

NORMAL SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The New Dispensary Inaugurated Yesterday in Provo.

John Robert News.

Provo, Nov. 14.—The Normal Sunday school, under the organization of which by the General Superintendent of the Sunday School Union, has already appeared in the News, was inaugurated today in the Brigham Young Academy.

The rooms were well warmed and ventilated by the superior warm-air system of heating, and everything was clean, commodious and comfortable. The congregation, composed of children, normal students, Sunday school teachers, visitors, the members of the faculty, and Sunday school authorities, assembled in room 4, and at 10 o'clock were called to order by the venerable Benjamin Cluff, Jr.

On the stand were Elders George Goldsboro and George Haymond, of the General Board of the Desert Sunday School Union, President A. O. Snow and Bishop J. E. Booth, of the General Board of Education, the members of the faculty, and a few prominent visitors. Copies of the Sunday school Union song book were distributed and the opening lesson, "Beautiful Zion," was read.

Elder Haymond opened with prayer, invoking the blessings of heaven upon this "new departure."

"Did you think to pray," was then sung, and Bishop Cluff, after a song, gave the following outline of the work assigned in this department of the academy:

- The school is divided into three grades, viz.—a Primary, an Intermediate and a Higher. Over each grade there will be placed a head teacher, and as many assistants chosen as may be necessary, the design being not to give more than about ten pupils to one teacher.
- Normal students will be present at the recitations of the classes as observers of the methods of teaching, and these in their turn will be chosen to conduct classes (Here the various recitations were divided into classes of observers for each grade.)
- Each grade will have three classes of classes as follows:

- PRIMARY.
- (a) Stories from the Bible with charts.
- (b) Stories from Book of Mormon with charts.
- (c) The Primary Lessons.

- INTERMEDIATE.
- (a) Readings from the Old and New Testaments.
- (b) Reading from the Book of Mormon with dictionary.
- (c) Study of Lessons.

- HIGHER.
- (a) A Study of Principles as arranged in Chapters.
- (b) Reading of Great Events and similar works.
- (c) Normal Instruction. Theory of Teaching assigned to Sunday School work.

Following are officers: Superintendent, Geo. H. Brimhall. Assistant Superintendent, H. E. Giles. Head teachers, Higher Grade, N. L. Nelson; Intermediate Grade, Walter M. Waller; Primary Grade, Mary E. Waller. Librarian, Edward Holt.

The daily program will be as follows: 7:30-10:15—Lecture on Teaching. 10:15-11:30—Intermediate. 11:30-12:15—Opening exercises and administration of the sacrament. 12:15-1:45—Class exercises in the various rooms.

1:45-2:15—Closing exercises. Brother Cluff announced that the musical director would appear every Sunday ten minutes in each grade in teaching songs appropriate to the age of pupils. Singing would be specially emphasized.

The last remark pleased Sup't. Cluff, who now arose to address the meeting. He had been a teacher in the Provo Academy for many years, and his position could be held by any man or woman that of teacher and especially teacher in a Sunday school. Weighty words had been furnished in the past with inadequate facilities. What might be hoped for in the future, now that he had lived to witness the inauguration of a school, especially for the training of Sunday school teachers, he congratulated the young people before him and asked God's blessing on the new movement.

Brother Cluff was brimming over with the joy of being a Latter-day Saint, and an usual did not fail to commend his happiness to others.

Brother Cluff stated that this movement had the fullest approval and support of the general authorities, and much would be expected from this school in its development and harmonizing the work throughout Zion.

President Snow declared that no greater work of this kind had been at hand in the past, and he was confident that it would be a great blessing to Zion.

"Brother Cluff has just told me," began Elder James E. Talmage, "that President Brigham Young, wishing to begin an important house industry, called him from the position of leading teacher in this city, to the humiliating office of papering the parlor, the library, and I think did well to do it. If the office did not confer honor on him, he conferred honor on the office. God has thus rewarded him for his position. He now holds it. I cannot help thinking that Brother Cluff's expectation of a parallel in the case of early Sunday school teachers as compared with the present or at least future teachers in this great cause. Twenty-five years ago, a teacher in a Sabbath school, it was generally thought, was conferred honor on the office. I distinctly remember how President Smith wished to elevate this popular feeling, connected in addition to his numerous other duties, to become our superior. Since then what a stride forward we have taken. No man can now be in the estimation of the people a teacher in any office in a Sunday school. At any rate it is not fully true today, it will be when such schools as the one opened here today shall have had their full influence."

Superintendent M. H. Hardy, of the M. I. Association, pledged it to give all the support in his power, and the continuance of all present teachers back the worthy sentiment. The grades now went to the various rooms for class organization and informal instructions. On reassembling many other good things were said, but enough has been reported to convey the general spirit, purpose and prospects of this new organization.

Plugging the Diamond in India.

In India diamonds are found in alluvial workings and in the interior of the country. So far diamonds have been found in the upper and lower Indian rivers. The country is a mass of shales, sandstones and conglomerates, cut up and marked with intricate tracings. A species of conglomerate made up of what looks like little boulders, with collated pebbles of quartz, sandstone, granite and gneiss, is the matrix in which the diamond is found.

When exposed to the action of the weather, as in shallow workings, the conglomerate is of a rusty brown color and very friable, so that it can be readily broken and the stones washed away, leaving the pebbles, which are of a white, red, blue and green color. A lot of gangue yields about a quarter of a percent, and it takes this gangue of diamonds is recovered, the mine is considered worth working.

Overlying the diamond conglomerate are beds of hard sandstone and granite, which have to be cut through before the diamond gangue is met. In the dry season the gangue is extremely hard and tough and if a greenish color. It requires a good deal of water to get the gangue soft and to get the diamonds out. The water is used to get the gangue soft and to get the diamonds out. The water is used to get the gangue soft and to get the diamonds out.

All attempts to work the diamond without destroying the conglomerate have been failures, and water in the long delay before the results are known, the active efforts work the conglomerate in the dry season, which is a very dry season, and the results are known, the active efforts work the conglomerate in the dry season, which is a very dry season, and the results are known.
