Building That Has Been Used for East
Side High School Into the Grammar
Courses Once More.

The matter of relieving the overcrowded condition which will exist in some of the school buildings of the city this year was discussed by the board of education at its meeting yesterday afternoon and the trouble was overcome at least so far as some of the districts are concerned. The Uintah district is causing the most trouble as the building had to be closed on account of its close proximity to the new railroad. The committee on buildings and grounds was given power to act in the matter of securing quarters for the pupils of that district and has already closed a deal for the Baptist church on Eighth South just west of the Jordan river, which will accommodate 100 of them. The other pupils will have to attend the Riverside school.

In order to relieve the situation at the Riverside school the committee has secured the Methodist church on Eighth West near Fourth South street, which will receive lower grade pupils from both the Riverside and Franklin schools. Another room has been secured across the river on Fourth South which will care for some of the first and second grade pupils of the Franklin. The opening of the new Lake Breeze school will also help matters in the southwestern part of the city. The opening of the Bryant school as a grade school instead of a high school will relieve the crowded condition of the Wasatch, Ogden and Lowell schools. These new rooms have been added to the Hamilton school, which will give relief to the Summit, Grant and Emerson schools. The pupils of the Whittier school, which has been sold, will be distributed among the Fremont, Lincoln, Grant and Ogden schools. The condition of the Fremont school will be relieved by sending some of its pupils to the Lafayette and Union schools.

The resolution of a sewing department in the high school at a cost not to exceed $1,200 per annum was adopted after some little argument. The

GIRL'S AWFUL FATE.

Frightened by Yellowstone Geyser She Falls Into a Boiling Spring.

A dispatch from Livingston, Mont., yesterday says: By the sudden freak of a geyser, Miss Fannie Wickes was so frightened that she jumped backward and into a boiling spring in Yellowstone National park, sustaining fearful injuries, from which she died here today.

Miss Wickes, with her brother, Frank Wickes, both of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. D. L. Hawes of Baltimore, were guests of the Fountain house and were about to begin a tour of the park. They had just finished an inspection of "Old Faithful," the noted geyser, when they went to observe some of the smaller ones.

They were standing well outside the rim of the basin made by the water, when a sudden spurt of the geyser caused some hot drops to fall on Miss Wickes. She sprang backward suddenly and stumbling, rolled into a boiling spring. She landed in the spring feet first and the water was up to her waist. Her body was boiled from the waist down and her agony was terrible. Screams of the injured girl and her brother brought the soldiers, who hurried her to the hotel. The Yellowstone Park Excursion company arranged for quick transportation to Cinnabar, whence she was brought here for treatment. Despite her awful injuries she lived hours, during most of the time she was kept unconscious by opiates, as from the first it was known she could not recover.

Miss Wickes was 20 years of age, and is said to be well known at the national capital.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. of the "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. Price 50c.

AT THE FORT.

Changes in the Official Role of Men at The Post—Back From Strawberry.

First Lieut. Paul C. Galtier, Twenty-ninth Infantry, battalion adjutant at Fort DuChesne, has been ordered for duty at Fort Douglas. The lieutenant was captain in the First Kentucky volunteers, and in the Thirtieth Infantry, during the Spanish war, and was appointed to the regular service in 1901. His place at DuChesne is taken by First Lieut. Albert B. Sloan of H company, same regiment, and who was a cadet at Annapolis for nearly three years. Lieut. Sloan was captain in the Sixth Missouri Infantry, and afterward a captain in the Twenty-seventh U. S. Infantry, during the Spanish war.

First Lieut. Robert O. Patterson of L company, Twenty-ninth Infantry, will report to Brig. Gen. McCaskey at Denver, for retirement, on the 11th inst., as he has consumption, and will be sent to Fort Bayard, N. M., for treatment.

First Lieut. George R. Greene of the artillery corps has been transferred from Fort Douglas to the One Hundred and Twentieth heavy battery at Fort Sill, Okla. This officer has the reputation at the post of being the most rigid officer there in requiring the regulation salute from enlisted men.

Companies F and L of the Twenty-ninth Infantry returned last evening from the Strawberry valley, and were given a great reception. They were escorted to their barracks from the city limits by the band.

SHOT THE BEAR DEAD.

How One Summit Commissioner Saved
The Life of Another.

The county commissioners returned Friday from a trip in the mountains near the Wyoming line, where they went to lay out a road over which the sheep that summer on the Uintah Forest Reserve may go, says the Coalville Times. A large number of sheep in this country, in being driven to the reserve have to cross a corner of the state of Wyoming. That state imposes a tax of three cents per head on sheep coming in there, and it is for the purpose of dodging that tax that the commissioners are planning a road that will reach the reserve without traversing the territory of our neighboring state.

While in the discharge of this duty, Commissioner Puskett had a narrow escape from a death grapple with a bear. While he and John Callis were hunting their horses, preparatory to moving camp, it was necessary to go through some pretty thick timber. Mr. Puskett came to a large tree that had been blown down by the storm. He was in the act of climbing over it, when suddenly from the other side of the tree right on his haunches rose a large grizzly bear. Mr. Puskett, who was unarmed threw up his arms to scare the bear and shouted "here's a bear." Bruin didn't seem worth a cent, but he proceeded to cultivate a closer acquaintance with the commissioner and was within five feet of him. Mr. Callis, who was about 20 feet away, saw the commissioner's perilous position. With commendable coolness and presence of mind he instantly leveled his rifle and with unerring aim brought him down at the first shot. But for the prompt and effective action of Mr. Callis the county commissioner would doubtless have been undergoing repairs from the results of an encounter with a bear whose little paw adorns his parlor floor.

A RESEMBLANCE

Jacob Rills, the sociologist, in an address to a workmen's club, praised generally.

"I see a handful of children here," he said. "May they grow up generous. May none of them grow up into such a man as an old banker whom I knew."

"He is a millionaire banker, and his life in a palace, but his heart is as hard as steel and as cold as ice. One of his men completed the other day, his twenty-fifth year of service. For twenty-five years this honest man had worked for the banker faithfully. He and his chief were both poor at the beginning, but where, in quarter century, the banker has accumulated millions, the faithful, middle-aged book-keeper has accumulated only a few hundreds. His salary, you see, was only $25 a week."

"He didn't think the banker would remember the twenty-fifth anniversary of his engagement, but the old man did. That morning he handed the book-keeper a sealed envelope."

"George," he said, today ends the twenty-fifth year of your wedded life, and you have worked steadily and well. In this envelope is a memento of the occasion."

"The book-keeper opened the envelope, treasured and eager. Within lay his employer's photograph. That was all."

"In the face of a disappointment so bitter the poor fellow could say nothing. He asked the banker, 'What do you think of it?'"

"It's just like you," said the book-keeper simply."

FRIENDS ADVISED US TO TRY PE-RU-NA.

We Tried It and Found It All That Is Claimed For It.

MR. GEORGE LIVINGSTON MR. HENRY C. SHOOP MR. WM. ENGEL

Long and Distressing Catarrhal Trouble Relieved By Pe-ru-na —The Tonic That Cannot Be Surpassed.

Mr. George Livingston, a prominent architect and builder of Los Angeles, Cal., writes from the Census Office Building, Washington, D. C., as follows: "I do not hesitate, when I see a friend of acquaintance suffering from a cold that is stubborn and threatening to become chronic, to recommend Peruna."

"It relieved me from a long and distressing catarrhal trouble and brought back the strength the disease had taken away."

"I recommend it as a cure and a tonic that cannot be surpassed."

PERSONAL RECOMMENDATIONS BETTER THAN ADVERTISING.

How often we hear and read the expression, "A friend advised me to try Peruna." I tried it and found it to be exactly what I was looking for."

At least ten times as many people have taken Peruna because a friend advised them to do so as have taken it because they saw it advertised.

Advertisements, however attractive they may be made, cause only a small per cent. of the sales of Peruna.

It is the advice which friend gives to friend which sells Peruna.

Peruna cures one person of some phase of chronic catarrh, and because of this cure a dozen other people are induced to take Peruna.

Attention Called to Pe-ru-na.
Max J. Forges, Alderman of the 5th District, 36 Livingston street, New York City, writes:

"Peruna is a national blessing."

"My attention was called to it this fall when I had la grippe. Two bottles made a new man of me."

Lungs in Bad Condition—Liver and Kidneys Diseased—No Relief From the Doctor —Pe-ru-na Cures.

Mr. Wm. Engel, 235 Mortimer street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Through carelessness a few years ago I found that my lungs were in a bad condition, and my liver and kidneys diseased."

"I doctored, but received no relief. A friend advised me to try Peruna."

"I sent for a bottle and soon derived great benefit from its use."

"My entire system was rejuvenated, and I felt ten years younger."

"I am most grateful for this valuable remedy, Peruna."

THOUSANDS OF UNPUBLISHED TESTIMONIALS ON FILE.

No other remedy in the world has received such a volume of unstinted testimony.

While we have thousands of testimonials that we can never publish, yet the written testimonials are as nothing in comparison with that spoken every day by friend to friend and neighbor to neighbor.

This is what makes Peruna so popular. The people try it and find that it cures them.

Then they recommend it to others and others try it, and so the work goes on. If all advertising of Peruna were stopped, the sales of Peruna would doubtless continue for a generation or two because of its intrinsic value.

A Friend Recommended Pe-ru-na.

Mr. John C. Thomas, Harewood, W. Va., writes:

"I had been troubled with chronic catarrh. A friend recommended your medicine to me, and thanks to his wise recommendation, I am now cured."
