

BREVITIES.

Male modistes are the thing now in New York.

The more polished the society is, the less formality there is in it.

Benson, a thorough Yankee, has been elected Mayor of Yokohama, Japan.

There are said to be 250,000 seeds of red clover in a pound.

One of Landseer's pictures lately sold at auction in London for £20,000.

The New York servant girls have given $30,000 to the Pope.

Reason is the flower of the spirit, and its fragrance is liberty and knowledge.

A boy twelve years old died in Cincinnati recently, from the bite of a spider.

The young ladies down east complain that the gentlemen are so poor that they can't "pay their addresses."

Jesh Billings says there is no such thing as inheriting virtue; money, and titles, and fever sores can be inherited.

Ladies show ornament their note paper with small photographs of themselves—the fashion to supersede monograms.

A workman in Antwerp recently bet that he could eat three hundred raw mussels. He died, and was buried two days afterward.

An Edinburgh paper says: "We regret to find that the announcement of the death of Mr. W. is a malicious fabrication."

A comic paper in Spain was recently seized because it glorified "thin women." It was taken as a slur upon her portly Majesty.

A bashful printer refused a situation in a printing office, where females were employed, saying he never "set up" with a girl in his life.

Ladies will be unable—so says a delighted milliner—to make their own bonnets this winter, the fashion being odd and impossible for an amateur to imitate.

A London letter-carrier, with children and a sick wife to support on nine shillings a week, stole twelve postage stamps from a letter, and has been sent to prison for five years.

Don't suppose that, because you wear like a teamster, your language is proportionably strong. Pepper may add a little snap, but it gives no strength to the food.

A bombshell was recently exploded by some malicious person in an Austrian church during religious service. The guilty person has been arrested.

A Maine farmer fattened a cow mainly on turnips, and the result surpassed expectation. The beef was good, and the tallow unexpectedly abundant.

It is noticeable that the leaders in the present Spanish revolution are men like Prim, Espartero and Serrano, who have received the highest honors from the Government against which they have rebelled.

Olive Logan, having looked in on John Allen, thinks that from his personal appearance no one would choose him as prominent for wickedness from an average Plymouth church congregation.

A little girl in one of the public schools being asked in the course of her geography lesson, what a waterfall was, replied that it was hair wrapped around her dad's old stocking.

"Well madam, how is your husband, to-day?"

"Why, doctor, he seems no better."

"Did you get the leeches?"

"Yes, but he only took three of them raw; I had to fry the rest."

Mr. Melvin Smith, of Richford, Vermont, keeps a cow from which he made 138 pounds of butter between the 5th of May and the 1st of September, and sold 252 quarts of milk, besides the milk used in his family. He has milked 52 pounds of milk in one day from her.

"I will not strike thee, bad man?" said a Quaker, one day, "but I will let this billet of wood fall on thee; and at that precise moment the 'bad man' was floored by the weight of his walking-stick that the Quaker was known to carry.

The restaurant proprietors of Paris lately convened a meeting to establish the uniform price of oysters for the winter season, and after much discussion fixed the rate at one franc ten centimes or about twenty-two cents a dozen.

A roller boy of a printing office summoned his employer for five dollars due him for his labor. The judge decided for the plaintiff on authority older than anything to be found in Coke or Blackstone, on the well recognized maxim that "the devil should have his due."

The latest story of a Paris porter is this:

A gentleman, coming home from the theatre a few nights since, was astonished to find the street door ajar. He entered, and what should he see but his porter and wife, with cork boots under their arms, paddling about in the stone reservoir which supplies the house with water! He became so sick at the stomach he could say nothing for some time; at last he exclaimed, in a tone of indignation:

"What! are you so infamous as to wash yourselves in the water we have to drink?"

"Good gracious! what of that?" replied the porter; "we have been bathing here every night this summer. Has not your water been just as good as ever? Don't hundreds of people bathe in the Seine, and is not that water the drink of half Paris?" The tenant gave notice to quit next morning, and is now looking out for a house without a reservoir.
