known and accepted in the days of Abraham.

From various parts of the Bible he read passages bearing upon this theme pointing to the knowledge existing in ancient times that the work for the progression and final redemption of human souls hereafter was spoken of by the Savior, who clearly announced to his disciples that he went to preach to the spirits in prison, showing that the gospel is preached and an opportunity offered for salvation. He quoted the words of Jesus to the thief on the cross, "I will save thee," and the apparently contradictory one made later, in which after his resurrection he told his disciples that he had not yet ascended to his Father's dwelling place, that Father could not be the same, and that the dead repentance of the thief after his life on earth, did not imply that he had obtained full salvation. He quoted many passages indicating that souls on the other side were in bondage, or prison, were to be preached to and finally to come forth, showing that the doctrine of redemption, however, it may hinder or lessen the privileges and blessings eventually received. He said the doctrine of redemption was a mystery, and the coming of Elijah to "turn the hearts of the fathers to the children and the children to the fathers," had in truth a vital importance, for it signified a link that must be welded before the salvation of either could be perfected. What this link was the Latter-day Saints claimed to know both by revelation and by the keys of the kingdom of this world upon the church. Whatever is being done on the other side, upon the people of this earth rests the responsibility for work which is to aid the redemption to eternal salvation would be the theme of his future talk.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Susan J. Gates, the club president, and was opened and dismissed with prayer and the singing of hymns. The next lecture upon "Salvation for the Dead" will be given on Wednesday, January 23. On next Wednesday the 22nd the society will hold its reminiscent meeting.

MAY CLOSE PRINCESS RINK.

However, Manager George Derr Declares the Place is Orderly.

The Princess roller rink may be closed by the juvenile court authorities in the event that the State Fair association does not act in the matter at the regular meeting of the association next Monday. Probation officers and others connected with the court have visited the rink and they declare that conditions found there warrant the closing of the place. The rink is in a building controlled by the State Fair association, and is rented to the management by the state. Harry S. Joseph, a member of the state industrial school board of trustees, said last night that the proposition of the state maintaining a juvenile court for the correction of juvenile delinquency and then renting one of its buildings for the roller rink is inconsistent. He declares that that one rink makes more places of amusement in the city.

When seen today in reference to the statement that the Princess rink was to be closed, Manager George Derr, who represents the company, stated that there was nothing in it. He said, "We have run, and will continue to run, an orderly roller rink. It is not a place where children under the age of 16 have obtained admission to the rink occasionally, but this has been on the representation that they were of proper age. If we do not want that kind of business, our purpose is to furnish a place where ladies and gentlemen can get wholesome amusement, and where the most sensitive can come and not be bothered. To more fully carry out this purpose we have just closed a contract with Mr. Earl La Mont and Mrs. Arlie Putnam, both of whom stand in the front rank as skaters, and whose names are a sufficient guarantee for order, and with Mr. A. N. Rosenbaum. These parties take charge today. The Princess will be closed for a season, and will open Saturday night under the new management."

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The house will be closed tonight, the next attraction being "The Land of Nod" tomorrow evening, and "The Man On the Box" the first part of next week. The sale of seats commenced this morning.

George Primrose and his minstrel company held the boards at the theater yesterday afternoon and evening, playing to a small-sized matinee, and a fair turnout at night. The bill was about the same as that given last week and ranged from the very good down to the passable. One of the best features was Mr. Primrose's own little speech, when he told of the time when he first came to Salt Lake in 1879, and the warm manner in which he cherished the historic old play house.

Orpheum—The bill this week is drawing heavy attendance and the "Standing Room" sign will no doubt be hung out before the week closes.

Grand—The new bill opening tonight is "Uncle Josh Perkins."

Lyric—The new Utah Stock company's present attraction is "A Hero in Rags," and it will be followed by the old time and always popular "East Lynne," opening Saturday afternoon.

FRESHMEN TO SKATE.

What promises to be one of the most successful roller skating parties of the season is scheduled to take place at the Auditorium tomorrow evening, when the freshmen of the University of Utah will attend the rink in a body. Many of the students have not mastered the mystery of the little wheels, but those who have accomplished that feat will indulge in races and fancy skating, and the others will have a chance to learn.
