

GEORGE DUNFORD

GIVES HIMSELF UP TO RELEASE HIS WIFE—HE IS SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY.

In February, 1885, an indictment was found against George Dunford, of this city, charging him with unlawful cohabitation. About the same time, his wife, Mrs. Eliza Dunford, evaded the officers in their efforts to serve a subpoena upon her as a witness, after being informed of the nature of the document, for which action she was arrested and held to answer for contempt of court. At the time of these proceedings the defendant was absent from the Territory.

It having been understood that the action against Mrs. Dunford might be quashed by the defendant giving himself up and pleading guilty, he appeared in the Third District Court this afternoon, and admitted that the allegation in the indictment was true.

F. S. Richards, on behalf of Mr. Dunford, requested the Court to take into consideration the fact that the defendant was advanced in years, was in delicate health, and had given the prosecution no trouble.

Mr. Dunford then came forward, and in reply to questions by the Court, stated that he would be 64 years old on Dec. 15, 1886; through exposure he had become subject to rheumatism, from which he was a severe sufferer; as to his financial condition he had met with several heavy losses in recent years.

When the Court asked the defendant whether he had any promise to make as to his conduct, the reply was that it would be utterly impossible for him to make any promise that would be against his children—his own flesh and blood.

To the inquiry of the Court as to whether he would give any assurance that in future he would live only with his lawful wife, Mr. Dunford replied that it was utterly impossible for him to make any promise as to his future conduct.

The Court then sentenced the defendant to imprisonment for six months, and to pay a fine of $150 and costs. He went to the penitentiary this afternoon.

At the conclusion of these proceedings, Mr. Dickson moved that the contempt case against Mrs. Eliza Dunford be dismissed. The court issued an order to that effect.

A BIG SCHEME.

THE UTAH MIDLAND RAILWAY COMING.

Readers of the News will remember an item which appeared in these columns some two months ago, concerning the advent and subsequent departure of a railroad surveying party, several conjectures as to where they were going and what they were to do when they got there being afloat. These questions were all set at rest this morning by the filing of articles of incorporation of the "Utah Midland Railroad" with Secretary Thomas and the issuance of a certificate thereupon. The authorized capital is $5,000,000, and at the rate of $1,000 paid up for each mile of road, $250,000 at least must have already been paid in, as it is contemplated that the road will cover the corresponding distance. The road, which is to be broad gauge, will run from the Colorado State line on White River via Salt Lake to Ogden. The incorporators are—Salt Lake City, John Lawrence, Caleb W. West, W. S. McCornick, P. H. Lauman, F. H. Auerbach, J. A. Groesbeck, O. J. Salisbury, H. W. Lawrence, E. H. Murray, G. S. Erb; Colorado Springs—President J. J. Hagaman, Vice-President Orlando Metcalf, and General Manager D. B. Robinson, General Solicitor Henry T. Rogers and H. D. Fisher of the Colorado Midland. The directors are the incorporators from Colorado Springs, and W. S. McCornick and E. H. Murray of Salt Lake City. President Hagaman, of the Colorado road will likely be President of the new corporation.

It is the intention to have the Utah Midland connect directly with the Colorado namesake, which runs through a large portion of the western part of that State, and between the two organizations there will of course be a strong business affinity, each not only operating for the benefit of the other, but under different name, being in fact one and the same thing.

There are two surveying parties in the field, one in Utah, the other in Colorado, but the exact route from end to end has not yet been definitely determined. Whichever path may be chosen, one thing is tolerably certain—that it is a big enterprise. The traffic between Utah and Colorado is at present in its infancy, though by no means a small matter; and it will increase with additional facilities, besides which, way-business will be considerable. Of course work will go right ahead and the road be completed as soon as energy and capital can do it. The total cost is estimated, we understand, at from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000.

Another Search.—Just before 7 o'clock on Saturday evening, Marshal Dyer, accompanied by Deputies Vandercook, Pratt and a number of others, called at the residence of President Joseph E. Taylor. The place was surrounded, and all the approaches from either direction carefully guarded. The Marshal and Mr. Vandercook made a search of the premises, flour bins, cupboards, boxes, fireplaces, etc., being thoroughly investigated. One stubborn fireboard, which had been swelled by the damp, refused to give way to the deputy's efforts at prying with a fire shovel, and was allowed to remain in its place. The cellar under the building was made an object of careful inquiry, every nook and corner being closely examined for a "subterranean passage" which the officers declared they had been reliably informed connected the place with the "great unknown." They finally concluded, however, that no station leading to the "Underground" was located there. The coffin factory also received careful consideration, and the Marshal and his force retired as quietly as they came, without having attained the object of their visit. The warrant of arrest which was presented was for Joseph E. Taylor, who was not at home, however, and gave the offense with which he is charged as unlawful cohabitation. Mrs. Taylor and a number of others in the neighborhood were subpoenaed to appear as witnesses to-morrow (Friday) morning at the grand jury room.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills that flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.
