KISNER ON TRIAL FOR BURGLARY.

Damaging Evidence Presented by Prosecution—A Tricky Criminal.

EDEN AGAINST NORTH OGDEN.

Arguments in Counter Attack—Attempted Suicide—Large Attendance at Schools—Wedding.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 12.—The case of the state against C. M. Kisner was commenced in the second district court yesterday afternoon before Judge Howell and a jury. Kisner is charged with burglary in the first degree, that of entering the store of George A. Lowe on the night of June 14, 1905, and stealing $400 in cash and jewelry, and a silver watch and a silver watch chain. The evidence presented by the prosecution was that Kisner, who is a native of the state of Ohio, was employed by Lowe as a helper in the store. On the night of June 14, 1905, Kisner entered the store and stole the goods mentioned in the indictment. The evidence was presented by the prosecution in the form of a narrative by the district attorney, who stated that Kisner was a native of the state of Ohio, and was employed by Lowe as a helper in the store. The great surprise of the trial came when Frank Schmidt, who is confined in the county jail awaiting trial on the charge of burglary, was called to the stand by the district attorney. He testified that he had met Kisner at the home of Harry Moss, a witness in the case. Schmidt testified that he had seen Kisner on the night of June 14, 1905, and that he had seen him enter the store of George A. Lowe. EDEN VS NORTH OGDEN.
Arguments heard by Judge Howell on Counter Attack—Under Adversement.
Judge J. A. Howell yesterday heard the arguments in the case of Francis C. Eden and others against the North Ogden Irrigation company and others and took the case under advisement. This is the phase of the dispute between Eden and North Ogden people over irrigation water that is known as the counter attack. The hearing came on the motion to dissolve the restraining order formerly made by Judge Armstrong, withholding the North Ogden people from cleaning out the channel of North Fork to permit the waters to run more readily to Ogden river and thence to North Ogden. Eden and his associate plaintiffs are interested in the Eden canal, the contention of the Eden people is that the water will not reach North Ogden even if they turn it down the channel, because it seeps into the adjoining soil and percolates through the gravelly bottom. They claim that the water will not reach North Ogden even if they turn it down the channel, because it seeps into the adjoining soil and percolates through the gravelly bottom. Provo, Utah, Sept. 12.—The expectation that there would be a large increase of students this year in the Brigham Young university appears to have been well founded. The students registered the first two days have far exceeded the number registered the first two days of any previous year. In addition to this there are many students in the city, who have not yet registered, and others are arriving daily, and will continue to do so through the week. Monday and yesterday were devoted to registration and assigning the students to their respective classes, and the movements of the students in this preliminary work presented an animated and inspiring picture of youth and hope prepared for earnest work. The establishment of a department of agriculture, under the direction of Dr. J. W. Williams, is a very attractive and beneficial addition to the curriculum, and a gratifyingly large

BUNCH FORCED TO DISGORGE.
The work of a confidence man traveling over the Rio Grande Western, last week, was rendered fruitless through the efforts of Sheriff Harmon and the energetic work of the passenger conductor on the train. The confidence man noticed a young fellow passenger admiring a watch he had just purchased and entered into conversation with the owner of the time piece. He found the young man was going to leave the train at Thistle, and that was also the place where the confidence man lived and where his father was a watch repairer. The watch needed some repairs and the smooth stranger would get his father to do it; but he needed $100 to get some express packages out of the express car when the train stopped, and he would just borrow this amount from the young man with the watch, he already had the watch to take to his father—and go into the city and get his packages and come out and both would go to his father's shop. This was satisfactory to the young man who had the watch, and the confidence man entered into the platform when the train reached Thistle to wait for the stranger who had gone after his express packages. The young man with the watch and money without his watch and money as the train pulled out, the stranger failed to join him. Sheriff Harmon was on the platform and to him the victim related his trouble. The result was that a telegram was sent to the conductor, requesting that he recover the watch and money. This he succeeded in doing and delivered them to the young man who in turn gave them to the confidence man, who will forward it to the young fellow who was lured.

CHILD NEARLY DROWNED.
A 3-year-old daughter of Mr. C. W. Porter had a narrow escape from death by drowning in the canal. Porter was visiting with her mother, Mrs. H. C. Smith, on Second East street and the child wandered away from the house. As soon as it was missed Mrs. Porter ran to the canal which runs by the house and looked up and down for the little one and was returning to the house when she saw a child playing in the canal and ran back and found the child caught in an obstruction to the canal. The child was taken out and resuscitated and is now doing nicely.

out around the Jarvis Field dam. The flood came within a foot of going over and entirely destroying the immense Washington Field dam. Animals and great trees were carried along by the torrent, and some of the farms were covered with water to a depth of several feet. The flood came so suddenly that farmers were unable to cross over the river to their homes in St. George, and so remained in the field over night. Benjamin Blake of St. George, in attempting to cross on horseback, was washed down the river about a block and barely escaped drowning. Last Wednesday small boys and mothers were the means of setting the stack yards of George B. Lang of this city on fire. But for the prompt response of many of our citizens, the loss would have been heavy. As it was a large stack of straw, which burned for about 24 hours, some corn fodder and a small stack of hay were consumed. Another haystack containing many tons of other valuable property were with vigilance saved from destruction. Notwithstanding the fire which started the fire is only 10 years old, this is the worst blaze he has ever had and for his own father's barn and stacks several years ago in which he came nearly losing his life.

A little life may be sacrificed to a sudden attack of cramp if you do not have Dr. Thompson's Electric Oil on hand for the emergency.
