

A VERY QUIET DAY.

No Routine Business of Importance in the Legislature.

TO REPEAL THE SPRAYING LAW.

Several Bills Introduced and Referred.—Brief Session in Both Houses.

Both houses of the Legislature held brief sessions today, and the business in each, aside from the formalities, was devoid of special interest. Many members of both houses were in their seats long before the opening hour of the afternoon, but there was less discussion among them of the ever-recurring business of the day; there might have been some interesting exceptions. The fact seems to be that every member of the Assembly has been talking in session about the senatorial contest that he did not care to discuss in any way.

The very air seemed burdened with anxious interest as to the showing that would be made on the first ballot for United States senator, and the lobby of the House was crowded with eager spectators.

About thirty bills had been introduced into the Assembly up to last evening, with the disposition of each bill with a view to the proper consideration still undetermined. The assembly seems resolved to give itself plenty of time in the way of considering bills.

THE SENATE.

Afternoon session yesterday following business was transacted in the Senate:

S. C. 4, by Caine, providing for the division of public documents among the members after having deposited 10¢ of the number printed with the Senate, was adopted.

After a great deal of discussion, a substitute to rule 4, by Whitaker, was adopted. The committee on the subject of the Senate's power to remove a member from office, was referred to the committee on the subject of the Senate's power to remove a member from office.

IN MINING CIRCLES.

The Day's Call on 'Change Shows a Weakness in Stocks.

DEXTER WEST UP, BUT FELL.

The Alpha Gold Mining Company to Incorporate—Mining in Utah—Back From the East.

The mining stock market was weak today, quotations in the main being on the decline with no great amount of activity in the pit. Dexter, an undervalued stock, looked upward and sold today at $1.15 a share, while at the close of the day it was $1.10 and the stock was offered at $1.10.

Alpha was fairly held at 99 cents, but declined to give more than 98 cents for the stock. Bullion stock made an advance in the bidding, the stock being wanted at $6.90 against yesterday's bid of $6.75, while it also was an offering at $7.25.

Day was stationary, but Day West moved in an offer of $7.25 for the stock. Four acres remained in the hands of the company, but it was offered at $7.25.
