WM. HUSBANDS, Six of the Jurors in the Rudger Clawson case. SALT LARE CITY, Oct. 22, 1884.

As a foundation or excuse for the infamous attack which the daily Slanderer made upon the four jurors who dared to stand by their convictions, and decide by the evidence instead of rumor and Tribune dictation, that paper used the following language:

While the eight did all they could to convince the four that the evidence was conclusive as to guilt of defend-ant, the four, either could or would not be convinced. The four never attempt-in to give any convention held at Malad on the evening of the 15th, when, through lack of the proper kind of ma-

His revocation of the Convention previously called to meet in Oxford on the 11th was entirely abortive; the convention met in force, abortive; the convention met in force, appointed a new chairman, transacted business, and left poor Crawford out in the cold, and set him howling. The gentleman finding he had abso-lutely no following, very discreetly ad-journed his mass meeting till the call of the chair, or, until he got one or two democrats to follow him. So the gentleman again subsided. On the evening of the 15th the anti-Mormons a person by the name of Smith-Ransbe convinced. The four never attempt-ed to give any reasons for the faith that was in them, nor did they attempt to prove to the eight why they thought defendant was not guilty. They would listen to the arguments of the eight men, but would show no disposition to be moved by them, nor would they by argument or otherwise make any at-tempt to prove from the avidence that defendant was not guilty. They evi-dently had made up their minds from the start, and all the evidence in the world could not have moved them from the position in which they had planted themselves.

Contrast this with the statement of the six jurors above, and see how the Tribune deliberately lied to prejudice the public against the men who did not see through Tribune glasses. Then read the false exposure of their private affairs for the same purpose, and say how much confidence say one can place in the utterances of such a jour-nal. One gentleman is accused by it of having "a wife and two children in New York State," and of "courting a Mormon girl in this city." Both of these accusations are false. He is a divorced man, an avowed anti-"Mormon" and the young lady to whom he is paying his addresses is not a "Mormon" nor the daughter of a "Mormon."

The rea son for the course of another juror is said to be that he has a large herd of cattle in this Territory, and that his property would be in jeopardy should he in any way oppose the" Mor-mon" Church. The gentleman declares that he has not any stock in the Territory, and everyone here who knows anything, is aware that people oppose the "Mormon" Church continually without being in the slightest danger whatever either to person or property. The lies of the Tribune are concocted for outside effect.

The other jurors who were against conviction are also personally assall-ed, apart from their action in this mat-ter, and the Tribune has not retracted anything it has said against them. Yet it pretends to be "a high-toned journal" that "never assails private character," but always "confines itself to the legitimate sphere of journalism." It says to-day: "We stated no. untruths about the four jurors yesterday." "We followed only the strict line of duty in saying what we did yes-terday." "The reference to the jury yesterday was entirely justified and necessary." We venture to say that there is not a respectable "Gentile" in the community who has read the articles in question who does not consider them not only unnecessary, unjustifiable and untrue, but dastardly. atroclous and infamous. We know that this is the opinion of many of that class, because we have heard it expressed.

But the non-"Mormons" of this Territory may expect just such treatment from the "American gentlemen" who write for that paper if they do not vote and act as those blackguards dictate. The influence which it boasts of is wielded in that way. It has no other. And much as some people talk of "Mormon" submission to counsel, there are no "Mormons," however devoted, who are under such "control of

Committee. The first move of these loyal carpetbaggers and their pliant tools was to procure a writ of injunction to restrain the County Com-missioners from executing the provisions of the registration law. Singiser's election was secured two years ago by fraudulent votes, which would be impossible with an honest ballot; the anti-"Mormons" must therefore destroy the registration law or die a political death.

We are reliably informed that the Territorial Democratic Central Committee have in their pessession sworn affdavits showing that 500 votes were counted for Singler in one precinct of Alturas County, where there were but 23 legal voters. And at Blackfoot, Oneida County, some 300 graders were in Baltimore, New York and Chicago. The indebtedness to all Washington bankers is abundantly secured. Mr. brought is by the gravel train, all of whom voted for Singiser and the republican nominees, and none of whom were legal voters. Encouraged by the success of their audacity two years ago in rolling up a majority for Singiser by these dishonest means, these anti-"Mormons," are now trying to nullify the registration law, trample on the rights of the people so that by stuffing. ballot boxes and by creating false issues, they may repeat the frauds that have made; them infamous.

AN "IMPARTIAL" JUROR. Our readers should take particular notice of the manner in which the new jury in the Rudger Clawson case is being impanneled. The juror Beers, after openly stating his conclusions about the guilt of the defendant, and after the Court had expressed the opinion that the juror's case was one of actual bias, was accepted and the challenge of the defense denied because the prosecution seemed anxious to retain him. That is the kind of fairness to be expected in a court where "Mormons" who are clearly unbiased, declaring their willingness to convict on proper evidence, are excluded from jury service simply be-cause they are "Mormons." There never was a clearer case of bias than that of the juror Beers, and if a jury is packed with persons of similar opinions, the new trial will be a burlesque on law and justice.
