THIRD MUNICIPAL WARD.

The Sixteenth Ward schoolhouse was the place of meeting. Hon. Elias A. Smith was made chairman, Eli A. Folland secretary, and John Alford chaplain.

On motion the 24 Delegates which the municipal ward was entitled to were allotted as follows: Sixteenth Ward, 7; Seventeenth Ward, 6; Nineteenth Ward, 6; Twenty-second Ward 5.

The meeting took a recess upon an agreement that the four wards caucus for their delegates.

FOURTH MUNICIPAL WARD.

At the Twentieth Ward, the schoolhouse could not be used, as the janitor could not be found. Bishop Romney tendered the use of the meeting house, which was accepted.

Hon. John T. Caine was elected chairman, H. J. Foulger secretary, O. F. Whitney chaplain, and Wm. G. Phillips sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Caine stated the object of the Municipal Convention, to which this primary was to elect 16 delegates. The approaching municipal election was the most important of any yet held in this city, and the Municipal Central Committee asked that their number be increased and a reorganization be effected; also that a policy and line of operations for the party in municipal affairs be clearly outlined. For this purpose the delegates should be carefully selected.

A motion was made by Hon. F. S. Richards that five delegates be selected from each school district, and one at large. He urged the necessity of energetic and prompt action in the approaching campaign, and as he believed the People's Party had a considerable majority of honest voters in the city, if the party would work effectively there was no doubt of victory. The motion was carried.

A recess was taken for the residents of each ward to hold a caucus and select delegates. Upon reconvening, the election of delegates was proceeded with, resulting as follows:

Eighteenth Ward—F. S. Richards, T. G. Webber, Richard W. Young, Frank W. Jennings, Heber M. Wells.

Twentieth Ward—James Sharp, B. Y. Hampton, D. L. Murdock, Edgar Howe, H. J. Romney.

Twenty-first Ward—M. S. Woolley, James Maxwell, Wm. J. Tuddenham, Thos. Goodman, Josiah Burrows.

Alternates—Robert Patrick, M. E. Cummings, Oliver Hodgson, D. R. Lyon, Joseph W. Maynes, J. Barton.

M. S. Woolley nominated J. Fewson Smith, Esq., for delegate at large. He referred to Mr. Smith's abilities and energy, and presented his name as that of the most popular man in the ward.

James Sharp nominated Hon. John T. Caine. F. S. Richards seconded the latter, and while he conceded Mr. Smith's capability and popularity, thought Mr. Caine was equally able and popular.

Mr. Woolley withdrew the name of Mr. Smith, giving as his reason that the Eighteenth and Twentieth Wards had combined in favor of Mr. Caine.

The election of Mr. Caine was by unanimous vote.

Hon. John W. Young was present, and responded to calls for a speech. He referred to the past administration of municipal affairs on the part of those who had made this once desert place to blossom as the rose, and made it the most desirable place in the United States for residence, who had kept taxes down to five mills on the dollar, the lowest of any city in the land; and who have given to the people a government of peace and good order such as was not equalled in any other part of the nation. This was accomplished by the People's Party; not by those who sought to deprive the people of their liberties, or who came here to speculate in land. The People's Party had labored conscientiously and effectively for the general good. He did not wish to say that no mistakes had been made, for he believed there had been a few. One of these he thought had been the laying of water mains in the centre of town, without local taxation, and taxing for them in the outside districts; but this mistake had been discovered and remedied. He believed the coming convention should define a vigorous policy on the water question, so that there would be no misunderstanding as to the platform on which the City Council would stand when elected. He also thought the railroad question should receive proper consideration, and an equitable arrangement be made between the railroads for the public welfare.

Upon a request for any instructions that members might have for delegates, Mr. Gunn said he thought the city government should know no distinctions of districts in regard to the water question. He wanted no prior rights, no dry bench, but all to be Salt Lake City.

FIFTH MUNICIPAL WARD.

At the meeting in the City Hall, Hon. E. G. Woolley was called to the chair.

Delegates were elected as follows:

Eleventh Ward—O. A. Woolley, Willard Done, S. Kershaw, Francis Armstrong, H. A. Tuckett.

Twelfth Ward—T. A. Williams, Louis Hook, J. D. Lyon, Martin Lenzi.

Thirteenth Ward—H. A. Woolley, H. J. Grant, D. S. Spencer, J. C. Jensen.

Alternates—Arthur Stayner, E. G. Woolley, Alonzo Young.

Spirited speeches were made by Messrs. H. J. Grant, Arthur Stayner, E. G. Woolley, Francis Armstrong, W. M. Stewart, W. Done and H. G. Park, urging united and energetic action to preserve the municipal government of the city in the hands of the party which would operate for the welfare of the whole people.

HOW TO GET A GOOD SLEEP.

"Blessed be the man who invented sleep," exclaimed Sancho Panza, philosophical squire of the redoubtable Don Quixote. And no one appreciates this so much as the unfortunate individual afflicted with insomnia.

A remedy for sleeplessness should be known by every one, since there is nothing which will so soon wear out the entire system as being unable to sleep soundly. "Sleep knits up the raveled sleeve of care," said Macbeth. This was a philosophy born of his own experience, since his conscience made sleep a stranger to his eyelids, and he was verging on madness. We have all felt, at some time or other, the truthfulness of Young's thought that sleep, "tired nature's sweet restorer," was like the rich, "his ready visit pays where fortune smiles," while he "flies from woe and lights on lids unsullied with a tear."

Sleeplessness is dangerous. It will prevent the rebuilding of the body after sickness, and will waste away
