PRESIDENT JOHN TAYLOR

addressed the assemblage. He deliv-ered an elaborate and comprehensive discourse, taking up the thread of his remarks given at the Priesthood meet-ing last evening. He dwelt upon the designs and purposes of the Most High in the redemption of the earth and the human family. The sentiments and principles he enunciated were of a lofty and exalted character, and as an adequate idea of the nature of the discourse could not well be conveyed in a brief synopsis, we prefer not to present one, but to await its publica-tion in full, in which form it will be presented in due time. A subsequent part of President Taylor's remarks was devoted to a detailed description of the order and organization of the Church of Christ, and the duties, rights and privileges of the Priesthood, whose operations must be in accord addressed the assemblage. He delivrights and privileges of the rriesthood, whose operations must be in accord with the principles of righteousness; otherwise the Heavens withdraw them-selves and the authority and force of those who deviate from the line of uprightness depart. He also spoke up-01 other topics of vital importance to the Latter-day Saints and incidentally to the world at large. The choir sang, the congregation joining:

The result of this visit was that from that time the efforts and labors of the Union assumed a more practical shape, and thereafter the month'y meetings of the teachers and superintendents were held in Salt Lake City with great regularity; at first in the City Hall, then in the 14th Ward Assembly Rooms, afterwards in the Council House, and latterly in the new Assembly Hall. These meetings have continued to grow in proportions and interest until at the present time they are amongst the most popular and the most largely attended of any of the assemblies of the people of Zion; and this worthy example set in the chief city of the Salnts has been followed in several other districts throughout our Territory. The speaker had advised, in the newly formed settlements, that when the people build houses, they should con-struct them according to a comely and intelligent plan, that beautiful homes may be reared. Those who wished to adopt this advice about going into the country should call upon Bishop Pres-ton, that the method of getting to those places may be decided upon. In answer to questions put by Presi-dent Taylor to President Ricks of Bannock and President Hendricks of Oneida Stake as to whether they could employ a number of new set-tlers acquainted with the various branches of industry, they responded in the affirmative. Saints, of a collection of hymns and songs composed by members of the Church, with suitable music; of a primary catechism, and the publica²⁹ tion of other suitable works, -all these and many other subjects that still have to be considered, are to be found amongst the teachings the general sup-erintendency and others of the breth-ren from the time that these meetings were first held. These instructions have not been in vain. Not only has the Union increased in number, year by year, but in compactness also, and a greater uniformity has been reached in the methods of teaching and in the modes of conducting the schools. I., which was es-tablished for the purpose of furthering the interests of co-operation in mer-cantile and manufacturing directions. It is in a solid and flourishing cendi-tion, notwithstanding the general stringency of the times. There is not a better nor safer institution in this Territory. There are a number of Mor-mon and non-Mormon stores and Z. C. M. I. does more in relation to home manufactures than all these put to-gether. The speaker then read a con-cise statement in regard to what the institution had done in that line. He also stated that arrangements had been made to conduct the industry of man-ulacturing clothing, and for the fur-therance of this branch it had agreed with the Prove Woolen factory for the purchase of its entire product of cloth.

the Conference. He could well un-derstand that to live our religion re-quires a constant exertion on our part. In brief the whole of this reli-gion is to live lives of righteousness. Many believed that if they are barely able to hold a standing in the Church they are still living their religion. The fallacy of such an idea—that simple faith or belief without works was suf-ficient was briefly touched upon: and the speaker declared it his belief that no person who does nothing toward building the houses of God had a right to enter those houses and take part in the blessings and privileges therein conferred. Referring to our position in the world, he said, honest, upright men not of us recognize the merits of the Saints and their honesty of dealing, while it is only by those who are not themselves above reproach that the calumnies against us are set in circu-lation. He regretted the growing ten-dency among the Saints to run into debt and urged farmers in the purchase of machinery to age more wisdom, and the people generally to adopt a more; ealthy method of financeering. the results are eminently satisfactory, showing that as a people, we have many among us whose compositions are worthy of high praise, with a con-stantly developing standard of ercel-lence. The means adopted by the Union to accomplish this have been various. In the graat Sunday School work. Its advent in January, 1866, antedated the organization of the Union, and from its commencement it has been our con-stant friend and guide. The publica-tion in its columns of catechisms on the Bible. Book of Mormon, Church History, etc., its musical pages, its editorial teachings, and many other of its features, have rendered it a neces-sity in our Sunday schools, whose in-fluence can scarcely be overestimated, and whose loss would be regarded as a calamity by most Sunday school offi-cers. Its value lies distinctly in the fact, that through its pages unity and harmony of action can be brought about throughout all our schools, and the instructions of the general officers can treach the remotest settlements where otherwise, through lack of per-social visits, they would often be at a Conference adjourned till April, 1885, in the Large Tabernacle.
