Mrs. Cornelia Clayton is here from Provo in the interest of the Young Woman's Journal and the Y. L. M. I. A., accompanied by Mrs. Annie Dally of Summit, the president of the Y. L. M. I. A. of the Stake. Enjoyable meetings were held with the Y. L. M. I. A. and Relief Society, finishing with a social held in the meeting house in honor of the visiting ladies, and a very pleasant evening was spent. Among the notable features of the evening was the rendition of a dia-logue from the Young Woman's Journal on Ethics, by a class of the young peo-ple under the supervision of Mrs. E. C. Watson, the rendition of a duet by Mrs. Joseph F. McGregor and Mrs. Thoma Durham. Elder Thomas Adams and wife entertained with a duet in the Tonga tongue, and although not understood, the sweet voice of the young wife blending with the well modulated and deep tones of her husband, made sweet melody, and carried a spirit with it that told of the sacrifice the singers had made in behalf of the dark skinned race far away out among the islands of the Pacific. The remarks of Bishop Adams wer instructive in their nature, impressing upon the youth the necessity of the at-tainment of all that is great and good, was listened to with marked attention. Refreshments were passed and after more singing and recitation by the local celebrities the meeting adjourned. INTERMENT OF MRS. HORSLEY.

Fairview, Uinta Co., Wyo., Jan. 19 .-We have had a very mild winter here in Star Valley. Some rain, with scarcely snow enough to run sleighs. We have had some deaths in the val-ley, and the measles prevail in some districts.

On December 20th last, the family of William M. Allred held a grand reunion. Besides the patriarch and his wife there were sixty-seven of his direct descendants present. He was 80 years old on December 24, and has now living ten children, 73 grand children, and 38 great-grandchildren to revere his memory. At the reunion a fine repast was enjoyed by all present and an interesting program was rendered. In his clos-ing remarks Father Allred said he was proud of his posterity, every one be-ing a faithful member of the Church. In the evening the people of the ward joined the family in honoring the much respected veteran. A program of songs, recitations, felicitous speeches, and dancing was indulged in till a late hour.
