On motion of Mr. Paul it was decided that the nominees for delegate to Congress be made orally from the body of the house.

Mr. Summerhays moved that the selection of a candidate for delegate to Congress be made by ballot.

Mr. Sloan opposed it. Such a method was too long and cumbersome.

Mr. Paul supported his motion in a strong speech. It was the only proper way, and the only acceptable one.

The motion prevailed, there being but two dissenting voices.

Mr. Creer moved that it be the sense of the convention that the candidate receiving a majority of all the votes cast be declared elected.

Mr. Smith wanted it to be a majority of the delegation, making thirty-four the number necessary to elect.

Mr. Sloan opposed this. What we want here is a majority of the members present—a majority of those who had interest enough to be present. And when a majority of those present had decided on a man, he should be elected.

Mr. Paul opposed the idea advanced by Mr. Sloan. He would be satisfied with nothing short of a majority of the members of the convention.

Mr. Howard thought a majority of the members present should decide as to who the next delegate should be.

It was finally decided that a majority of the members present should elect.

Adjourned until 2 p. m., October 9th, to meet at the Fourteenth Ward assembly rooms.

At 2 p. m. the convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Young, chairman of the committee on credentials, reported that the committee favored the seating of alternates only when delegates were absent. Adopted.

The roll was called, a quorum was present.

Prayer by the chaplain.

On motion the election of members of the Territorial central committee from Salt Lake and Utah counties was proceeded with. The following was the result:

From Salt Lake County: F. S. Richards, C. W. Penrose, David

McKenzie, C. M. Neilson, J. H. Paul, J. W. Summerhays and Richard Howe.

From Utah County: W. H. King, Wm. H. Brown, Wm. Webb and J. H. Page.

F. S. Richards, C. W. Penrose, David McKenzie, C. M. Neilson and J. H. Paul were chosen members of the Territorial executive committee from Salt Lake County.

Later—Since the above was in type, the convention has suspended the rules and nominated Hon. John T. Caine for Delegate to Congress by acclamation. The vote was unanimous.

The convention took a recess immediately after this vote.

THE TERRITORIAL FAIR.

It was after 12 o'clock before the gates of the entrance of the fair grounds were opened to a crowd who were waiting to enter. A few minutes later Held's Band played a spirited air on the balcony within the main building. The people now came pouring in, and at 12:45 o'clock, H. W. Lawrence, president of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society, called them to order and announced that the opening exercises would now occur.

The band played a selection, after which Mr. Lawrence introduced Elder Arthur Stayner, who offered prayer.

Mr. Lawrence then announced that His Excellency Governor Arthur L. Thomas would deliver the opening address.

The speaker congratulated his hearers on the splendid exhibit of the products of the Territory which were seen in the building and on the grounds. He observed that it was the eighteenth annual exposition of the D. A. & M. Society, and that it was the best so far that had been held. He called attention to the excellent fruit, and the many varieties of it, which had been contributed by various parts of the Territory, from the extreme north to the extreme south. The horticultural products of various climates were represented.

The speaker referred to the exhibits of skilled labor, which were shown, and spoke of the textile fabrics produced at home and on exhibition as equal to any similar goods made in the Union. He expressed the view that these exhibitions were a great means of educating the people, and treated of the marvelous progress that had been made in Utah since its first settlement, 43 years ago.

He urged the necessity of a bureau of statistics, and treated of the benefits the same would produce to the Territory, and closed by observing that we have much to be thankful for, and to hope for, and forecasting a glorious future for Utah.

The band played a selection, when Mr. Lawrence arose and said:

"In behalf of the board of directors of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society, I now declare the Utah Exposition for the year 1890 open."

The Territorial Fair, which commenced October 6th, under the auspices of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society, promises to eclipse all former efforts in the way of beautiful and varied exhibits. Last winter, the Territorial Legislature appropriated liberally for the completion of the main building and one of the wings. This has been done and the capacity for displaying exhibits has thereby been doubled.

More liberal inducements have been offered to exhibitors than ever before, and as a result exhibits from the remotest as well as the nearest points of the Territory attract the eye of the visitor.

The architectural design of the new grand stand, which has been erected for the accommodation of spectators and before which the blooded stock are displayed, is of itself a splendid achievement.

The main building is draped and decorated in national colors. The various counties of the Territory are represented by a colored shield. The heads of buffalo, elk and deer, are also attractive features of the decorations.

On the main floor of the building is displayed in wondrous profusion, fruit, flowers, vegetable and general produce.

The floral display is undoubtedly the finest ever made in this Territory. The designs in cut flowers cannot well be excelled.

Apples, peaches, plums and grapes are the main exhibits in the fruit line, and are remarkably large, luscious and fine.

The almost endless varieties of vegetables cannot be easily enumerated, but in kind, quality and numbers they speak loudly for the agricultural resources of our Territory.

On the main floor can also be seen the products of such industries as the manufacture of candy, crackers, soda water, iron fencing, furniture, mosaic, marble, cigars, woolen goods, mantels, etc. Each of these is well represented.

An interesting feature of the fair connected with the exhibits on the main floor is the bee and honey display by Snyder, Tauber & Swanner, who show in glass cases the working of the bees. These little creatures, emblematical of the industry of Utah's people, are well worth seeing.

The south wing has not been decorated, but is an interesting department, nevertheless. In it are displayed specimens of the many kinds of minerals common to our Territory. In the same part of the building are some very fine specimens of inlaid wood work; for instance, a small box only a few inches in height and length contains seven thousand pieces and is highly polished, also an arm chair containing one hundred and six pieces.

There are fine exhibits of leather, wool, pottery bricks and horse shoes, polished and unpolished.

IN THE GALLERY.

The art department is located in the south half of the gallery, and is constantly thronged with ardent admirers of what they claim, and just-
