SALT LAKE CITY, FEB. 15, 1909.

A PROTEST.

The [the legislator] is assured by the best friends of the party, the best friends of the state, and the best friends of the Mormon people, that the Cannon bill if enacted into law, will cause the defeat of the party in the strongest counties, will hurt the material and moral interests of the state, and will badly compromise the Mormon people.

We do not care a great deal about anything a paper in the service of the saloon interests may say in favor of the saloon. It is paid for. But we quite these lines, to register an earnest protest against the cowardly insinuation that the "Mormon" people are under any obligation to the liquor dealers and their soul-destroying allies.

The Church, at the October conference, by unanimous vote of those present obligated its members to do all in their power to influence the legislators, then not yet elected, to pass a law closing the saloons, decreasing the sale of intoxicants and enforcing Sunday closing.

These stormy days everybody rubbers. There are no "problem novels" in polite literature. It's the kitchen cabinet that keeps the political pot boiling.

Our remarks on the bill for the restoration of additional normal scholarships at the University have raised the question as to whether or not we are in favor of this measure. Most certainly we are.

prospective teachers for the state? The answer is that the teachers thus educated are required to sign a contract to teach for a period equal to the time for which free tuition is allowed.

In all other vocations and professions, the enterprise is private. The state is not directly responsible for results. The state, in its public school system, not only educates the teacher, but provides the money, for his remuneration.

The fact that teaching is poorly paid and is at present more or less of a philanthropic vocation has made it necessary on the part of the state to offer special inducements to young men and women to enter that profession.

According to the Idaho Daily Statesman the real estate association at Payette, Idaho, has passed resolutions protesting against the appointment of a Church member to the office of commissioner of immigration, on the plea that the commissioner if not free from any dominating church influence may locate people and colonies in one locality to the detriment of others.

California having ceased to shout Nevada has ceased to echo. President-elect Taft has carried the South, socially at least.

TO THE CITIZENS OF UTAH.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 10, 1909. Will prohibition give us lower or higher taxes? It will be profitable to know some of the causes of a high tax levy in our state.

Every year in the United States, there are 16,000 children left homeless and deserted by their parents, with little or no money to support them.

By granting license to sell liquor, city and state derive money with which to pay their expenses, and in this way reduce the amount collected by direct taxation from the people.

During my travels in the east this year, I have endeavored to get some information first hand, on this vital question, which our taxpayers must settle for themselves.

Mr. Wm. Batty, a business man, who knows conditions in Missouri, said to me yesterday, we have about 80 dry counties in this state out of 120; population here is higher than that of property and lower taxes; more bank deposits, less crime, and in many of our poorhouses there is not a single inmate.

said the doctor, with a sigh, the saloons are open again, it is common to have two or three murders a day, and the city is as bad as ever. I have been spending some time in the Cook county hospital, Chicago, it has 1,800 beds, full all the time, and kept up by taxation of the people.
