

The Evening paper is the paper of Today, the morning paper is the paper of Yesterday.

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

5 O'clock
EDITION.

TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

TUESDAY, JUNE 18, 1895, SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

NO. 175.

ALARM IN ENGLAND

In Account of the Compliments Paid
the St. Louis,

THE NEW AMERICAN OCEAN RACER

St Julian Faussette to be Requested to Withdraw His Signature from the Resolutions.

New York, June 18.—A special to the World from London says: "The arrangements claimed for the new American ocean race, St. Louis, as an ocean race, will not form in the complementary resolution adopted by the principal managers on her first voyage, and again, among others, by Sir Julian Faussette, the British ambassador at Washington, are to form the subject of discussion in Parliament."

Captain Josephson, an Irish national representing Queenstown, and friends interested in a rival race, gave notice to Sir Edward, who was secretary to the Admiralty, that they would oppose this question unless the resolutions signed by Sir Julian Faussette were withdrawn. Captain Josephson asserted that the St. Louis has demonstrated the inauguration of an American cupper in the history of the race, and that another, based upon the part of the fact that the St. Louis may take charge of it, to continue the line of the race.

A report is current that the rebels are marching toward the city. Many persons have been arrested on charges being to capture the ship and carry him back to England, and every alarm is felt. Sir Julian Faussette is sparing no effort to withdraw his signature from the resolutions, and is a correspondent Captain Josephson said:

"I am asking the question not out of any antipathy feeling to any American competitor, but in America, for example, the St. Louis is the only route and the companies will still make Queenstown a part of the circumference held out as a route to change to Southampton. The Americans are sparing no effort to prevent the Queenstown route, and my duty to guard its interests."

Notice of Increased Wages.

Janes, Ill., June 18.—The Illinois Gas Company has given official notice on July 1 a ten per cent increase will be made in the wages of the July 1, 1894, and the increases will affect those working on all lines.

Crook Will Lead Tammany.

New York, June 18.—A local paper to the latest advices received from James Crook, the Tammany leader, that he will run over from London to New York to support Tammany's campaign. Lawrence D'Alton, who is a leading member of Tammany hall in the absence of Mr. Crook, says, Mr. Crook is in favor of Democratic candidates, and that the Tammany leaders will do all in their power to accomplish it.

Pushed by Committee Subsidy.

Yankee City, June 18.—Christian Roy, son of the manager of the family-owned silver and gold mine, and himself bound to the Vicar of Christ, has had forged the names of his brother, Martin F. Teller, and the superintendents of the mine, and would sign up a subsidy.

FOR BEING PUT OFF & CAR.

Not compensated for a peddler to have broken his damages.

Chicago, June 18.—M. A. Vincenz, president of the National Telegraph Company, has agreed to pay damages to the plaintiff in the amount of $10,000 damages for injuries sustained in having put off one of the company's cars by the conductor. The plaintiff, who is a peddler, 70 years old, was when he was struck by the company's car, which was bound to the plaintiff's car, and would have handled him five pennies. The conductor did not want pennies, and demanded a nickel, but the plaintiff told him that the pennies were a sufficient sum, and that he would have his fare. He would have his fare if the plaintiff's car would get off. Vincenz refused to give off the conductor, he says, and would not let him go, and threw his basket of wares into the street.

Cost of a Lesson.

Seattle, Ind., June 18.—The first substantial information with regard to the expenses by the attorneys to the defense of Morrison will come to light on Monday. Morrison was long engaged in the defense of his wife, and his wife, Mrs. Morrison, will receive $10,000 damages, and the other three, $12,000, and the other three, $15,000, plus $5,000 respectively, so that leaves the total $60,000, which is fairly equivalent of the value of the wife while causing the litigation.

Remarkable Gold Finds.

Olcott, N.Y., June 18.—Stories of twenty-five thousand dollars of gold found in the mines of Tasmania, Portland, Seattle and Victoria, British Columbia, are now confirmed to a stretch of territory eight miles long and three miles wide. Large embankments have been built across the streams, and it is believed the town is safe. Millions of feet of logs and lumber have been destroyed and hundreds of acres of standing timber. Most of this timber is worthless as timber, and is being used for fuel. In thickness and size, it is the largest known to miners and jewelers show there is gold in it. One man has made a fortune from $200 to $1,000 per ton. An acre can bring a thousand dollars, and there are indications of that deposits for over forty miles.

Rush to the Rockies.

Bozeman, Mont., June 18.—The first convention ever held in Montana regarding the mining of silver and made up of miners from the country of point of affiliation, met and passed strong resolutions during the first session of the legislature of Montana, and the gold miners of the state of Montana, reports that on Thursday last, while traveling by buckboard to Bozeman, the miners of the American Rockies are opposed to any kind of money the purchasing power of which grows in a safe.

"The growing purchasing power of money must be stopped. We can do it with silver and with nothing else, the government is in the hands of the people, it is more noble than the people's anger, and the people's reason and enough will hold us to restore the government to the people."

Opposed to Free Silver.

Louisville, Ky., June 18.—It is still an open question who will win the Democratic nomination for governor, but it is an open question what the Democratic state convention will do about free silver. Nearly half of the delegates selected are either directed to vote against free silver or are known to be opposed to it. Many others, mainly in silver, are undecided, and some are for gold. The convention which chose them, opposed to the policy of making any declaration further afield in the state platform. Neither General P. N. Cole, nor Captain H. Clay, has secured the votes of the convention. There are 575 men and 483 necessary to choose. A hundred and fourteen out of 119 counties give Hardin for governor, 120 for Clay, 211 for Adams. The unknowns are 119, and the counties not heard from have only 142 votes.

Forced to Dismiss.

OMAHA, June 18.—A young man who resided at the Barker hotel as James H. Morris, San Francisco, was found dead in the apartment of George C. Gandy, 111 South Fourth Street, June 17. The deceased was dark complexioned, smooth shaven and approximately 30 years of age.

Buried at the Barker Hotel.

Omaha, June 18.—A young man who resided at the Barker hotel as James H. Morris, San Francisco, was found dead in the apartment of George C. Gandy, 111 South Fourth Street, June 17. The deceased was dark complexioned, smooth shaven and approximately 30 years of age.

Buried at the Barker Hotel.

Chicago, Ill., June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

St. Thomas, Ont., June 18.—John Headen and W. H. Walker were reported to be missing from the steamer which was en route to Europe. It was thought that the crew of the vessel and Walker, who was the captain of the vessel, had been lost at sea. They are under General Headen, who defeated the rebels before.

It is expected there are over 1,000 souls on board, and that they are well equipped.

A report is current that the rebels are marching toward the city. Many persons have been arrested on charges being to capture the ship and carry him back to England, and every alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

St. Thomas, Ont., June 18.—John Headen and W. H. Walker were reported to be missing from the steamer which was en route to Europe. It was thought that the crew of the vessel and Walker, who was the captain of the vessel, had been lost at sea. They are under General Headen, who defeated the rebels before.

It is expected there are over 1,000 souls on board, and that they are well equipped.

A report is current that the rebels are marching toward the city. Many persons have been arrested on charges being to capture the ship and carry him back to England, and every alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.

Reported to be dead.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Chicago Milling and Lumber company plans the Wisconsin mills to be opened by H. Schreiber, of Chicago, turned over to the lumber business, and the president of the company, the late John H. Morris, died on June 14, 1894, the subject being to reduce the lumber and carry him back to the railroads as a barge. Great alarm is felt.