WASHINGTON, D. C., 3.—It is now said that Morrill will accept the Treasury Secretary's position.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., 3.—Morrill spoke in support of the resolution.

He said the country was about entering upon the great conflict.

If the success of one party depended upon overcoming the aggregate republican majority.

He expected that this majority would be overthrown, that the republican majority would prevail.

When the Senator from Delaware talked about a blot in Louisiana, he (Morrill) desired to tell him when the blot was in Pinchback was not paid his case would be made an exception to the rule.

He regarded the case of Pinchback as a blot on the honor of the republic.

port at next session of Congress such rules and rates as may in their opinion be deemed best and expedient to enable the Postmaster General to meet the increased and necessary service, and $10,000 is appropriated for the expenses of the commission. It also recommends, as a means of readjusting the salaries of postmasters, the main provisions of the bill introduced into the House by Clark, and reported by him from the post office committee in March. This bill, with a few amendments, is incorporated in the report. The only amendment in the bill is that the master to exceed $1,000 per annum, except in the city of New York, which salary shall remain as now fixed, and no salary of any postmaster, when the appointment is non-presidential, shall be reduced by compensation here established, until the next readjustment, below the sum of $1,000. The report compromises the appropriation for compensation for letter carriers, fixed at the amount of $10,000, and the item for compensation to postmasters is compromised by fixing the amount at $7,000,000. The committee recommends that the House concur in the Senate amendments increasing the amount of special agents from $10,000 to $15,000, and the item for compensation of postal service is similarly compromised in this report by the substitution of $1,000,000 for the amount between the figures of the two Houses.

Centennial Parade.

PHILADELPHIA, 3.—Strangers are flocking to town in multitudes.

The Centennial parade of the Grand Army of the Republic which took place this morning was one of the imposing demonstrations witnessed since the opening of the exposition.

About 5,000 men in line, including veteran soldiers from all parts of the country. All carried banners and worn uniforms, and were greeted with cheers all along the line of march.

Torchlight Procession.

PHILADELPHIA, 3.—There was an immense torchlight procession last night.

The route was several miles long, and the procession was crowded on Broad Street alone, estimated at half a million. What a display of torches, and what a display of illuminations and festooned triumphal arches, which had not been used in public demonstrations since the Exposition of 1826.

Among the distinguished participants in the festivities were Governor Hayes and Hartranft, Dom Post, President of the Senate, Count Rochambeau, Minister Thornton, etc.

The procession was considerably delayed, and it was not until midnight that the head of the line reached Independence Hall, where many helped to swell the sea of humanity that was there.

The entire vicinity was as bright as day, and amidst the hurrahs and the waving of the stars and stripes, the torches of the thousands of people who were gathered there, the scene was perfectly dazzling.

Fifty-eight thousand people visited the Exposition to-day.

Shaking hands over the Chasm.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., 3.—The Mayor has sent the following dispatch:

"The people of Montgomery, the birth place of the Confederate Government, through the courtesy of the Centennial Commission, extend a cordial and fraternal greeting to all people, with the earnest prayer for the perpetuation of concord and brotherly feeling throughout our land."

L. L. Mosses, Mayor.

Terrific Storm.

PORT MADISON, Iowa, 3.—A terrific storm visited this city last evening, lasting about fifteen minutes.

The St. Joseph Catholic church was completely demolished by the falling of the steeple, which fell into the street, and the other churches are more or less damaged.

The Park House is a total wreck. Almost every house in the city sustains serious damage, and about 200 dwellings are uninhabitable. Nearly all the shade trees are either broken off or uprooted. The damage is estimated at $200,000. No loss of life.

Republican Non-Insulating Convention.

NEW ORLEANS, La., 3.—The Republican insulating committee is trying to get the meeting adjourned until Wednesday after making the following nominations: Governor, S. B. Packard; Lt. Governor, C. C. Anthony; Superintendent of Public Education, W. G. Brown.
