COL. FREEMAN CONNOR DEAD.

Chicago, March 29,-Col. Freeman Connor, 70 years old, retired army offi-cer, living in Valperaiso, Ind., was found dead in Forty-third street early today. Apparently he had died from today. Apparently he had died from heart disease.

Behind such an army the militia or volunteer service of the country could very well be grouped, and association with have the best results in the training of militla soldiery. It will be remembered that Gen. Kent was commander of a division of the Seventh army corps that went to Cuba, and it was to his command that the and it was to his command that the New York Seventy-first regiment was assigned. The action of that regiment in lying down in the face of the enemy while the Sixteenth regulars actuall valked over them, is a matter ory, and when brought out in Gen Kent's report to the war departmeter created an intense sensation in M York City, where the newspapers hal been scattering printers' ink to the winds in "writing up" the exploits of "the gallant Seventy-first," were put to the blush. When the matter was referred to this noon, the general remarked that while it was all so, the regiment hardly deserved the odium that had been heaped upon it, and that one real-ly gallant officer, Captain Rafferty of company, rallied with his company and rushed to the front in the face of the enemy and amid the flying bullets. General Kent said that at the first bat-tle of Bull Run he noticed more than one regiment, in fact, pretty much all of the volunteers, fled before the Confederates, and that it was the regulars who held up the line of battle for the Union forces, and saved the volunteers utter rout. General Kent had sympa-thy for the Seventy-first, and called attention to the fact that troops who had acted in this way, at the outset, shortly afterwards often behaved with great bravery in the firing line. General Kent was a brave officer, and served his country with distinction both in the Civil and the Spanish wars. He graduated from West Point in 1861, and went to the front as a second lieuten-ant in the Third regular infantry. He was made a captain in 1864, a major of the Fourth regulars in 1885, lieutenantcolonel of the Eighteenth infantry, and became colonel of the Twenty-fourth Infantry in 1895. General Kent was a brigadier in 1898, and shortly nade hereafter a major-general of volun teers. He was retired in October of the same year. In 1864 while captain of regulars, he was made a brevet cold nel of volunteers for gallant conduct. Many Salt Lake friends are shaking hands with the old veteran today.

MITCHELL EXPLAINS OBJECT OF CONVENTION.

nay determine what action you may desire to take on the wage question. In the central competitive district, the operators have offered the present scale which was defeated by the miners, and a motion is pending in the joint conference, offered by myself, to restore the scale of 1903 for two years. "In the southwest district the dele gates have proposed a settlement on the basis of a restoration of the scale of 1903, with an advance of three cents ton in the mining scale at the basing points. A motion that the action of the scale committees be endorsed was adopted. A delegate asked how the scale of 1903, if adopted, would affect lilinois so far as the shot firers law was concerned. President Mitchell replied that it was his understanding that the miners would not walve their rights unde that law by agreeing to the 1903 scale

They are not, as not to exceed 2500 of these people in the mountain fastnesses. They are not, as commonly supposed, a race of themselves, but as explained by one of these army of-ficers, the Pulajanes are really only Visayans who have "gone wrong." In the opinion of army officers here it will be no easy task for Gov. Curry to subdue these Pulajanes because they are like the American Indians in the Bad Londs and are very much assisted by Lands and are very much assisted by their women who travel back and forth into the towns, bringing supplies of rice and other necessaries, despite the watch-fulness of the American troops and na-tive guards.

RUSSIAN MODERATES.

May Prove Salvation of Country Against Present Reaction.

Against Present Reaction. St. Petersburg, March 28.-M. Guchkoff, leader of the Moderate party in an inter-view published today, expressed the opin-ion that the Moderates will prove to be the salvation of the country against reac-tion. He believes the country and the gov-ernment are drifting towards a counter-revolution, but that the Moderates are now standing between the Left and Right parties, and that, by throwing their weight and influence against the reaction they will be able to preserve the balance. M. Guchkoff further declares that the peasants are an unknown factor so far M. Guenkon further declares that the peasants are an unknown factor so far as parliament is concerned. The priests, he says, are not reactionary and are like-ly to be more radical on the agrarian question than the Constitutional Demo-crats themselves. He fears the latter whom he considers to be simply recontinuitants. he considers to be simply revolutionists masquerading as Constitutionalists.

FOURTH UTAH VISIT.

Prof. Clark Has Given More Than Fifty Readings in Salt Lake.

Prof. S. H. Clark of the University of Chicago was meeting old friends here today, friends who were glad to welcome him back to Salt Lake which he has visited now for four successive years. During that time he has given nore than fifty readings and lectures n Barratt hall, and has learned much of Utah and its people as they have learned much from him. His lecture this afternoon which opens a series of four, brought out a fair sized audience among whom were a considerable number of literary students and writ-ers. The subject being 'The Beauties of Literature. Tonight, "Job" will he his subject and tomorrow afternoon Tennyson's "Lancelot and Elaine." In the evening he will close with the Bibllical romantic drama of "David." The author takes for his theme that period in the life of Israel's Shepherd king when he is first summoned to play before King Saul. The drama reveals the love of David for the king's laughter; then Saul's growing hatred of David; his flight into the mountains, pursued by the maddened Saul; the onflict in the heart of Michal, the ing's daughter, between duty to father and love for David. At last the terrible battle, the overthrow of Saul, the death of Jonathan, and the Ditch company are the oldest water users on the stream and own not less than 17-60 of the entire flow of the stream. This amount of water was awarded to the company by arbitration Was over 50 years ago and has been used since that time to irrigate about 2,500 acres of land. Of course the amount of water to which the company is en-titled varies according to the flow of the creek. In flood seasons it is a very large quantity and in low seasons naturally not near an much naturally not near as much. The Big Cottonwood Lower Canal company, he said, owns 6-60 of the flow of the creek and has used it for years in irrigating about 800 acres of land. The Hill ditch owns 3-69 of the flow of the stream, which it has used for years In the irrigation of 200 acres of land. It will be seen, therefore, that the rights of these three companies amount in all to 26-60 of the entire flow of the creek, and as they have transferred their rights to the city the latter will consequently receive nearly one-half of the flow of Big Cottonwood creek un-der the present contracts of exchange. In speaking of these contracts today

In speaking of these contracts former Assistant City Attorney Bramel said: "These contracts are exchange and do not purport to be contracts, and do not purport to be absolute sales and were never repre-sented as such. Everyone knows that Salt Lake City is very unfortunately situated with regard to a water supply and that if our water supply is not ob-tained from the mountain streams flow-ing down the Wasatch mountains it will not be secured at all. Of course the city owns all of the waters of City creek, a portion of Emigration creek and a portion of Parley's creek. It also wns waters of the Jordan and Salt Lake canal.

"The only water suitable for potable purposes is that from the three creeks, but our experience during the summer of 1905 demonstrated that the supply from these creeks is not sufficient for the use of the city. The water com-mittee of the former council, after a great deal of consideration, deemed it the best plan to exchange the waters of the canal for the waters of Big Cottonwood creek. Now it must be remem-bered that the waters of Big Cottonwood belonged to the farmers along the creek, and have been owned by then ever since this valley was settled.

"For two good reasons the absolute purchase of these waters by the city was impossible. In the first place the value of the water if purchased out-right would be practically the value of the land irrigated by that water, and the total sum would be too much for the city to raise or pay. In the second place the farmers would not sell the water outright. "Under the present contracts, as hefore stated, the city exchanges its canal water for the Big Cottonwood water. So long as the city furnishes the canal water it will obtain the Big Cottonwood water, and here I may say that this plan of the conduit and exchange of water was not a new idea with the Morris administration. This scheme and a part of the plans for the conduit, I am advised, were devised by Mr. F. P. Kelsey, the brother of the present ity engineer, during his incumbency of the city engineer's office. "Unless a better plan of obtaining water for Salt Lake City is devised, the present water scheme should be arried out as intended."
