OLYMPIA, W. T., Nov. 14.—Angus McLane is in jail here charged with arson and murder. He was the lessee of the Kneeland Hotel at Shelton. On Saturday night he saturated the closets with coal oil, set fire to the building and then, with a cigar in his mouth, calmly watched it burn. He did not arouse the guests, but all of them except one escaped in their night clothes, but lost all their effects. Harry Connor, sleeping in the centre of the house was burned to death. McLane tried to make out that his wife fired the premises, but she was able to PROVE AN ALIBI.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—An intermediate passenger by the steamer State of Indiana named Charles Chowastch, alias Hanover, was arrested today at Greenock for having in his possession four dynamite cartridges each seven inches long and one inch in diameter and a gutta percha tube eighteen inches long with copper caps attached.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14.—C. C. Crecilius, cashier of the Fifth National Bank, made application in the United States court to be released from custody on his own recognizance on the second charge by Examiner Forman. Crecilius was released on Friday on $15,000 bail, and that night was arrested on another charge. Bank Examiner Forman says he will have him arrested on new information each time he secures his release. The judge refused to grant the release pending the action of the grand jury, which now has the case

UNDER ADVISEMENT.

DENVER, Nov. 14.—Chas. E. Henry, a gambler, 19 years old, shot and killed Effie More, a song and dance girl about the same age, at the Palace Variety Theatre, in the lower part of the city, a few minutes after 11 tonight. Henry had fallen in love with the girl and about a week ago asked her to marry him. She consented. Today he learned that she had a husband, went to the theatre, called her to a box, locked the door and fired five shots, two striking the breast and passing through the body. She died instantly. The murderer gave himself up and was lodged in jail.

GALVESTON, Nov. 14.—A Brownsville special says: The three noted Mexican bandits who, in October, kidnapped Señor Barres, a wealthy ranchero of Texas, and held him until a ransom of $1,500 was paid, were captured by the Mexican police yesterday.

A ROBBER CONFESSES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — Captain Harris of the first cavalry and acting superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park, has informed the Secretary of the Interior of the arrest of William James, charged with the robbery of a stage in the park on the 14th of July last. After his arrest James made a full confession and was turned over to the civil authorities for trial.

French Affairs.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The Temps, Nationale and Liberte announce that the preliminary examination in the case of M. Wilson has resulted in a demand for his prosecution. The statement has created a sensation in the legislative chambers, as it is considered to involve the resignation of President Grevy.

The Journal des Debats says President Grevy declares he will not resign even if the Chamber of Deputies votes that Wilson must submit to trial.

Three of the persons charged with connection with the legion of honor decoration scandal have been arrested. General d'Andlau was sentenced to prison for five years and a fine of 3,000 francs, and deprived of all civil and political rights. General d'Andlau has never appeared for trial. Mme. Ratizi was sentenced to four months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of 2000 francs. Mme. Courteille was condemned to two months' imprisonment. Stienvieur was acquitted.

Gladstone on the Riot.

LONDON, Nov. 14. — Gladstone, replying to the secretary of the London Radical Club, wrote as follows;

"I think you will expect me to meet your request by an explicit answer, expressing the best judgment which I am able to form on the deplorable disturbance of yesterday. As I understand the matter, the home secretary stated on Saturday that he intended to prevent yesterday's meeting on Trafalgar Square, and believed that its prevention was within the limit of his powers. The question is one of great moment to the inhabitants of London. It will be generally felt that the state of the law in regard to it ought to be promptly tested and ascertained. Until a decision can be had, it is the duty of every citizen from all resistance to the decision of the government, which is clearly entitled to administer the laws according to what it may be advised is their true construction. Such abstinence, I think, is due the high character of London for the maintenance of public order, and to the respect we owe the law and the mode in which it is usually applied; but I must add that an appeal to Parliament on the grave and solemn subjects now raised by the proceedings of the government in Ireland would suffer disastrous prejudice were it to be associated in any manner by those who make the appeal with metropolitan disturbances."

In response to numerous offers Mr. Matthews proposes to enroll householders as special constables to assist the police against the mob if rioting is threatened on next Sunday, and Mr. Bradlaugh, M. P., has written a letter protesting against the prohibition of meetings in Trafalgar Square. He denounces what he calls the of the government, but appeals to the workmen to leave the right of holding meetings to the law courts and the vindication of Parliament. His advice, combined with that of Gladstone, will be potent with the radical clubs. already the feeling among these clubs is that enough has been done to test the question.

Destructive Fires.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—A fire tonight in Brooklyn destroyed the station of the Culver, Prospect Park & Coney Island road, the stables of the Vanderbilt Avenue horse car line, a large quantity of feed, rolling stock and a number of horses, with a total loss of more than $200,000. The fire broke out in the cellar of the building. On the second floor were 157 horses, which became so frantic that all attempts to save them had to be abandoned. Twenty-five engines were on the ground and worked at high pressure. Despite this fact, two three story brick buildings on the opposite side of Ninth Avenue were burned. In addition to the loss of the stable, the Vanderbilt Avenue line loses 157 horses, a thousand bales of hay, 23 cars and a quantity of feed. The horses and property are insured for $67,000.

AT LITTLE ROCK.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 14.—A fire originated this afternoon in the Union Cotton Compress building, at the foot of Main Street, caused by a boy dropping a cigarette. The fire spread rapidly, soon enveloping the Martin warehouse, across the street, ran down an alley, also filled with cotton, crossing Scott and nearly to the corner of Cumberland, threatening the gas works, Metropolitan block, south of Compress; Hornbrook & Townsend block on the east, and the rear of every building as far as Scott Street was on fire in twenty minutes. The wind changing saved not less than half a dozen blocks. The total loss is estimated at $300,000. Insurance unknown as yet.

The Crown Prince.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—A medical conference was held at the palace yesterday. The household physicians, with Drs. Wegner, Bergman, Gerhardt, Iaboldt and Schmidt were present. Count Von Stolberger presided. A paper was signed declaring the throat affliction of the crown prince to be cancerous, and that a partial removal of the larynx is no longer advisable. The complete excision of the larynx is recommended by the physicians at San Remo, but in the meantime is objected to by the crown prince. The Emperor asked that the crown prince return to Berlin at the earliest possible moment, but the crown princess objected to her husband traveling in his present condition. Today the Emperor, after an interview with Prince William, held a FAMILY COUNCIL.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—It is reported the crown prince, on being approached on the subject of the proposed operation on his throat, said: "As long as the Kaiser lives I shall not submit to the operation. I propose to let my old father have some hope, and I will not risk hastening a catastrophe by undergoing a dangerous operation."

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Pope has written to Crown Prince Frederick William a letter expressing his earnest wishes for the prince's recovery.

SAN REMO, Nov. 14.—Dr. MacKenzie reports that the cancerous growth in the crown prince's throat is not due to excessive smoking, and concurs in the doctrine that the germ of the cancer is born with the individual. The crown prince has stated that if he decides to submit to an operation, only Dr. MacKenzie shall perform it.

The Irish.

DUBLIN, Nov. 14.—Detectives tracked Mr. Cox, M. P., to his hiding place at Kildysart, and pursued him. He escaped in a small boat, however, and took refuge on an island.

While a number of prisoners were being removed from Kilrush jail today, a fight took place between the inhabitants of the town and the police. Several persons were badly injured. The riot act was read before order could be restored.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, in a speech at Bristol tonight, intimated that he would resume official work at an early date. He praised Balfour for the manner in which he had performed the duties of an onerous office, and condemned the Gladstonians for countenancing agitation in Ireland.

Sporting Notes.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 14.—The joint committee of the National League and American Association on the revision of base ball rules is in session in this city.

After the adjournment of the afternoon session the committee announced that they had agreed upon the following changes in

THE RULES:

Rule 22, section 3, referring to score cards, has been amended so that any contemplated changes in teams after the publication of the score cards must be submitted to the umpire for his approval. Rule 44, relating to batsmen, has been changed as follows: If on third strike, the ball hits the person or clothing of the batsman, he shall be declared out; also, after two strikes have been called if the batsman attempts to make a foul hit he shall be declared out. Rule 4 has been changed from four strikes and five balls. The rule allowing a base hit on five balls has been abolished, but five balls will still be considered a factor in earned runs. A base taken on balls will be credited against the pitcher in the error column. Rule 50, in section 4, has been amended allowing the runner to take a base if the ball

HITS THE UMPIRE.

If the ball struck by the batsman hits the base runner after an attempt has been made to "field it" the runner shall not be declared out. If the base runner knocks down or runs into a fielder he shall be declared out.

A resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a representative from each association to prepare an official report of the changes, to send to their respective organizations.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 14.—The fifteen-round glove contest between John P Clow of Denver and Frank Glover of Chicago, was declared a draw. Clow evidently had the best of the fight, however, when time was called. Both men were in good condition.

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 14.—St. Louis Browns 9, Chicagos 2. Both clubs left for California.

THOROUGHBRED SALE.

LEXINGTON, Nov. 14.—Easton's Kentucky Tattersalls was opened in this city today. A large number of prominent horsemen were present. Sixty-nine head of horses were sold for $46,980. They comprised thoroughbred stallions, brood mares, yearlings, two and one-year-olds, among which was Rossington, which is, perhaps, the most highly bred horse that has crossed the sea. He is half brother to Ormonde, the greatest race horse ever bred in the British Islands. Rossington's sire, Doncaster, was the sire of Bendor, the sire of Ormonde.

The Emperor Napoleon on Acting.

Talma used to go out of this way to get into a passion when people talked to him on the art of declamation, and he claimed quite rightly, that he acted and did not declaim. Why should one not act Cinna, Britannicus, Mithridate, leaving them the human and simple character? Why should not one pour one's blood, one's own blood, into these statue-like figures?

"I like you," said Napoleon to Talma, "because you are always the personage you represent. Pompey, Cæsar, Augustus, that sly politician, can never have resembled actors who were always on the stage, and absorbed in getting themselves applauded. They used to speak and not to declaim; and even at the tribune or at the head of armies they were orators, and not actors. Look you, Talma," added the emperor; "you often come to see me in the morning. You meet a number of people. There are princesses who have been robbed of their lovers, princes who have lost their dominions, kings of yesterday whom war has brought to the top, victorious generals who are hoping for or asking for crowns. There are round me deluded ambitions, ardent rivalries, catastrophes, sorrows concealed at the bottom of the heart, afflictions which force their way into notice. Certainly there is plenty of tragedy; my palace is full of it, and I myself am assuredly the most tragic of the figures of the time. Well, do you see us raise our arms in the air, study our gestures, assume attitudes, affect airs of greatness? Do you hear us utter cries? Doubtless no. We speak naturally, as each one speaks when he is inspired by an interest or a passion. So did the people who, before us, occupied the world's stage and also played tragedy on the stage. These are the examples to follow."—London Athenæum.

Plain Talk Upon a Plain Topic.

With all our modern progressive ideas on the culture and training of children, one duty seems to be to a great degree overlooked, namely—that of answering children's questions regarding the origin of their existence. There is the advent of a little stranger in your home, and as your wondering child of a dozen years perhaps, asks you the old, old question, you no doubt answer her as your mother answered you, and as her mother replied to the same question. But can you—living in these days, dare you looking into her earnest, truthful, face—tell her what you knew, and what she will soon know, is false? From whose lips do you wish her to hear of such sacred things? Who else so devoutly as you, can enter that "holy of holies" with your child? What a tie to bind her to you in tender confidence have you lost! But you let her go from you unfinished and thoughtful, and if you have never done so before, you have now made a little wall separation between yourself and her, and when her curiosity is again excited, she will appeal to some one else—some other child perhaps, as curious as herself, possibly not as innocent, and a heart that should have remained as pure as the morning, is contaminated with vain imaginations, until the eyes that once looked into yours for a truthful answer, would quail before you, could you read the thoughts of a guilty heart

"But" a mother once said to me, "all the bloom and innocence of her girlhood would be gone."

I assure you it may be gone past your recall, though you seek it "earnestly and with tears," unless you attend to this duty yourself. You do not know what a bond of sympathy such a course will establish between yourself and your child, and all through her life the memory of your words will have a sweet, restraining influence, the value of which will be untold and immeasurable. It will be easier than you think; a few words at first will suffice, assuring her that a subject so tender and sacred must not be spoken of to others, and that when any such question troubles her again, she must come to you only for the truth which you will tell her. Thus, gradually, her mind at rest on the subject, it will be absorbed as healthfully as any other knowledge, and depend upon it, a child thus reared will never impart nor receive the ordinary school girl information. And if such instruction should be given your daughters, it is equally important that in the safe shelter of the home nest, under your own roof tree, your boys should receive the same, from the lips which laid the first benediction upon their heads. It will be a christening of love, a baptism of purity, and a safeguard against temptation for lack of which so many of our youth wander into "ways which lead down to death."

Give your children their lesson in physiology. Tell them of the wonderful organs of reproduction, and how through all vegetable and animal life the law is the same; and as your own heart is pure, dear mother, so will be your teaching. And though the human heart is depraved by nature, there is enough of the divine "seed remaining" to prevent a child taught at its mother's knee from making any depraved use of such knowledge. Rather it will be one of the steps which shall lead him "from nature up to nature's God," and shall teach him to say devoutly, "How wonderful are thy works, O, God!"—Good Housekeeping.

Sparrows a "Virulent Curse."

In the lastannual report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is an elaborate discussion of the English sparrow, by Dr. C Hart Merriam, the ornithologist to the department, in which some startling facts are brought out. It seems that this bird, first introduced into America 37 years ago, has now established itself in 35 states and five territories. This remarkable diffusion is due largely to two causes, first, its amazing fecundity, and second, the protection afforded it, either directly or indirectly, by man. Dr. Merriam showed that, as a rule, five or six broods of young are reared each season, and that the progeny of a single pair (assuming for the sake of computation that all live) may in ten years reach the remarkable figures of 275,716,983,698. Among the evil deeds imputed to this feathered foreigner are the driving away of native birds, the injury of garden, grain and fruit crops, the defilement of public and private buildings, etc. Dr. Merriam advises that laws be enacted looking towards its extermination and in conclusion makes the following recommendations to the general public:

The English sparrow is a curse of such virulence that it ought to be systematically attacked and destroyed before it becomes necessary to deplete the public treasury for the purpose, as has been done in other countries. By concerted action and by taking advantage of its gregarious habits, much good may be accomplished with little or no expenditure of money.

The sparrow is a cunning, wary bird, and soon learns to avoid the means devised by man for its destruction. Hence much sagacity must be displayed in the warfare against it. In the winter time, if food is placed in some convenient spot at the same hour each day for a week, the sparrows will gather in dense flocks to feed, and large numbers may be killed at one time by firing upon them with small shot. Sometimes they may be successfully netted or trapped, but this requires considerable skill. They may be poisoned by grain soaked in tincture of nux vomica or in Fowler's solution of arsenic, but poisoning is attended with some danger, and should be attempted only by official killers.

Large numbers may be destroyed and increase prevented by the systematic destruction of their nests, eggs, and young. By the aid of an iron rod and hook, set in the end of a long pole, most of their nests can be reached. This method promises most satisfactory results.

They may be easily driven from their roosting-places by disturbing them on several successive nights. A very efficacious method is to throw water upon them when at roost. In cities where hose-pipe is available the process is simple and certain. They may be kept out of ornamental vines in the same manner, particularly in the breeding season, when a thorough soaking not only disconcerts the old birds and kills their young, but at the same time does much good by wetting the vines and washing out their filth.

Bill Nye and His Writings.

A literary character who has come to us from the west is making his way in popularity. Edgar William Nye, as his parents called him before he gave himself the simple name of Bill Nye, has in all probability the largest daily mail of any newspaper man in New York. His letters are mainly from humorist cranks, a newly developed fraternity of fools, who send him long pieces in as close imitation of his own writings as they are able to produce. These are sent neither for publication nor, as he says, "as an evidence of good faith," but simply, as it appears, to let the funny man know that others can be as funny as himself, or, at least, can try to be. Bill Nye looks exactly like the pictures that are made as caricatures of him. He has enough hair at each side of his head for an affidavit that he is not bald, but the whole top of his head and his face are hairless. He is tall and heavy and as ungraceful as Mark Twain. He is in the neighborhood of forty-one or forty-two, has a wife and boy and lives in more than mere comfort in an uptown brown stone house. His salary is $100 a week and he has contracted to write for only one journal. He produces two articles, always one for Sunday and a shorter one for the middle of the week, and this he considers enjoying a vacation. Before he came to New York he wrote something every day. He makes acquaintances slowly, but is exceedingly liked by all who know him, mainly because he is thoroughly democratic and plain in his manners.—New York Letters.
