TO DRAIN WEST SALT LAKE

City Engineer Kelsey Reports Plans and Figures.

It Would Cost $35,000 but Would Save the West Part of Town from Drowning Floods.

City Engineer Kelsey last night presented to the City Council a report of plans and the cost of improving the drainage system west of the city. The report deals with an extension of the surplus canal to the Great Salt Lake, in pursuance of instructions from the Council. The report was as follows:

If the canal was of uniform section throughout, it would discharge during high water at 100 feet above sea level about one-half the surplus water is retained north of the channel, obstructed at various points by bridges, culverts, walls, etc., so that the drainage, therefore, reducing the discharge about 30 per cent.

I have also received the necessary data to determine the approximate discharge of the Jordan river during extreme high water, and find it to be about 3,000 cubic feet per second.

As far as whether the surplus canal, if extended to the Great Salt Lake, would affect the water level of the Jordan, the engineer of the western portion of the city to the Bureau, in my opinion, it would not, but if the present surplus were to be entirely removed, the water level would carry about one-third of the volume of water discharged by the Jordan river during high water, and the Great Salt Lake would then afford an efficient means of preventing the inundation of the lower portion of the city.

The engineer submitted a resolution providing that the poll tax in the Eighteenth Ward be devoted to the repair of the Jordan river, and the Great Salt Lake.

He also submitted a resolution authorizing the present surplus canal and extending it to the lake.

He also submitted a resolution authorizing the present surplus canal from the Jordan river to the Great Salt Lake, exclusive of the eastern portion of the city.

The engineer also submitted a resolution authorizing the city to pay the expenses of the surveyor, John W. Morris, and his expenses, arrangements were made by which ladies receive treatment, as required in the privacy of their own homes. Address, 101 Main Street, Salt Lake City, W. H. Arnold, Manager.

of right of way, $20,000 additional cost of extending the canal from Colby's mouth to the Great Salt Lake, exclusive of cost of way, $20,000, making a total of $100,000.

The report was referred to a special committee consisting of Commissioners Lee, Pinman, Allen, Callister, Dashiell and Bowery, the first named to represent the city, to confer with the board of county commissioners.

PERMIT REFERRED BACK.

The improvement crews and machinery were sent to the city, and reported upon a temporary permit issued to the Phoenix Power Company of Oregon to string wires along a route agreed upon with the northern, or the southern, side of the canal. The permit to recommend the granting of the permit was signed at 10 a.m. meeting held on Friday night. The city attorney recommended that the permit be granted, as the electric company agreed to operate within 500 feet of wires carrying a voltage of 2,000, and that the telephone companies should be allowed to place their lines parallel to those of the permit.

After a little discussion the recommendation was referred back to the committee.

LADIES' CLUB ROOM.

A resolution by Burks and Murray, requesting the use of rooms in the Inter-American Hotel for the joint meeting of the two clubs, was carried by a vote of 8 to 6.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A claim of City Engineer Kelsey for $200 expenses incurred in defending himself and his wife against recent charges was referred to the finance committee.

The committee on entertainment recommended the passage of an ordinance licensing slot machines. Unanimously carried.

More submitted a resolution providing that the poll tax in the Eighteenth Ward be devoted to the repair of the Jordan river.

The city attorney submitted draft of an ordinance creating a school district in the vicinity of the Emerson school, in the southwestern portion of the city. Referred to the committee on streets.

An ordinance was passed levying a tax for the year on Second South street between Second and Fifth East streets.

The bill-pulling ordinance was taken up and read three times, after which it was postponed for one week.

Another bill-pulling ordinance was introduced by the city attorney, that the expenses of his department for the month of October aggregated $1,113.00. Filed.

Oscar Grossart et al asked that the bill-pulling ordinance be extended to Main Street. Referred to committee on waterworks.

Arch Williams asked that the sum of $1,000 be appropriated for the construction of a new bridge over the Jordan river between Ogden and Salt Lake City, 1891 and 1892, he said, as it was largely misapplied.

Referred to committee on claims.

Exponent for November.

The current issue of the Women's Exponent is before us, and like its predecessor is a number replete with articles of interest on "The Rights of the women of Zion and the rights of the women of all nations." Its editorials are strong and touch upon important topics, and it contains other items especially designed to draw off the interest of our own sex.

In the Hawaiian Islands he had good health and great energy. His military career, which led him to all the bands in the group where there are church members. He was well known in the community, and his other returned missionaries speak highly of the kindness shown by the Hawaiians. Since April, 1894, he has been working in the mission, and says he is well. The number of new baptisms has been 54, and 450 children blessed. The return journey to the United States was a difficult one through rough weather.

Elder Louis L. Fisher also has been engaged in missionary work on the island of Maui, and returned to the United States in May 1896, and returned to Hawaii. He found much pleasure in his missionary duties. For two years he taught school, and recently was elected to the Board of Education.

The returned missionaries from the Hawaiian Islands report all the missionaries now there are in excellent health and spirits.

THE JUST BOY.

A State Over It! Thinks He Is in San Francisco.

The secretary of the State prison thinks he has information which may lead to the recovery of John Joe, the missing boy, whose father, John O. Joe, of Ravinia, Wyoming, was in this city some time ago searching for him.

The source of the prison clerk's information is from a country boy, having run away from the State prison the morning of his release, published in the Standard of November 15, stated to the secretary that he was almost certain that the boy sought after was none other than a lad now in the State prison who was giving trouble to the State Warden, Andrew A. King. The convicts say that the lad was at one time in the State Industrial school at Ogden, but then ran away, ran away again, and had to be sent to the State reformatory where he would in all probability have been required to remain there until attaining his majority, and was never seen by either of the court.

Mr. Joe, the father of the missing boy, will be communicated with, and it is expected that he will be here soon to find his son. John Joe returned to his home in Ravinia, Wyoming, to his wife, Anna, and their two sons, John and Charles, who are now 10 and 8 years old.

Mr. Joe is a teacher in the public schools in Ravinia, and has been successful in his work and one that will give many a woman the opportunity to recover the health that has been destroyed by the influences or ignorant use of stimulants or opium during periods of sickness.
