

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Spokane Banquet at that Institution Last Night.

RESIGNATION OF DR. J. R. PARK.

Resignation of Prof. Kingsbury—Remarks by that Gentleman.

There was a magnificent gathering in the amphitheater of the University at 7 o'clock last evening, which was greatly adorned with bunting, and the National colors occupying a prominent place. Fully one hundred and others were present, and the banquet was most refreshing and enjoyable. The tables, set in a manner, were arranged with reasonable taste, and the dinner was greatly admired.

Prof. Kingsbury's resignation was read, and the speaker, who was very happy in the discharge of his duties in that capacity. President W. M. Stewart of the Alumni Association was the first speaker. He gave a hearty welcome to the graduates, and spoke of the good influence of the graduates of the university. He next paid warm compliments to Chancellor Hartness and Governor Thomas, both of whom had taken so much interest in the university. The speaker also mentioned the early regrets which had passed money out of their own pockets when the appropriation bill failed in the legislature, as well as the former president and himself. He also alluded to the fact that the graduates of other institutions regretted their own leave, and said the graduates of the University of Utah should also regretfully their own leave.

President Stewart was introduced as follows without remark, and he gave a short address in which he spoke of the history of the state to higher education, and particularly of the University of Utah. He said that the university was not only a source of pride and honor to the state, but also a source of pride and honor to the world. He said that the university was a source of pride and honor to the state, and that it was a source of pride and honor to the world. He said that the university was a source of pride and honor to the state, and that it was a source of pride and honor to the world.
