Elocution .- Prof. S. S. Hamill and Miss Whipple give readings at Pleasant Grove to-night. The professor is doing all the towns in Utah County. Classes will be taught elocution in a number of places by the gentleman and lady.

Indictments at Provo.-Two indictments each have been found in the First District Court at Provo against R. C. Kirkwood and N. H. Groesbeck, the former a resident of Provo, the latter of Springville.

First Company .- The first comson will leave Liverpool on the steamship Nevada, which sails on the 17th of April next. The following fares have

Through fares from Liverpool to to Salt Lake, Ogden or Provo, $53,75; from Copenhagen to any of the above named points, $56.25; half rates for children over 5 and under 12 years of age; under 5 years half of sea fare only. Infants under 1

Sea fares from Liverpool, $18.75; from Copenhagen, $21.25. Railroad

The fares quoted are for members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-speakers were Elders John Nicholson and George Romney and Bishops H. B. Clawson and Wm. Thorn. The first three having been companions with BrotherDinwoodey in the incarceration which he has lately been enduring for conscience sake, were able to fully enter into his feeling at the sad event which had overtaken him in the death of his wife. Brother Dinwoodey was present, having been permitted to come out of the penitentiary this morning to attend the funeral. The remarks made on the occasion were all very appropriate and highly instructive as well as encouraging. The cortege which followed the remains to the grave was one of the largest which eye have witnessed in a long time.

Pleasant Surprise .- Prof. George Careless was the recipient of a very pleasant surprise party last evening. Shortly after 8 o'clock he was taken mnawares by the sudden entrance into his room, Pendleton's Hall, of the members of the Careless Opera Company and their friends, about 150 in all. Piculc was furnished by the visitors, and the time was enjoyably spent in singing, dencing, stc. The relations of Prof. Careless with his opera company have been most amicable, not a jar having occurred during their long association together. A presentation of a handsome gold locket was made by the company to their conductor, the design on one side be-and Joha W. Lowell getting into a row and fight. After some quarreling the disputants clinched and fell through the glass door in front of the stairway Chief Justice Zane, who was sent to which leans to Dr. Higgins' office, and then they had a rough and tumble on the sidewalk for a short time before they could be separated by the bystanders. A good deal of rather rough language and rescrimination ensued, in which a brother of the doctor also took part, and finally the combatants apparated looking much the worse for the encounter. Mr. Lowell had his cheek

Chief Justice Zane, who was sent to Utah to administer justice to the people, gave vent to his bitter feelings in the following manner, which it will be well for all American citizens who differ form the Judge's religious views to note, as an example of the "instice" they may expect from one who exhibits such venom and has such a reckless disregard for truth:

The enthusiasm on this occasion far surpasses and the music far excels that to which I have been accustomed in the Third District Court. According to the civil serthe encounter. Mr. Lowell had his cheek cut open, probably by striking against the glass, and a gash was also cut in the back of the doctor's head. No the back of the doctor's head. No policeman appeared to be within halling distance at the time of the skir-mish, and no arrests were made.

Welhe's Penefit.-In response to the propos! A for Mr. Weihe, the leader of the Theatre orchestra, to bave a benefit, which was published some days since, and numerously signed by his friends, the gentleman sends us the following, with a request to publish it:

SALT LAKE CITY, March 23, 1886.

Your kind acknowledgment of my abilities by the endorsement of Dr. Benadict's letter, I hold in the very highest appreciation, and shall try my very utmost to deserve and always merit your favored indulgence. I have lour felt the necessity of having a fine violin, in order to do justice to my performances in public, and have accordingly parchased an instrument costing the sum of six hundred dollars. Hoping that this kind offer of yours will assist in paying for the same, I take pleasure in naming Friday, April 2nd, at the Salt Lake Theatre. I am, dear sirs, Yours most grateful some praise the gubernatorial nullifler and obstructionist. The "Liberals" were out in full force, a large number of ladies were present, and a very considerable proportion of the audience was composed of those who disapproved of the Governor's course, but attended out of carlosity. On the stage were the Fort Douglas band (who during the evening discoursed some fine music), Judge Zane, C. W. Bennett, W. F. James, W. S. Godbe, Arthur Pratt, H. W. Lawrence, C. S. Varian, Marshal Ireland, Isadore Morris, W. M. Ferry, Ransford Smith, W. P. Noble, C. P. Mason, Rev. Mr. Jackson, Rev. T. C. Iliff, and a few others.

H. W. Lawrence called the meeting to order and nominated Ransford Smith for chairman. He was elected, ing Company was finished to-day, and their being a few negative votes.

R. Smith took the chair, and in a rasping voice said he would not have the meeting unanimous, and asked for a secretary. Adam Patterson The chairman then stated that the object of the meeting was to honor the Governor who had served so faithfully during the last six years, and especially during the last 90 days. Those present had assembled without reference to past party affiliations, but as Gento past party amilations, but as Gentiles, to express their approval of the course of the Governor, who had struck the first effective blow at the "Mormons," and while he bade adleu to the office he had held, those present would move forward where he had led. The speaker then asked for a committee of five on resolutions.

At this request an echo came from

W. F. James that the chair appoint the committee to carry in the cut and dried resolutions, and the following were named: H. W. Lawrence, W. M. Ferry, J. M. Goodwin, C. S. Varian and W. S. Godbe. The committee quickly hied themselves outside, and after they had gone the chairman, in an absent-minded way, gave them permission to retire. Judge C. W. Bennett was the first speaker. He made a short speech, despeaker. He made a short speech, de-claring that American government was at a discount in Utah, and maligning the majority by charging that they were not loyal to their country. He eulog-ized Governor Murray, and strongly approved of sending R. N. Baskin to Washington to secure further adverse legislation against the "Mormon" peo-

WHEREAS, The following letter of resignation of Governor Eli H. Murray has been forwarded to His Excellency, the President of the United States, namely: "TERRITORY OF UTAH

"I hereby tender my resignation of the office of Governor of the Territory of Utah, successor. In common with every citizen who is in sympathy with the Constitution and the enforcement of the laws in Utah, and the enforcement of the laws in Utah, I am thankful for your utterances in support of them, and am not unmindful of the consideration implied by my retention in office since the incoming of your administration, at which time I placed my resignation at your disposal. I had heretofore placed my resignation in the hands of Hon. R. N. Baskin, who was elected to represent the non-Mormons of Utah, and who will place this in your hands. With the earnest hope that you will give to us a Governor who will see that the laws are in good faith executed and do his utmost to secare, and to further extend good government in Utah. to further extend good government in Utali, in the establishment of which I have given over six years of faithful service.

speak, but his attention was called by W. M. Ferry, who, after a whispered consultation with the chairman, pro-ceeded to address the audience. He first referred to a St. Patrick's Day pa-rade had in Pittsburg, then turned to his acquaintance with the Governor before the latter came to Utah. In a long and rambling speech (of which the audience were tired, many remarking that his struggle for the Marshalship was having a bad effect on him) he en deayored to explain that the President had cogent reasons for removing Murray, and asked, "What are you going to do about it?" Nobody seemed to have an answer, and the speaker advanced the proposition that the expressed will of the President was the pressed will of the President was the end of all controversy. He bedaubed the Governor over for his "heroic" conduct, and effered a sop to President Cleveland, to the effect that he who had gone through "the turmoil of of Buffalo, and the agony and iniquity of New York," would not be stalled by the situation in Utah. He declared that the Governor's successor would be his equal in "courage," and exclaimed that "at Fort Douglas the martial isw lies slumbering for any emergency!" He thought there was just as good men in

caused on Main Street near the Clift House this afternoon by Dr. Higgins and John W. Lowell setting into a row and sept. After some quarreling the of Latter day Saints. I call it a government because it assumes to discharge the functions of a government. There is a republic on this continent, and we say that it expresses the sentiments, moral convictions and will of more than fifty millions of people. In obedience to the will of the people a law has been passed by their servants and agents declaring that polygamy is wrong. But this church government says it is right, and says that its followers, or a portion of them, must practice it. When we tell them that he laws of the United States against it emanate from the sovereignty of a free people, they say that their law was communicated yours ago to Joseph Smith. And when we sell them that Joseph Smith cannot prove that that law was communicated to him, and that it looks a little strange that the Infinite Author of all things, after remaining silent 1800 years, should communicates to one man that polygamy is right, and that it must be practiced, and when we tell them that it looks to us CRURCH OF JESUS CHRIST

ABSURD THAT THAT INFINITE SOURCE of all should communicate in this way anything that the great mass of humanity would not believe in, they say that it was communicated to Joseph Smith, and that all must believe it, particularly the women, whether they can or not, or they must be damned forever. Fellow citizens! We have asembled this evening to honor, and approve the conduct of a wise, a brave, and a patrictic man. We have met to approve the sots of a man who came to this Territory with a conscience and a courage that had been

of the late war. A man who has shown the courage of his convictions at every step since he appeared in this Territory. A man who does't carry his conscience in his pocket—for I tell you that is a poor place for officers or statesmen to carry their consciences. It leads them into crooked and devious paths and imakes them turn sharp corners. The man to whom Colonel Ferry has referred in such glowing terms, though at the noonday of life and looking toward the setting sun, if his official life should close to day, has done more than the great mass of men who have filled public office during a long lifetime. But few men have accomplished so much at the end of three score years. When the late war broke out, and a portion of the American people determined to lay the foundation of a Confederacy upon the corner stone of human slavery, this brave man was in a State which belonged to that section, where the influential and leading men who surrounded him went with their section. But the beardless boy, who leved the society in which he lived, who loved his friends—for he is a man with a big heart, as you all know. But he said I must go with the Constitution and laws of my country. I must stand by the principles announced in the Declaration of Independence, all men are created equal;

are created equal; ALL GOVERNMENTS DERIVE THEIR JUST POWERS FROM THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED.

He unsheathed his sword and went forth to battle, while the enemies of free government all over the world, predicted that the government was drooping to a fatal decay, that it was going to pieces upon the rock of disunion. But he endured the danger and hardships of the war for his country, and saw the flag come forth victorious and tripmulant.

When he came to this Territory he found the government to which I have referred assuming that everything must be done according to counsel. He limited to take it. He had too much respect for the law of his country. He had too much respect for that great institution, the INSTITUTION OF MONOGAMIC MARRIAGE. and the family that grows out of it, upon which the weifare, the happiness and the progress of humanity rest. He found in this country a law, stating that no polygamist could hold any office; he found a man representing this Territory in Congress that everybody knew had four or five wives, and who was elected according to counsel; the Governor said he was not elected, and he has stuck to it ever since. As a sample of the "truthfulness" of this, it will do to state that I no law disfranchising polygamists und then been enacted.] And this vast audience is here to night doing honor to him, while the man with whom he had the controversy is a fugitive from justice, an exile (as I presume) in a foreign land. And the great Seer and Revelator, who has the ear of the Infinite God, is somewhere—if God made him, he probably knows—and I presume he did, for he has all the appearances of a human being. And Governor said he was not elected, and he the appearances of a human being. And all this for what? Simply because they will not say they will obey the laws of their country. They admit they will fully violate them, and say they will not obey them in the future. If they would come forward,

PROMISE TO OBEY THE LAWS good faith, and advise their followers it, that would be the end of it. do it, that would be the end of it.

The gentleman who preceded me suggested the thought that whoever may tollow Governor Murray will find the impress of a brave man who has gone before him. He came here when there were some good, brave men, but when most of them were afraid to speak, without counsel. They were blowing hot and cold. They had their consciences in their pockets, and were endeavoring to sall between wind and water. He tenders back his commission to the President of the United States, with the office which he has never diagraced or dishonored. He tenders it back to be sure, with

LESS MONEY IN HIS POCKET han he had when he came here; but he has than he had when he came here; but he has the richest of all consolations, the conviction that he acted in obedience to the dictates of right. The approval of a man's own conscience is the richest of all earthly rewards, and he accomplishes more by even laying down his life for a sound principle than he who skulks through a lifetime trying to avoid responsibility. As I said before, Governor Murray has left his impress upon this country and its institutions, and has begun a work which somebody else will begun a work which somebody else will complete. And the day is coming when the world will see beneath our banner a united, a free, a liberty-loving and a law abiding people, even in Utah. And this man has accomplished that which cannot be compared to brass or marble, for rust may destroy the one and Time may crumble the other, but the man who has given to his country an honest, a patriotic and brave life, must live forever in the hearts of his countrymen. begun a work which somebody else wi

The next speaker was Rev. Mr. Jack-son, of Fort Douglas, whose wild, fanatical harangue was so full of the bitterness of an un-Christian spirit as to cause doubt that Mr. Jackson could ever have had the effrontery to nose as a disciple of Christianity. He related a silly story about being taken for a U. S. Marshal, and expressed his opinion that the present occasion was not Gov. Murray's funeral [and indeed we should be sorry if it was], but his apotheosis. be sorry if it was], but his apotheosis. While engaged in happropriate gestures and wild antics, he exclaimed "The spirit of prophecy is upon me!" and predicted the movement against the "Mormons" would be onward, "for" he said, "the President has said that Mormonism must be repressed." He thought the President would send some one to outdo Murray, and "prophesied" that a ameliorate the unhappy condition of our Territory.

Resolved, further, That we approve the action of a meeting the Walker House, Sait Lake City, on the 15th day of March, 1886, in appointing the Hon. h. N. Baskin as the representative of the nen-Mormons of Utah, 19 proceed to Washington and use his influence in procuring from Congress further needed legislation.

Resolved, further, That we approve the action of a meeting the Hon. h. N. Baskin as the representative of the colossal figure of Governor allso the colossal figure of Governor Murray, carved by a Dallin, or some other child of genius, when Utah would be emancipated from polygamy and church domination.

Several dispatches were read endorsing the Governor; also the resolutions passed in Ogden, a number of whose citizens came to the meeting last night. The resolutions reported by the "committee" were again read and put to vote, the chairman not venturing to ask for the negatives, and declaring them passed unanimously.

H. W. Lawrence concluded by making a few wishy-washy remarks about the Governor's excellent conduct, and do Murray, and "prophesied" that a monument would in future be built from the granite hills, and on it would stand the colossal figure of Governor Murray, carved by a Dallin, or some other child of genius, when Utah ing a few wishy-washy remarks about the Governor's excellent conduct, and reminding the audience that he was poor in this world's goods, [perhaps with a view to getting up a purse].

The meeting then adjourned, and an invitation was given to those present to visit the Governor's residence, which many availed themselves of, and where a general scene of jubilation ensued. Here again some speech-making was indulged in, and District Attorney Dickson, gave vent to some masty filings at the "Mormons," especially President Cannon, and gave Governor Murray credit for the success of the anti-"Morcredit for the success of the anti-"Mormon" crusade. This, however, was more than the Governor could stand; he had not been at the outpouring at the Opera House, and had thereby escaped the suffering, and when it came to begrime him, tas Mr. Dickson was doing, he objected, and shifted the responsibility on Messrs. Zane, Dickson and Ireland, and shortly afterwards the proceedings came to a close.
