Perhaps never before in the history of the tabernacle was the interior of that historic building so profusely and beautifully decorated as yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of the commemoration exercises held there. The great organ, especially, presented an imposing spectacle with its brilliant display of electric lights. Above the star, which was shining in effulgent splendor, were the lliuminated words.

"Peace on earth." In the center of the instrument was a large painted por-trait of Joseph Smith, the prophet, and above and below it were the words of

Around the organ were Christmas trees and potted plants, and the latter were much in evidence among the drapings of white and national colors that adornet the stands, and hung in taste-ful festoons around the entire gal;ery.

until today nearly 400,000,000 souls are worshipers of the Babe of Bethlehem. HISTORICAL FACT.

HISTORICAL FACT. Elder Morris treated his subject di-tive from a three-fold standpoint, first as child, second as man and as the Lamb whose blood redeemed the world. The birth, he said, was a historical fact, though surrounded more or less in mystery. The tendency to materi-atism regarding the nativity of the savior was deprecated by the speaker. Because men do not understand cer-tim principles is no valid reason why men should repudiate them. A por-tion of a truth may be revealed to the, inderstanding by one person and an-biand was discovered by the finder of the new world, while the continent and finally the hemisphere were reached of the new world, while the continent and finally the hemisphere were deviced by subsequent voyagers. Amid such scenes of un-godiness, Christ was born of the Vir-gin Mary. The birth of the babe, surrounded though it was with humili-ty, reawakened a fast degenerating methrehood dignified the position of woman, exalted jabor to a high plane, and saved the world in a temporal sense, as it was destined to redeem it, spiritually. spiritualily

CHARACTER OF JESUS.

The character of the man Jesus, said The character of the man Jesus, said Elder Morris, as given by the fisher-men scribes, was of the utmost tender-ness, courage, intelligence, judgment, purity and love for mankind. Not only was the gospel preached unto the poor of the earth, but meek and lowly fish-ermen and craits people were chosen as the special witnesses of the Word. The courage of the Master was without parallel. He withstood the tide of pub-ic courion as never man had done belie opinion as never man had done be-fore, in taking up His work among publicans and sinners, and there has never yet been more perfect judgment than when the Son of Man uttered the words, "Let him among you that is without sin cast the first stone." Despite the fact that He mingled with people who were outcasts from the so-called better society, Jesus remained spotless from sin. Wrong doing and evil touched not His person; vice cannot stand one moment before the uplifting hand of purity.

An unusually large congregation was present, it being necessary to open the galleries to seat the people. On the stand were many of the general Church authorities, including Presidents John R. Winder, Anthon H. Lund, Francis M. Lyman, Patriarch John Smith, and Elders John Henry Smith, Hyrum M. Smith, and many local authorities. The exercises were intensely interest-ing, befitting the great events that The speaker briefly rehearsed the ac-The speaker briefly rehearsed the ac-count of the war in heaven when Luci-fer, the son of the morning, strove against the right and was overcome by the Lamb. He was the Savior there and He is our Savior now; we stood vaitently by His side then, will we prove as loyal and faithful now? The exercises were intensely interest-ing, befitting the great events that were being commenorated. The speak-ers were three in number, namely, Elders Nephi L. Morris, James E. Talmage and John Henry Smith, the first discoursing upon Jesus, the Christ, the second taking for his subject Jo-senh Smith the prophet and Elder ELDER JAMES E. TALMAGE. the second taking for his subject Jo-seph Smith, the prophet, and Elder Smith discussing both personages. The fact was strongly emphasized that there can be, neither is there sought to be, any parallel between the Son of God and Joseph Smith. The one is the King of kings and Lord of lords, the Savior and Redeemer of the world, and as such as worshiped and adored by the Latter-day Saints. The other is honored only as a failhful servant, who failed not in the mission assigned him by the Most High. If any persons were Elder Taimage said that before the critical time of the coming to earth of critical time of the coming to earth of the Son of God the fact was predicted by many prophets, they who pro-claimed the glad tidings spake as hav-ing authority. He came and was cru-cified, and judging from the standpoint of men His mission was a failure, but it was not in any sense of the word a failure. Since the meridian of time many have stood forth and spoken also failure. Since the meridian of time many have stood forth and spoken also with authority from heaven. In speak-ing of the world's Redeemer it is fit-ting to speak of His prophets, those who lived before His advent as well as those who came after. As concerning us the latest were of the most importfailed not in the mission assigned him by the Most High. If any persons were present who have believed or imagined that the Latter-day Saints place their martyred prophet on an equal with the crucified Redeemer, their false im-pressions must have been dissipated by the clear exposition of what Mor-monism really teaches relative to Jesus the Master and Joseph the servant. ance, as bearing more directly upon our own times and conditions. No prophet ever lived who had a predecessor or a successor. Each had a special and particular work to perform.

HAD DIFFERENT MISSION.

The prophet of the last dispensation had a mission to perform different than any who had preceded him. Why has he been ignored or rejected by so many? Was it because of his common name? The name of the forerunner, John was outle a common one, and John, was oulte a common one, and even the name of Jesus, which was but another name for Joshua the world did not believe his hundle story of what he had witnessed. Vay did it not pass the matter with " laugh. It is somewhat remarkable that almost the identical words whre spoken to the boy prophet that J/ph had heard when he had baptized for Savior of the world, and that why subsequently repeated to Peter. Jam's and John at the transfiguration. "This is my Beloved Son." This same Jeth appeared to the prophet of the fast dispensation and conferred upon plin the Aaronic priesthood, and the other three subsequently brought the higher priesthood, the keys of which they held.

held. In conclusion, Elder Talmage Aid that if Christ came in the meriqlun of time, it must now be near the Add-set hour, and it may be expected that the Savior will soon reappear, accodi-pained by His prophets and holy of a, and among them would be the mar-tyred Prophet Joseph Smith. ELDER JOHN HENRY SMITH

Elder Smith said that the meeting had been intensely interesting to him. The mission and labor of the Redentihad been intensely interesting to 100-The mission and labor of the Redeven-er of the world finds an echo in the heart of every well meaning man whi woman. He has been the guidbe star of the destinies of the hutbe race since the memorable night when he lay in the manager at Bethleh An of Judea. The Jewish race could Aot comprehend the mission of the Cop-queror of the world. They had Ay-pected a mailed hand to right their wrongs, and when the King came in humility and kindness He did not Ali their ideals and by them he yes spurned. Could they have looked down the stream of time and some that His very name has changed the conditions of every nation, kinded, tongue and people, they doubtless would have acted differently.

NO COMPARISON SOUGHT.

NO COMPARISON SOUGHT. Elder Smith said that no compag-son is sought to be made betw/sn Jesus the Christ and any others who have ever lived on earth. When the gospel was restored to earth in the life-ter days, the Father and the Son yb-peared to the chosen agent. These was no parallel between Jesus shd Joseph. One was the Master, the other the servant. Preparations bid been going on in the Christian wolfd for the re-establishment of the Chu/sh of Chirst, and no mistake was may in the choice of the man to head the last dispensation. His capabilities the his faithfulness were known aforeth/a. His name has been heralded for ebil in the world, but the time will fet come, said Elder Smith, that the nafter of the Mormon prophet will be hav-ored of men, not in the same serve as that of the Redeemer, but ag a faithful servant of the Most High.
