Borel's Sanity Investigation.—The Dashed Case.—Narrow Escape.—Miscellaneous Matters.

Ogden, May 31.—Eugene Borel, acquitted last week on the charge of killing George Lewis, appeared in Judge Miner's court on Monday in order that the question of his sanity might be determined. Judge Moquin, for the defense, gave it as his opinion that Judge Miner had jurisdiction in this insanity matter and thought it a question for the Probate court to decide. The prosecution took the opposite view, and after arguments pro and con had been heard, Judge Miner ruled that he had jurisdiction. Doctor Joyce was called to the witness stand. Borel, however, was victim of some malpractice. Witness said he considered him a good man for the insanity expert and thought that in due course of time all symptoms of the malady would disappear entirely.

The hearing was then adjourned.

The girl was beyond human aid, but a physician was summoned who succeeded in resuscitating it and it is out of danger.

The Gale on Monday.—Decoration Day in the Garden.

Editor Correspondence.

Provo, May 30.—A terrible wind storm came up last evening at 6 o'clock. Trees were torn up, shreds blown down, etc. A visiting circus tent was raised high in the air, the canvas torn in shreds and stuff scattered in every direction. One of the circus men was badly injured by a falling pole which struck him on the back. Another had his fingers badly lacerated by a rope he was managing to. The baby elephant became greatly frightened and made tracks to get out of the arena. The tent was so badly damaged that it was impossible to give any performances that night. The scattered clothing and stuff, as far as could be found, was gathered together and loaded on the cars.

The summer session of the H. Y. A. Commercial College commenced yesterday morning with a very fair attendance.

SPRAYING.

What to Spray For, When to Spray and What to Spray With.

Here is some spraying information copied down originally for The Farm Journal and containing pointers for making it pay.

Spray for the early fall of the leaf of the pear, apple, orange, cherry, currant, the cracking of the peach, the rot of the currant, rhubarb and gooseberry leaf and potato blight and rot. These diseases are caused by fungi, and these fungi can be rendered harmless most by spraying.

It is also to prevent damage by insects, by leaf lice, apple worms, apple maggot, hoppers, leaf shags, beetles, currant worms, cabbage worms and the potato beetle, also by the flea on animals and to chicken houses, and the many others, bad dreams and strife.

The barkless mixture seems to be all that is necessary for most species of fungi. Here are formulas for making it. Put about 20 gallons of warm water in a barrel, put four pounds sulphur in it, cover it with water and boil it in the water just below the surface. In about 12 hours the sack will be empty. When two or three pounds of lime are thoroughly slaked under water and cooled, stir well, and after it is partially settled pour off the milk of the lime and add to the copper sulphur, straining it through a piece of burlap. This makes out the bulk of the lime solution and it is again strained as it goes into the sprayer. There is little chance of clogging the nozzle. After the lime solution is added the barrel is filled with clean water to the amount of 45 or 50 gallons, and the mixture is ready now. Fill well before filling the sprayer.

Pear cross is the mixture for leaf eating insects. When frost and insects are to be met at the same time, the pearls are to be mixed with the borax mixture, three or four times to a barrel of water. Take five pounds of tobacco stems, steep them in three gallons of water for three hours, strain the concoction and add sufficient water to make a gallon. This is the best spraying formula as it lies on plants and animals and kills by contact. Carbureted copper dissolved in ammonia is a very fungicide, largely recommended and used, but it is more expensive than the borax mixture. It has to be corked to keep, and we do not see that it is any superior to the borax mixture. Where the propagation can be had easily under cover, it answers first rate. By spraying the potato plant every two weeks with either of these solutions it will be defended against the fungus which causes the rot.

Spray all plants and fruit trees before they blossom, never while in blossom. Use no parts green then. Then spray after the blossoms fall and every two or three weeks all summer. Use carbureted copper when leaf eating insects appear. This is soon after the first warm days come. Spray with tobacco water for lice on bark or leaf whenever visible. Look sharp for them.
