

THE EVENING NEWS.

Monday, January 20, 1873.

PRICE OF GOLD.

Corrected Daily by BANK OF DEPARTMENT.
CALT LAKE CITY, January 20, 1873.
Buying at $1.11; selling at $1.12.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THERMOMETER 55° in the shade at one o'clock to-day.

THEATRE.—A pretty good house assembled at the Theatre on Saturday evening to see the development of a long and very good programme. First there was "That Blessed Baby," in which Mr. Graham and Miss Walters were immensely funny. Then the song by Miss George Dawson, which was encores. The "French Spy" followed, and much of it went off in rattling style. Miss Walters made a whanisome if not a dashing "Colonel DeCoursey." The combat with "Mohamed," Mr. Thorne, was a capital feature. Miss Kent played her trio of characters with excellent pantomime, but her very petite figure was against her, and did not improve her appearance on the stage, neither was there any necessity for such excessive quantities of outer apparel as Mrs. Margaret Toney Bavan was using. The curtain was drawn by Miss Jessie McGill was encored, and in the "Frisky Cobbler," Mrs. Margaret Malton, Toone, and Hornsey, and Miss St. John rendered this popular afterpiece in a manner that secured the plaudits of the house.

This evening the grand love drama of "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented. Mr. W. J. Coggswell as "Romeo," Miss Kent (owing to the indisposition of Miss Walters) as "Juliet," Mr. Graham as "Mercutio," Mr. Thorne as "Star Lawrence," Mr. Marquis as "Peter."

The benefit of Professor G. J. Thomas, announced for Friday next, is postponed.

EPIDEMIC.—We are informed that the epizootic is spreading with great rapidity, that most of the animals in the principal stables are down with it, and that Wells, Farn & Co's teams are so extensively affected that that firm has been under the necessity of hiring animals. Besides the above, the horses of a large number of citizens are suffering from the disease.

OUT.—The notorious Jack Biegan is again at liberty. Application was made to Judge Elias Smith, by Mr. A. Miner, for a writ of habeas corpus; and on Saturday afternoon, which was granted, returnable at five o'clock of the same day, and he was taken before the Judge and released.

It will be remembered that Biegan was charged with the killing of "Ned Doyle," and in the days of his judicial confinement, he was committed by Justice Clinton, to the District instead of the Probate Court. This happened something over a year ago. The prisoner was confined for some time at Salt Lake, and then sent to him his cap just previous to the turning over of Territorial prisoners from the custody of the officers of the United States to those of the Territory, brought about by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, and particularly Deputy Territorial Marshal, B. Grocott, Biegan into custody, on a gubernatorial requisition, at Denver, and brought him to this city, where, owing to the fact that no Grand Jury for the Federal District Court had been empaneled, the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case given, he has remained in custody.

"SUBSCRIBER" sends the following—

I would like to invite, through the news paper, an eminent person to publish the best plan for organizing stores— to define the details of the duties of the various officers, particularly those of Secretary and Treasurer; in fact to give any information whatever to the general conduct of business in stores, also to state what is the best work on book-keeping adapted to such business. I am of opinion that such information would con-serve a general benefit among the Saints as well as to Subscribers."

Home Missionary Appointments.

SUNDAY, JAN. 20th, BOUNTIFUL.—Elders R. Miller, R. F. Neelen, Isaac Groo, Geo. Teadale and H. W. Neibert.

BIG COTTONWOOD (Brinton's Ward)—Elders John Van Cott, W. G. Young, D. Candalas, Thos Taylor and M. B. Shipp were ordained.

Elders N. Felt, S. A. Woolsey, John Nicholson, G. Swan, and W. A. McMaster.

SUNDAY, FEB. 3rd, SOUTH COTTONWOOD (Brinton's Ward)—Elders R. Miller, R. F. Neelen, Isaac Groo, Thos. Taylor, Milo Andrus and Samuel Neisen.

NEFF'S DISTRICT (Brinton's Ward)—Elders John Van Cott, M. B. Shipp, G. Swan and W. A. McMaster.

SUNDAY, FEB. 10th, FARMINGTON—Milo Andrus and Isaac Groo.

Meetings commencing at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The Elders named are requested to be punctual in filling the above appointments.

Saints from adjoining districts and wards are cordially invited to attend.

The Home Missionary meetings for Sugar House Ward are postponed till further notice, and the Elders who were selected to be there on February 10th are released from the appointment.

REUBEN MILLER, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into consideration, these amounts not only appear abominably unreasonable, but simply farcical.

The amount of stock disposed of has been estimated, some asserting that it could not be less than 3,000 head. Admitting that the number would not exceed 2,000 head, and estimating the animals at $40 a head, the extent of the alleged depredations would foot up to $80,000.

Livingston, in his report to Z. C. M. I. and its Branches, states, "the above is the only amount of stock taken in the Territory."

Mr. H. B. Coggswell, per R. F. N.

How Is It?—A number of the individuals under indictment for alleged participation in the wholesale cattle stealing arrangements at Corinne, arraigned, we understand, in town on Saturday. There is one thing in connection with these cases that does not seem very clear. It must be unhesitatingly admitted that the charges made against the individuals indicted are of an exceedingly grave character, and should the parties be proved guilty of complicity in the wholesale robberies which, it is asserted, have been perpetrated on resident citizens for many miles around Corinne, as well as strangers passing in that vicinity, they are liable, according to the law, to receive penalties of a very severe character. However, a man is supposed to be innocent until proved otherwise. What seems to be as "clear as mud" to the understandings of reflecting people is the releasing of certain parties against whom indictments have been found on what appears to us to be an exceedingly small amount of bail, namely, two on $1,000 each, and another on $500. When the nature of the charges is taken into